

1227592

MISCELLANIES.

T H E
T H I R D V O L U M E.

L O N D O N :

Printed for BENJAMIN MOTTE and CHARLES
BATHURST, at the Middle-Temple-Gate,
Fleetstreet; LAWTON GILLIVER and JOHN
CLARKE, at Homer's Head over-against
St. Dunstan's Church, Fleetstreet.

MDCCXXXVI.

THE BOOKSELLERS

ADVERTISEMENT.

OF the following Volume, we need only say, that it contains the Remainder of those Miscellaneous Pieces, which were in some sort promised in the Preface to the former Volumes, or which have been written since. The Verses are paged separately, that they may be added to that

ADVERTISEMENT.

Volume which wholly consists of Verse, and the Treatise of the Bathos placed in their stead in This. The Reader may be assured no other Edition is either Genuine or Compleat; and that they are all the Things of this Kind which will ever be Printed by the same Hands.

There are in this Volume, as in the former, one or two small pieces by other Hands.

THE

THE NARRATIVE
OF

Dr. Robert Norris,

CONCERNING

The Strange and Deplorable FRENZY of Mr. Y—N—D—IS, an Officer of the Custom-house.

IT is an acknowledg'd Truth, that nothing is so dear to an honest Man as his good Name, nor ought he to neglect the just Vindication of his Character, when it is injuriously attack'd by any Man. The Person I have at present Cause to complain of, is indeed in very melancholy Circumstances, it having pleas'd God to deprive him of his Senses, which may extenuate the Crime in Him. But I should be wanting in my Duty, not only to my self, but also to my Fellow Creatures, to whom my Talents may prove of Benefit, shou'd I suffer my Profession or Honesty to be undeservedly aspers'd. I have therefore resolv'd to give the Publick an account of all that has past between that unhappy Gentleman and my self.

On the 20th instant, while I was in my Closet pondering the Case of one of my Patients, I heard a Knocking at my Door, upon opening of which enter'd an old Woman with Tears in her Eyes, and told me, that without my Assistance her Master would be utterly ruin'd. I was forc'd to interrupt her Sorrow by enquiring her Master's Name and Place of Abode. She told me he was one Mr. D--is an Officer of the Custom-house, who was taken ill of a violent Frenzy last April, and had continu'd in those melancholy Circumstances with few or no Intervals. Upon this I ask'd her some Questions relating to his Humour and Extravagancies, that I might the better know under what Regimen to put him, when the Cause of his Distemper was found out. Alas, Sir, says she, this Day fortnight in the Morning a poor simple Child came to him from the Printer's; the Boy had no sooner enter'd the Room, but he cry'd out, the Devil was come. He often stares ghastfully, raves aloud, and mutters between his Teeth the Word Cator, or Cato, or some such thing. Now, Doctor, this Cator is certainly a Witch, and my poor Master is under an evil Tongue: for I have heard him say Cator has bewitch'd the whole Nation. It pitied my very Heart, to think that a Man of my Master's Understanding and great Scholarship, (who, as the Child told me, had a Book of his own in Print,) should talk so outrageously. Upon this I went and laid out a Groat for a Horseshoe, which is at this time nail'd on the Threshold of his Door; but I don't find my Master is at all the better for it; he perpetually starts and runs to the Window when any one knocks, crying out, S'death! a Messenger from the French King! I shall die in the Bastile.

Child

Having said this, the Old Woman presented me with a Viol of his Urine; upon Examination of which I perceiv'd the whole Temperament of his Body to be exceeding hot. I therefore instantly took my Cane and my Beaver, and repair'd to the Place where he dwelt.

When I came to his Lodgings near Charing-Cross, up three Pair of Stairs, (which I should not have publish'd in this manner, but that this Lunatick conceals the Place of his Residence on purpose to prevent the good Offices of those charitable Friends and Physicians, who might attempt his Cure) when I came into the Room, I found this unfortunate Gentleman seated on his Bed, with Mr. Bernard Lintott, Bookseller, on the one side of him, and a grave elderly Gentleman on the other, who, as I have since learnt, calls himself a Grammarian; the Latitude of whose Countenance was not a little eclips'd by the Fulness of this Peruke. As I am a black lean Man, of a pale Visage, and hang my Clothes on somewhat slovenly, I no sooner went in but he frown'd upon me, and cry'd out with violence, 'S'death, a Frenchman! I am betray'd to the Tyrant! who cou'd have thought the

' Queen would have deliver'd me up to France
 • in this Treaty, and least of all that you, my ' Friends, wou'd have been in a Conspiracy
 ' against me ?'----- Sir, said I, here is neither Plot nor Conspiracy, but for your advantage.
 The Recovery of your Senses requires my Attendance, and your Friends sent for me on no other account. I then took a particular Survey of his Person, and the Furniture and Disposition of his Apartment. His Aspect was furious, his Eyes were rather fiery than lively, which he roll'd about in an uncommon manner. He often o-pen'd his Mouth, as if he wou'd have utter'd some Matter of Importance, but the Sound seem'd lost inwardly. His Beard was grown, which they told me he would not suffer to be shav'd, believing the modern Dramatick Poets had corrupted all the Barbers in the Town to take the first Opportunity of cutting his Throat. His Eye-brows were grey, long, and grown together, which he knit with Indignation when any thing was spoken, insomuch that he seem'd not to have smooth'd his Forehead for many Years. His Flannel Night-Cap which was exceedingly begrim'd with Sweat and Dirt, hung upon his Left Ear ; the Flap of his Breeches dangled between his Legs, and the Rolls of his Stockings fell down to his Ankles.

I observ'd his Room was hung with old Tape- stry, which had several Holes in it, caus'd, as the Old Woman inform'd me, by his having cut out of it the Heads of divers Tyrants, the Pierce-ness of whose Visages had much provoked him.
 On all sides of his Room were pinned a great many many Sheets of a Tragedy called Cato, with Notes on the Margin with his own Hand. The Words Absurd, Monstrous, Execrable, were every where written in such large Characters, that I could read them without my Spectacles. By the Fire-side lay Three-farthings-worth of Small-coal in a Spectator, and behind the Door huge Heaps of Papers of the same Title, which his Nurse inform'd me she had convey'd thither out of his sight, believing they were Books of the Black Art; For her Master never read in them, but he was either quite mop'd, or in raving Fits; There was nothing neat in the whole Room, except some Books on his Shelves very well bound and gilded, whose Names I had never before heard of, nor I believe are any where else to be found; such as Gibraltar, a Comedy; Remarks on Prince Arthur; the Grounds of Criticism in Poetry; an Essay on publick Spirit. The only one I had any Knowledge of was a Paradise Lost, interleav'd. The whole Floor was cover'd with Manuscripts, as thick as a Pastry-Cook's Shop on a Christmas Eve. On his Table were some Ends of Verse and of Candles; a Gallipot of Ink with a yellow Pen in it, and a Pot of half-dead Ale cover'd with a Longinus.

As I was casting my Eyes round on all this odd Furniture with some Earnestness and Astonishment, and in a profound Silence, I was on a sudden surpriz'd to hear the Man speak in the following manner:

"Beware, Doctor, that it fare not with you as
"with your Predecessor the famous Hippocrates,
"whom the mistaken Citizens of Abdera sent

“ for in this very manner to cure the Philoso“ pher Democritus ; he return'd full of Admi“ ration at the Wisdom of that Person whom “ he had suppos'd a Lunatic. Behold, Doctor,
 “ it was thus Aristotle himself and all the great “ Antients spent their Days and Nights, wrapt “ up in Criticism, and beset all around with their “ own Writings. As for me, whom you see in “ the same manner, be assur'd I have none other “ Disease than a Swelling in my Legs, whereof
 “ I say no more, since your Art may further “ certify you.

I began now to be in hopes that his Case had been misrepresented, and that he was not so far gone, but some timely Medicines might recover him. I therefore proceeded to the proper Queries, which with the Answers made to me, I shall set down in Form of Dialogue, in the very Words they were spoken, because I would not omit the least Circumstance in this Narrative ; and I call my Conscience to witness, as if upon Oath, that I shall tell the Truth without addition or diminution.

Doct. Pray, Sir, how did you contract this Swelling ?

Denn. By a Criticism.

Doct. A Criticism ! that's a Distemper I never read of.

Denn. S'Death, Sir, a Distemper ! It is no
 Distemper, but a Noble Art. I have sat fourteen Hours a Day at it ; and are you a Doctor, and don't know there's a Communication between the Legs and the Brain ?

Doct. What made you sit so many Hours, Sir ?

Denn.

Denn. Cato, Sir.

Doct. Sir, I speak of your Distemper, what gave you this Tumor?

*Denn. Cato, Cato, Cato. **

Old Wom. For God's sake, Doctor, name not this evil Spirit, 'tis the whole Cause of his Madness: Alas, poor Master's just falling into his Fits.

Mr. Lintott. Fits! Z----- what Fits! A Man may well have Swellings in his Legs, that sits writing fourteen Hours in a Day. He got this by the Remarks.

Doct. The Remarks! what are those?

Denn. S'Death! have you never read my Remarks? I will be damn'd if this Dog Lintott ever publish'd my Advertisements.

Mr. Lint. Z-----! I publish'd Advertisement upon Advertisement; and if the Book be not read, it is none of my fault, but his that made it. By G---, as much has been done for the Book, as cou'd be done for any Book in Christendom.

Doct. We do not talk of Books, Sir; I fear those are the Fuel that feed his Delirium; mention them no more. You do very ill to promote this Discourse.

I desire a Word in private with this other Gentleman, who seems a grave and sensible Man: I suppose, Sir, you are his Apothecary.

Gent. Sir, I am his Friend.

* Remarks on Cato, published by Mr. D. in the Year
1712.

Dr. I doubt it not. What Regimen have you observ'd since he has been under your Care? You remember, I suppose, the Passage of Celsus, which says, if the Patient on the third Day, have an Interval, suspend the Medicaments at Night? let Fumigations be used to corroborate the Brain; I hope you have upon no Account promoted Sternutation by Hellebore.

Gent. Sir, no such matter, you utterly mistake.

Dr. Mistake: Am I not a Physician? and shall an Apothecary dispute my Nosstrums — You may perhaps have fill'd up a Prescription or two of Ratcliff's which chanced to succeed, and with that very Prescription injudiciously prescrib'd to different Constitutions, have destroy'd a Multitude. Pharmacopola componat, Medicus solus prescribat. Fumigate him, I say, this very Evening, while he is relieved by an Interval.

Denn. S'Death, Sir, my Friend an Apothecary! a base Mechanic! He who, like my self, professes the noblest Sciences in the Universe, Criticism and Poetry. Can you think I would submit my Writings to the Judgment of an Apothecary! By the Immortals, he himself inserted three whole Paragraphs in my Remarks, had a Hand in my Publick Spirit, nay, assisted me in my Description of the Furies, and infernal Regions in my Appius.

Mr. Lintott. He is an Author; you mistake the Gentleman, Doctor, he has been an Author these twenty Years, to his Bookseller's Knowledge, and no Man's else.

Denn.

Denn. Is all the Town in a Combination ? Shall Poetry fall to the Ground ? Must our Reputation be lost to all foreign Countries ? O Destruction ! Perdition ! * Opera ! Opera ! As Poetry once rais'd Cities, so when Poetry fails Cities are overturn'd, and the World is no more.

Dr. He raves, he raves ; Mr. Lintott, I pray you pinion down his Arms, that he may do no Mischief.

Denn. O I am sick, sick to Death !

Dr. That is a good Symptom, a very good Symptom. To be sick to Death (say the modern Physicians) is an excellent Symptom. When a Patient is sensible of his Pain, 'tis half a Cure. Pray, Sir, of what are you sick ?

Denn. Of every thing, Of every thing. I am sick of the Sentiments of the Diction, of the Protasis, of the Epitasis, and the Catastrophe ----- Alas, what is become of the Drama, the Drama ?

Old Wom. The Dram, Sir ? Mr. Lintott drank up all the Gin just now ; but I'll go fetch more presently !

Denn. O shameful Want, scandalous Omision ! By all the Immortals, here is no Peripætia, no Change of Fortune in the Tragedy ; Z----- no Change at all.

Old Wom. Pray, good Sir be not angry, I'll fetch Change.

Dr. Hold your Peace, Woman, his Fit increases, good Mr. Lintott hold him.

* He wrote a Treatise proving the Decay of Publick Spirit to proceed from Italian Opera's.

Mr.

Mr. Lintott. Plague on't ! I am damnably afraid they are in the right of it, and he is mad in earnest. If he should be really mad, who the Devil will buy the Remarks ?

[Here Mr. Lintott scratch'd his Head.]

Doct. Sir, I shall order you the cold Bath to morrow——Mr. Lintott, you are a sensible Man ; pray send for Mr. Verdier's Servant, and as you are a friend to the Patient, be so kind as to stay this Evening whilst he is cupp'd on the Head. The Symptoms of his Madness seem to be desperate ; for Avicen says, that if Learning be mix'd with a Brain that is not of a Consistency fit to receive it, the Brain ferments till it be totally exhausted. We must eradicate these undigested Ideas out of the Perecranium, and reduce the Patient to a competent Knowledge of himself.

Denn. Caitiffs stand off, unhand me, Miscreants ! Is the Man whose whole Endeavours are to bring the Town to Reason mad ? is the Man who settles Poetry on the Basis of Antiquity mad ? Dares any one assert there is a Peripætia in that vile Piece that's foisted upon the Town for a Dramatick Poem ? That Man is mad, the Town is mad, the World is mad. See Longinus in my right Hand, and Aristotle in my left ; I am the only Man among the Moderns that support them. Am I to be assassinated ; and shall a Bookseller, who hath liv'd upon my Labours, take away that Life to which he owes his Support ?

Gent. By your Leave, Gentlemen, I apprehend you not. I must not see my Friend ill treated ; treated; he is no more affected with Lunacy than my self: I am also of the same Opinion as to the Peripætia — Sir, by the Gravity of your Countenance and Habit, I would conceive you to be a graduate Physician; but by your indecent and boisterous Treatment of this Man of Learning, I perceive you are a violent sort of Person, I am loath to say Quack, who rather than his Drugs should lie upon his own Hands, would get rid of them, by cramming them into the Mouths of others: The Gentleman is of good Condition, sound Intellectuals, and unerring Judgment: I beg you will not oblige me to resent these Proceedings.

THESE were all the Words that pass'd among us at this Time; nor was there need for more, it being necessary we should make use of Force in the Cure of my Patient.

I privately whisper'd the old Woman to go to Mr. Verdier's in Long-Acre, with Orders to come immediately with Cupping Glasses; in the mean time, by the Assistance of Mr. Lintot, we lock'd his Friend into a Closet, (who 'tis plain from his last Speech was likewise touch'd in his Intellects) after which we bound our Lunatick Hand and Foot down to the Bedsted, where he continued in violent Ravings, notwithstanding the most tender Expressions we could use to persuade him to submit to the Operation, till the Servant of Verdier arrived. He had no sooner clapp'd half a dozen Cupping Glasses on his Head, and behind his Ears, but the Gentleman above-mention'd bursting open the Closet, ran furiously ly upon us, cut Mr. D—is's Bandages, and let drive at us with a vast Folio, which forely bruis'd the Shin of Mr. Lintott; Mr. John D—is also starting up with the Cupping Glasses on his Head, seized another Folio, and with the same dangerously wounded me in the Skull, just above my right Temple. The Truth of this Fact Mr. Verdier's Servant is ready to attest upon Oath, who, taking an exact Survey of the Volumes, found that which wounded my Head to be Gruterus's Lampas Critica, and that which broke Mr. Lintott's Shin was Scaliger's Poetices. After this, Mr. John D—is strengthen'd at once by Rage and Madnefs, snatch'd up a Peruke-Block, that stood by the Bedside, and wielded it round in so furious a Manner, that he broke three of the Cupping Glasses from the Crown of his Head, so that much Blood trickled down his Visage — He look'd so ghastly, and his Passion was grown to such a prodigious Height, that my self, Mr. Lintott, and Verdier's Servant were oblig'd to leave the Room in all the Expedition imaginable.

I took Mr. Lintott home with me, in order to have our Wounds dress'd, and laid hold of that Opportunity of entering into Discourse with him about the Madnefs of this Person, of whom he gave me the following remarkable Relation:

That on the 17th of May, 1712, between the Hours of 10 and 11 in the Morning, Mr. John D—is enter'd into his Shop, and opening one of the Volumes of the Spectator, in the large Paper, did suddenly, without the least Provocation, tear out that of No—where the Author treats of Poetical Justice, and cast it into the Street. That the said Mr. John D— is on the 27th of March, 1712, finding on the said Mr. Lintott's Counter a Book called an Essay on Criticism, just then publish'd, he read a Page or two with much Frowning, till coming to these two Lines;

of

Some have at first for Wits, then Poets past, Turn'd Criticks next, and prov'd plain Fools at last.

He flung down the Book in a terrible Fury, and cried out, By G—d he means Me.

That being in his Company on a certain Time, when Shakespear was mention'd as of a contrary Opinion to Mr. Dennis, he swore the said Shakespear was a Rascal, with other defamatory Expressions, which gave Mr. Lintott a very ill Opinion of the said Shakespear.

That about two Months since, he came again into the Shop, and cast several suspicious Looks on a Gentleman that stood by him, after which he desired some Information concerning that Person. He was no sooner acquainted that the Gentleman was a new Author, and that his first Piece was to be publish'd in a few Days, but he drew his Sword upon him, and had not my Servant luckily catch'd him by the Sleeve, I might have lost one Author upon the spot, and another the next Sessions.

Upon recollecting all these Circumstances, Mr. Lintott was entirely of Opinion, that he had been mad for some Time; and I doubt not but this whole Narrative must sufficiently convince vince the World of the excess of his Frenzy. It now remains, that I give the Reasons which obliged me in my own Vindication to publish this whole unfortunate Transaction.

In the first place, Mr. John D—is had industriously caused to be reported that I enter'd into his Room Vi & Armis, either out of a Design to deprive him of his Life, or of a new Play called Cariolanus, which he has had ready for the Stage these Four Years.

Secondly, He hath given out about Fleetstreet and the Temple, that I was an Accomplice with his Bookseller, who visited him with intent to take away divers valuable Manuscripts, without paying him Copy-Money.

Thirdly, He hath told others, that I am no Graduate Physician, and that he had seen me upon a Mountebank Stage in Moorfields, when he had Lodgings in the College there.

Fourthly, Knowing that I had much Practice in the City, he reported at the Royal Exchange, Custom-house, and other Places adjacent, that I was a foreign Spy, employ'd by the French King to convey him into France; that I bound him Hand and Foot; and that, if his Friend had not burst from his Confinement to his Relief, he had been at this Hour in the Bastile.

All which several Assertions of his are so very extravagant, as well as inconsistent, that I appeal to all Mankind whether this Person be not out of his Senses. I shall not decline giving and producing further Proofs of this Truth in open Court, if he drives the Matter so far. In the mean time

time I heartily forgive him, and pray that the Lord may restore him, to the full Enjoyment of his Understanding: So wisheth as becometh a Christian,

Robert Norris, M. D.

*From my House on Snow-hill, July
the 30th, 1713,*

God Save the Queen.

⌞ A full

A full and true..

ACCOUNT

OF A

Horrid and Barbarous

REVENGE by POISON,

On the Body of

Mr. EDMUND CURLL,

Bookseller;

With a faithful C O P Y of his

Last WILL and TESTAMENT.

HISTORY furnishes us with Examples of many Satyrical Authors who have fallen Sacrifices to Revenge, but not of any Booksellers that I know of, except the unfortunate Subject of the following Paper; I mean Mr. Edmund Curll, at the Bible and Dial in Fleetstreet, who was yesterday poison'd by Mr. Pope, after having liv'd many Years an

an Instance of the mild Temper of the British Nation.

Every Body knows that the said Mr. Edmund Curll, on Monday the 26th Instant, publish'd a Satyrical Piece, entituled Court Poems, in the Preface whereof they were attributed to a Lady of Quality, Mr. Pope, or Mr. Gay; by which indiscreet Method though he had escap'd one Revenge, there were still two behind in reserve.

Now on the Wednesday ensuing, between the Hours of Ten and Eleven, Mr. Lintott, a neigb'ring Bookseller, desired a Conference with Mr. Curll about settling a Title-Page, inviting him at the same Time to take a Whet together. Mr. Pope, (who is not the only Instance how Persons of bright Parts may be carry'd away by the Instigation of the Devil) found Means to convey himself into the same Room, under Pretence of Business with Mr. Lintott, who it seems is the Printer of his Homer. This Gentleman with a seeming Coolness, reprimanded Mr. Curll for wrongfully ascribing to him the aforesaid Poems: He excused himself by declaring that one of his Authors (Mr. Oldmixon by Name) gave the Copies to the Press, and wrote the Preface. Upon this Mr. Pope (being to all appearance reconcil'd) very civilly drank a Glass of Sack to Mr. Curll, which he as civilly pledged; and tho' the Liquor in Colour and Taste differed not from common Sack, yet was it plain by the Pangs this unhappy Stationer felt soon after, that some poisonous Drug had been secretly infused therein.

About

About eleven a Clock he went home, where his Wife observing his Colour chang'd, said, Are you not Sick, my Dear? He reply'd, Bloody Sick; and intontinently fell a vomiting and straining in an uncommon and unnatural Manner, the Contents of his vomiting being as green as Grass. His Wife had been just reading a Book of her Husband's printing concerning Jane Wenham, the famous Witch of Hertford, and her Mind misgave her that he was bewitch'd; but he soon let her know that he suspected Poison, and recounted to her, between the Intervals of his Yawnings and Reachings, every Circumstance of his Interview with Mr. Pope.

Mr. Lintott in the mean time coming in, was extreemly affrighted at the sudden Alteration he observ'd in him: Brother Curll, says he, I fear you have got the Vomiting Distemper; which (I have heard) kills in half an Hour. This comes from your not following my Advice, to drink old Hock in a Morning, as I do, and abstain from Sack, Mr. Curll reply'd in a moving Tone, Your Author's Sack I fear has done my Business. Z — ds, says Mr. Lintott, my Author! — Why did not you drink old Hock? Notwithstanding which rough Remonstrance, he did in the most friendly Manner press him to take warm Water; but Mr. Curll did with great Obstinacy refuse it; which made Mr. Lintott infer, that he chose to die, as thinking to recover greater Damages.

All this Time the Symptoms encreas'd violently, with accute Pains in the lower Belly. Brother Lintott, says he, I perceive my last Hour approach- approaching ; do me the friendly Office to call my Partner, Mr. Pemberton, that we may settle our Worldly Affairs. Mr. Lintott, like a kind Neighbour was hastening out of the Room, while Mr. Curll rav'd aloud in this Manner : If I survive this, I will be reveng'd on Tonson ; it was he first detected me as the Printer of these Poems, and I will reprint these very Poems in his Name. His Wife admonish'd him not to think of Revenge, but to take care of his Stock and his Soul : And in the same Instant, Mr. Lintott (whose Goodness can never be enough applauded) return'd with Mr. Pemberton. After some Tears jointly shed by these humane Booksellers, Mr. Curll being (as he said) in his perfect Senses though in great bodily Pain, immediately proceeded to make a verbal Will (Mrs. Curll having first put on his Night-Cap) in the following Mannner.

Gentlemen, in the first Place, I do sincerely pray Forgiveness for those indirect Methods I have pursued in inventing new Titles to old Books, putting Authors Names to things they never saw, publishing private Quarrels for publick Entertainment ; all which, I hope will be pardoned, as being done to get an honest livelihood.

I do also heartily beg Pardon of all Persons of Honour, Lords Spiritual and Temporal, Gentry, Burgeesses, and Commonalty, to whose Abuse I have any or every way contributed by my Publications, particularly, I hope it will be consider'd sider'd, that if I have vilify'd his Grace the Duke of Marlborough, I have likewise aspers'd the late Duke of Ormond; if I have abused the honourable Mr. Walpole, I have also libell'd the Lord Bolingbroke? so that I have preserv'd that Equality and Impartiality which becomes an honest Man in Times of Faction and Division.

I call my Conscience to witness, that many of these Things which may seem malicious were done out of Charity; I having made it wholly my business to print for poor disconsolate Authors, whom all other Booksellers refuse. Only God blefs Sir Richard Blackmore! you know he takes no Copy-money.

The second Collection of Poems, which I groundlessly call'd Mr. Prior's, will sell for Nothing, and hath not yet paid the Charge of the Advertisements, which I was obliged to publish against him: Therefore you may as well suppress the Edition, and beg that Gentleman's pardon in the name of a dying Christian.

The French Cato, with the Criticism showing how superior it is to Mr. Addison's, (which I wickedly ascribed to Madam Dacier) may be suppress'd at a reasonable Rate, being damnably translated.

I protest I have no Animosity to Mr. Rowe, having printed part of Callipædia, and an incorrect Edition of his Poems without his Leave, in Quarto. Mr. Gildon's Rehearsal or Bays the Younger, did more harm to me than to Mr. Rowe; though upon the Faith of an honest Man, Man, I paid him double, for abusing both him and Mr. Pope.

Heaven pardon me for publishing the Trials of Sodomy in an Elezevir Letter! but I humbly hope, my printing Sir Richard Blackmore's Essays will atone for them. I beg that you will take what remains of these last, (which is near the whole Impression, Presents excepted) and let my poor Widow have in exchange the sole Propriety of the Copy of Madam Mascranny.

[Here Mr. Pemberton interrupted, and would by no means consent to this Article, about which some Dispute might have arisen unbecoming a dying Person, if Mr. Lintott had not interposed and Mr. Curll vomited.]

What this poor unfortunate Man spoke afterwards, was so indistinct, and in such broken Accents, (being perpetually interrupted by Vomitings) that the Reader is intreated to excuse the Confusion and Imperfection of this Account.

Dear Mr. Pemberton, I beg you to beware of the Indictment at Hick's Hall, for publishing Rochester's bawdy Poems; that Copy will otherwise be my best Legacy to my dear Wife, and helpless Child.

The Case of Impotence was my best Support, all the last long Vacation.

[In this last Paragraph Mr. Curll's Voice grew more free, for his Vomitings abated upon his Dejections, and he spoke what follows from his Closet.]

For the Copies of Noblemen's and Bishop's Last Wills and Testaments, I solemnly declare I printed them not with any Purpose of Defamation; but merely as I thought those Copies lawfully purchased from Doctors Commons, at One Shilling a piece. Our trade in Wills turning to small Account, we may divide them blindfold.

For Mr. Manwaring's Life, I ask Mrs. Oldfield's Pardon: Neither His nor my Lord Hali-fax's Lives, though they were of service to their Country, were of any to me: But I was resolved since I could not print their Works while they liv'd, to print their Lives after they were dead.

While he was speaking these Words Mr. Oldmixon enter'd. Ah! Mr. Oldmixon (said poor Mr. Curll) to what a Condition have your Works reduced me! I die a Martyr to that unlucky Preface. However, in these my last Moments I will be just to all Men; you shall have your third Share of the Court Poems, as was stipulated. When I am dead, where will you find another Bookseller? Your Protestant Packet might have supported you, had you writ a little less scurrilously; there is a Mean in all things.

Here Mr. Lintott interrupted. Why not find another Bookseller, Brother Curll? and then took Mr. Oldmixon aside and whisper'd him: Sir, As soon as Curll is dead, I shall be glad to talk with you over a Pint at the Devil.

Mr. Curll now turning to Mr. Pemberton, told him, he had several Taking Title-Pages that that only wanted Treatises to be wrote to them; and earnestly desired that when they were writ, his Heirs might have some Share of the Profit of them.

After he had said this, he fell into horrible Gripings, upon which Mr. Lintott advis'd him to repeat the Lord's Prayer. He desir'd his Wife to step into the shop for a Common Prayer Book, and read it by the help of a Candle without Hesitation. He clos'd the Book, fetch'd a Groan, and recommended to Mrs. Curll to give Forty Shillings to the poor of the Parish of St. Dunstan's, and a Week's Wages advance to each of his Gentlemen-Authors, with some small Gratuity in particular to Mrs. Centlivre.

The poor Man continued for some Hours with all his disconsolate Family about him in Tears, expecting his final Dissolution; when of a sudden he was surprizingly relieved by a plentiful foetid Stool, which obliged them all to retire out of the Room. Notwithstanding, it is judged by Sir Richard Blackmore, that the Poison is still latent in his Body, and will infallibly destroy him by slow Degrees, in less than a Month. It is to be hoped, the other Enemies of this wretched Stationer will not further pursue their Revenge, or shorten this small Period of his miserable Life.

A FURTHER ACCOUNT

Of the most

Deplorable Condition

O F

Mr. EDMUND CURLL,
Bookseller.

THE Publick is already acquainted with the Manner of Mr. Curll's Imposition, by a faithful tho' unpolite Historian of Grubstreet. I am but the Continuer of his History; yet I hope a due Distinction will be made between an undignify'd Scribler of a Sheet and half, and the Author of a Three-penny stitch'd Book, like my self.

* Wit (saith Sir Richard Blackmore) proceeds from a Concurrence of regular and exalted Ferments, and an Affluence of Animal Spirits rectify'd and refin'd to a Degree of Purity. On the contrary, when the igneous Particles rise with the vital Liquor, they produce an abstra-

Blackmore's Essays, Vol. 1.

ction

tion of the rational Part of the Soul, which we commonly call Madness. The Verity of this Hypothesis, is justify'd by the Symptoms with which the unfortunate Mr. Edmund Curll, Bookseller, hath been afflicted ever since his swallowing the Poison at the Swan Tavern in Fleetstreet. For tho' the Neck of his Retort, which carries up the Animal Spirits to the Head, is of an extraordinary length; yet the said Animal Spirits rise muddy, being contaminated with the inflammable Particles of this uncommon Poison.

The Symptoms of his Departue from his usual Temper of Mind, were at first only speaking civilly to his Customers, singeing a Pig with a new purchased Libel, and refusing Two-and-Nine-Pence for Sir Richard Blackmore's Essays.

As the poor Man's Frenzy encreas'd, he began to void his Excrements in his Bed, read Rochester's bawdy Poems to his Wife, gave Oldmixon a slap on the Chops, and would have kiss'd Mr. Pemberton's A-- by Violence.

But at last he came to such a pass, that he would dine upon nothing but Copper-Plates, took a Clyster for a whipt Syllabub, and made Mr. Lintott eat a Suppository for a Raddish with Bread and Butter.

We leave it to every tender Wife to imagine, how sorely all this afflicted poor Mrs. Curll: At first she privately put a Bill into several Churches, desiring Prayers of the Congregation for a wretched Stationer distemper'd in Mind. But when she was sadly convinc'd that his Misfortune was publick to all the World, she writ the following Letter to her good Neighbour Mr. Lintott.

A true Copy of Mrs. Curll's Letter to Mr. Lintott.

Worthy Mr. Lintott.

‘ YOU, and all the Neighbours know too
 ‘ well, the Frenzy with which my poor ‘ Man is visited. I never perceived he was out ‘ of himself till that melancholy Day that he ‘ thought he was poison’d in a Glass of Sack;
 ‘ upon this, he ran a Vomiting all over the ‘ House, nay, in the new-wash’d Dining-room.
 ‘ Alas! this is the greatest Adversity that ever ‘ besel my poor Man, since he lost one Testicle
 ‘ at School by the bite of a black Boar. Good ‘ Lord! if he should die, where should I dis‘ pose of the Stock? unless Mr. Pemberton or
 ‘ you would help a distressed Widow; for God ‘ knows he never published any Books that ‘ lasted above a Week, so that if we wanted
 ‘ daily Books, we wanted daily Bread. I can ‘ write no more, for I hear the Rap of Mr.
 ‘ Curll’s Ivory-headed Cane upon the Counter.
 ‘ —Pray recommend me to your Pastry-Cook,
 ‘ (who furnishes you yearly with Tarts in ex‘ change for your Papers) for Mr. Curll has ‘ disoblig’d ours, since his Fits came upon him;
 ‘ —before that, we generally liv’d upon bak’d ‘ Meats.— He is coming in, and I have but ‘ just time to put his Son out of the way for ‘ fear

Condition of Edmund Curll. 31

' fear of Mischief: So wishing you a merry
' Easter, I remain your

Most humble Servant,

C. Curll.

' P. S. As to the Report of my poor Husband's ' stealing a Calf, it is really groundless, for he
' always binds in Sheep.

But return we to Mr. Curll, who all Wednesday continued outrageously mad. On Thursday he had a lucid Interval, that enabled him to send a general Summons to all his Authors. There was but one Porter who cou'd perform this Office, to whom he gave the following Bill of Directions where to find 'em. This Bill, together with Mrs. Curll's Original Letter, lie at Mr. Lintott's Shop to be perus'd by the Curious.

Instructions to a Porter how to find Mr. Curll's Authors.

' A T a Tallow-chandlers in Petty France
' ' half way under the blind Arch: Ask
' for the Historian.

' At the Bedsted and Bolster, a Musick-house
' in Morefields, two Translators in a Bed to' gether.

‘ At the Hercules and Still in Vinegar yard,
 ‘ a School-master with Carbuncles on his Nose.

‘ At a Blacksmith’s Shop in the Fryars, a ‘ Pindarick Writer in red Stockings.

‘ In the Calendar Mill Room at Exeter-
 ‘ Change, a Composer of Meditations.

‘ At the Three Tobacco-pipes in Dog and ‘ Bitch Yard, one that has been a Parson, he ‘ wears a blue Camblet-coat trim’d with black :
 ‘ my best Writer against Reveal’d Religion.

‘ At Mr. Summers a Thief-catchers, in ‘ Lewknors Lane, the Man that wrote against ‘ the Impiety of Mr. Rowe’s Plays.

‘ At the Farthing-Py-House in Tooting Fields,
 ‘ the young Man who is writing my new Pa- ‘ storals.

‘ At the Laundresses, at the Hole in the ‘ Wall in Curfitors Alley, up three pair of Stairs,
 ‘ the Author of my Church History——if his ‘ Flux be over——you may also speak to the ‘ Gentleman who lies by him in the Flock Bed,
 ‘ my Index-maker.

‘ The Cook’s Wife in Buckingham Court ;
 ‘ bid her bring along with her the Similes that ‘ were lent her for her next new Play.

‘ Call

‘ Call at Budge Row for the Gentleman you
‘ use to go to in the Cockloft; I have taken a‘ way the Ladder, but his Landlady has it in ‘ keeping.

‘ I don’t much care if you ask at the Mint
‘ for the old beetle-brow’d Critick, and the ‘ purblind Poet at the Alley over-against St.
‘ Andrews Holborn. But this as you have ‘ time.

All these Gentlemen appear’d at the Hour appointed, in Mr. Curll’s Dining Room, two excepted; one of whom was the Gentleman in the Cockloft, his Landlady being out of the way, and the Gradus ad Parnassum taken down; the other happened to be too closely watch’d by the Bailiffs.

They no sooner enter’d the Room, but all of them shew’d in their Behaviour some Suspicion of each other; some turning away their Heads with an Air of Contempt; others squinting with a Leer that shew’d at once Fear and Indignation, each with a haggard abstracted Mien, the lively Picture of Scorn, Solitude, and short Commons. So when a Keeper feeds his hungry Charge of Vultures, Panthers, and of Lybian Leopards, each eyes his Fellow with a fiery Glare: High hung, the bloody Liver tempts their Maw. Or as a Housewife stands before her Pales, surrounded by her Geese;
they fight, they hiss, they gaggle, beat their Wings, and Down is scatter’d as the Winter’s Snow,

Snow, for poor Grain of Oat, or Tare, or Barley. Such Looks shot through the Room transverse, oblique, direct; such was the stir and din, 'till Curll thus spoke, (but without rising from his Close-stool.)

‘ Whores and Authors must be paid beforehand, to put them in good Humour; therefore ‘ here is half a Crown a piece for you to drink
 ‘ your own Healths, and Confusion to Mr Addison,
 ‘ and all other Successful Writers.

‘ Ah Gentlemen! what have I not done,
 ‘ what have I not suffer’d, rather than the ‘ World should be depriv’d of your Lucubrations;
 ‘ I have taken involuntary Purges, I ‘ have been vomited, three times have I been ‘ can’d, once was I hunted, twice was my Head ‘ broke by a Grenadier, twice was I toss’d in ‘ a Blanket; I have had boxes on the Ear,
 ‘ Slaps on the Chops; I have been frightened,
 ‘ pump’d, kick’d, slander’d, and beslitten,
 ‘ —I hope Gentlemen, you are all convinc’d,
 ‘ that this Author of Mr. Lintott’s could mean ‘ nothing else but starving you, by poisoning me.
 ‘ It remains for us to consult the best and speediest
 ‘ Methods of Revenge.

He had scarce done speaking, but the Historian propos’d a History of his Life. The Exeter-Exchange-Gentleman was for penning Articles of his Faith. Some pretty smart Pindarick, (says the Red-Stocking Poet) would effectually do his Business. But the Index-maker said there was nothing like an Index to his Homer.

After

After several Debates they came to the following Resolutions.

‘ Resolv’d, That every Member of this Society, according to his several Abilities, shall contribute some way or other to the Defamation of Mr. Pope.

‘ Resolv’d, That towards the Libelling of the said Pope, there be a Sum employ’d not exceeding Six Pounds Sixteen shillings and Nine Pence (not including Advertisements.)

‘ Resolv’d, That he has on purpose, in several Passages, perverted the true ancient Heathen Sense of Homer, for the more effectual Propagation of the Popish Religion.

‘ Resolv’d, That the Printing of Homer’s Battels at this Juncture, has been the Occasion of all the Disturbances of this Kingdom.

‘ Ordered, That Mr. Barnivelt be invited to be a Member of this Society, in order to make further Discoveries.

‘ Resolv’d, That a number of effective Errata’s be raised out of Pope’s Homer (not exceeding 1746,) and that every Gentleman who shall send in one Error, for his Encouragement shall have the whole Works of this Society gratis.

‘ Resolv’d

‘ Resolv’d, That a Sum not exceeding Ten ‘ Shillings and Six pence be distributed among ‘ the Members of this Society for Coffee and ‘ Tobacco, in order to enable them the more ef‘ fectually to defame him in Coffe-Houses.

‘ Resolv’d, That towards the further lessening
 ‘ the Character of the said Pope, some Per‘ sons be deputed to abuse him at Ladies Tea-
 ‘ Tables, and that in consideration our Authors ‘ are not well dress’d enough, Mr. C——y and ‘ Mr. Ke——l be deputed for that Service.

‘ Resolv’d, That a Ballad be made against ‘ Mr. Pope, and that Mr. Oldmixon, Mr. Gil-
 ‘ don, and Mrs. Centlivre, do prepare and bring ‘ in the same.

‘ Resolv’d, That above all, some effectual ‘ Ways and Means be found to encrease the ‘ Joint Stock of the Reputation of this Society, ‘ which at present is exceeding low, and to ‘ give their Works the greater Currency;
 ‘ whether by raising the Denomination of the ‘ said Works by counterfeit Title Pages, or ‘ mixing a greater Quantity of the fine Metal
 ‘ of other Authors, with the Alloy of this ‘ Society.

‘ Resolv’d, That no Member of this Society
 ‘ for the future mix Stout in his Ale in a Morn‘ ing, and that Mr. B—— remove from the ‘ Hercules and Still.

‘ Resolv’d,

‘ Resolv’d, That all our Members, (except
 ‘ the Cook’s Wife) be provided with a sufficient ‘ Quantity of the vivifying Drops, or Byfield’s ‘ Sal Volatile.

‘ Resolv’d, That Sir R—— B—— be ‘ appointed to endue this Society with a large ‘ Quantity of regular and exalted Ferments, in ‘ order to enliven their cold Sentiments (being ‘ his true Receipt to make Wits.)

These Resolutions being taken, the Assembly was ready to break up, but they took so near apart in Mr. Curll’s Afflictions, that none of them could leave him without giving him some Advice to reinstate him in his Health.

Mr. Gildon was of opinion, That in order to drive a Pope out of his Belly, he should get the Mummy of some deceas’d Moderator of the General Assembly in Scotland, to be taken inwardly as an effectual Antidote against Anti- christ; but Mr. Oldmixon did conceive that the Liver of the Person who administred the Poison, boiled in Broth, would be a more certain Cure.

While the Company were expecting the Thanks of Mr. Curll, for these demonstrations of their Zeal, a whole pile of Sir Richard’s Essays on a sudden fell on his Head; the Shock of which in an Instant brought back his Delirium. He immediately rose up, over-turn’d the Close-stool, and besh-t the Essays (which may probably

probably occasion a second Edition) then without putting up his Breeches, in a most furious Tone he thus broke out to his Books, which his distemper'd Imagination represented to him as alive, coming down from their Shelves fluttering their Leaves, and flapping their Covers at him.

Now G-d damn all Folio's, Quarto's, Octavo's and Duodecimo's! ungrateful Varlets that you are, who have so long taken up my House without paying for your Lodging? Are you not the beggarly Brood of fumbling Journey-men; born in Garrets, among Lice and Cobwebs, nurs'd up on Grey Peas, Bullocks Liver, and Porters Ale? —Was not the first Light you saw, the Farthing candle I paid for? Did you not come before your Time into dirty Sheets of brown Paper?—And have not I cloath'd you in double Royal, lodg'd you handsomely on decent Shelves, lac'd your Backs with Gold, equipt you with splendid Titles, and sent you into the World with the Names of Persons of Quality? Must I be always plagu'd with you? Why flutter ye your Leaves, and flap your Covers at me? Damm ye all, ye Wolves in Sheeps Cloathing; Rags ye were, and to Rags ye shall return. Why hold you forth your Texts to me, ye paltry Sermons? Why cry ye, —at every Word to me, ye bawdy Poems? —To my Shop at Tunbridge ye shall go, by G——and thence be drawn like the rest of your Predecessors, bit by bit, to the Passage-House; For in this present Emotion of my Bowels, how do

do I compassionate those who have great need, and nothing to wipe their Breech with?

Having said this, and at the same time recollecting that his own was yet unwiped, he abated of his Fury, and with great Gravity apply'd to that Function the unfinish'd Sheets of the Conduct of the Earl of N.——m.

A Strange

A Strange but True

RELATION

H O W

EDMUND CURLL,
of Fleetstreet, Stationer,

Out of an extraordinary Desire of Lucre, went into Change-Alley, and was converted from the Christian Religion by certain Eminent Jews: And how he was circum-cis'd and initiated into their Mysteries.

A VARICE (as Sir Richard in the Third Page of his Essays hath elegantly observ'd) is an inordinate Impulse of the Soul towards the amassing or heaping together a Superfluity of Wealth without the least Regard of applying it to its proper Uses.

And how the Mind of Man is possessed with this Vice, may be seen every Day both in the City and Suburbs thereof. It has been always esteemed by Plato, Puffendorf and Socrates, as

as the Darling Vice of old Age: But now our young Men are turn'd Usurers and Stock-jobbers; and, instead of lusting after the real Wives and Daughters of our rich Citizens, they covet nothing but their Money and Estates. Strange Change of Vice! when the Concupiscence of Youth is converted into the Covetousness of Age, and those Appetites are now become VERNAL which should be VENEREAL.

In the first Place, let us shew you how many of the ancient Worthies and Heroes of Antiquity have been undone and ruin'd by this Deadly Sin of Avarice.

I shall take the Liberty to begin with Brutus, that noble Roman. Does not Ætian inform us that he received Fifty Broad Pieces for the Assassination of that renowned Emperor Julius Cæsar, who fell a Sacrifice to the Jews, as Sir Edmund Bury Godfrey did to the Papists?

Did not Themistocles let in the Goths and Vandals into Carthage for a Sum of Money, where they barbarously put out the other Eye of the famous Hannibal? As Herodotus hath it in his ninth Book upon the Roman Medals.

Even the great Cato (as the late Mr. Addison hath very well observ'd) though otherwise a Gentleman of good Sense, was not unfully'd by this pecuniary Contagion: For he sold Athens to Artaxerxes Longimanus for a hundred Rix-Dollars, which in our Money will amount to two Talents and thirty Sestertii, according to Mr. Demoivre's Calculation. See Hesiod in his 7th Chapter of Feasts and Festivals.

Actuated

Actuated by the same Diabolical Spirit of Gain, Scylla the Roman Consul shot Alcibiades the Senator with a Pistol, and robb'd him of several Bank Bills and Chequer Notes to an immense Value; for which he came to an untimely End, and was deny'd Christian Burial. Hence comes the Proverb incidat in Scyllam.

To come near to our own Times, and give you one modern Instance (tho' well known and often quoted by Historians, viz. Echard, Dionysius Halicarnassæus, Virgil, Horace, and others) 'Tis that, I mean, of the famous Godfrey of Bulloigne, one of the great Heroes of the holy War, who robb'd Cleopatra Queen of Egypt of a Diamond Necklace, Ear-Rings, and a Tompion's Gold Watch (which was given her by Mark Antony) all these things were found in Godfrey's Breeches Pocket, when he was kill'd at the Siege of Damascus.

Who then can wonder after so many great and illustrious Examples that Mr. Edmund Curll the Stationer, should renounce the Christian Religion for the Mammon of Unrighteousness, and barter his precious Faith for the filthy Prospect of Lucre in the present Fluctuation of Stocks.

It having been observed to Mr. Curll by some of his ingenious Authors, (who I fear are not over-charg'd with any Religion) what immense Sums the Jews had got by Bubbles, &c. he immediately turned his Mind from the Business in which he was educated, but thriv'd little, and resolv'd to quit his Shop, for Change Alley. Whereupon falling into Company

pany with the Jews at their Club at the Sign of the Cross in Cornhill, they began to tamper with him upon the most important Points of the Christian Faith, which he for some time zealously, and like a good Christian obstinately defended. They promised him Paradise, and many other Advantages hereafter, but he artfully insinuated that he was more inclinable to listen to present Gain. They took the Hint, and promis'd him that immediately upon his Conversion to their Persuasion he should become as rich as a Jew.

They made use likewise of several other Arguments, to wit,

That the wisest Man that ever was, and inasmuch the richest, beyond all peradventure, was a Jew, videlicet, Solomon.

That David the Man after God's own Heart, was a Jew also. And most of the Children of Israel, are suspected for holding the same Doctrine.

This Mr. Curll at first strenuously deny'd, for indeed he thought them Roman Catholicks, and so far was he from giving way to their Temptations, that to convince them of his Christianity he call'd for a Pork Grisking.

They now promis'd if he would poison his Wife, and give up his Grisking, that he should marry the rich Ben Meymon's only Daughter. This made some Impression on him.

They then talk'd to him in the Hebrew Tongue, which he not understanding, it was observ'd had very great Weight with him.

They

They, now perceiving that his Godliness was only Gain, desisted from all other Arguments, and attack'd him on his weak side, namely that of Avarice.

Upon which John Mendez offer'd him an Eighth of an advantagious Bargain, for the Apostles Creed, which he readily and wickedly renounced.

He then sold the Nine and thirty Articles for a Bull; but insisted hard upon Black-Puddings, being a great Lover thereof.

Joshua Parrara engag'd to let him share with him in his Bottomrye, upon this he was persuaded out of his Christian Name; but he still adher'd to Black-Puddings.

Sir Gideon Lopez tempted him with Forty Pound Subscription in Ram's Bubble; for which he was content to give up the Four Evangelists, and he was now compleated a perfect Jew, all but Black-Pudding and Circumcision; for both of which he would have been glad to have had a Dispensation.

But on the 17th of March, Mr. Curll (unknown to his Wife) came to the Tavern aforesaid. At his Entrance into the Room he perceived a meagre Man with a fallow Countenance, a black forky Beard, and long Vestment. In his right Hand he held a large Pair of Sheers, and in his Left a red hot Searing-Iron. At Sight of this, Mr. Curll's Heart trembled within him, and feign would he retire; but he was prevented by six Jews, who laid Hands upon him, and unbuttoning his Breeches threw him upon the Table, a pale pitiful Spectacle.

He

He now intreated them in the most moving Tone of Voice to dispense with that unmanly Ceremonial, which if they would consent to, he faithfully promis'd that he would eat a Quarter of Paschal Lamb with them the next Sunday following.

All these Protestations availed him nothing, for they threatned him that all Contracts and Bargains should be void unless he would submit to bear all the outward and visible Signs of Judaism.

Our Apostate hearing this, stretched himself upon his Back, spread his Legs, and waited for the Operation; but when he saw the High-Priest take up the Cleft Stick, he roared most unmercifully, and swore several Christian Oaths, for which the Jews rebuked him.

The Savour of the Effluvia that issued from him, convinced the Old Levite and all his Assistants that he needed no present Purgation, wherefore without farther anointing him he proceeded in his Office; when by an unfortunate Jerk upward of the impatient Victim, he lost five times as much as ever Jew did before.

They finding that he was too much circumcised, which by the Levitical Law is worse than not being circumcised at all, refused to stand to any of their Contracts: Wherefore they cast him forth from their Synagogue; and he now remains a most piteous, woful and miserable Sight at the Sign of the Old Testament and Dial in Fleet-street, his Wife, (poor Woman) is at this Hour lamenting over him, wringing her hands and tearing her Hair; for the barbarous
Jews

Jews still keep, and expose at Jonathan's and Garraway's, the Memorial of her Loss, and her Husband's Indignity.

PRAYER. (To save the Stamp.)

KEE P us, we beseech thee, from the Hands of such barbarous and cruel Jews, who albeit they abhor the Blood of Black-Puddings, yet thirst they vehemently after the Blood of White ones. And that we may avoid such like Calamities, may all good and well-disposed Christians be warn'd by this unhappy Wretch's woful Example to abominate the heinous Sin of Avarice, which sooner or later will draw them into the cruel Clutches of Satan, Papists, Jews, and Stock-jobbers. Amen.

GOD's

GOD's Revenge

A G A I N S T

PUNNING.

Shewing the miserable Fates of Persons addicted to this Crying Sin, in Court and Town.

MAnifold have been the Judgments which Heav'n from Time to Time for the Chastisement of a Sinful People, has inflicted on whole Nations. For when the Degeneracy becomes Common, 'tis but just the Punishment should be General: Of this kind, in our own unfortunate Country, was that destructive Pestilence, whose Mortality was so fatal, as to sweep away, if Sir William Petty may be believ'd, Five Millions of Christian Souls, besides Women and Jews.

Such also was that dreadful Conflagration ensuing, in this famous metropolis of London, which consumed, according to the Computation of Sir Samuel Morland, 100000 Houses, not to mention Churches and Stables.

Scarce

Scarce had this Unhappy Nation recover'd these Funest Disasters, when the Abomination of Play-houses rose up in this Land: From hence hath an Inundation of Obscenity flow'd from the Court and overspread the Kingdom: Even Infants disfigured the Walls of holy Temples with exorbitant Representations of the Members of Generation; nay, no sooner had they learnt to Spell, but they had Wickedness enough to Write the Names thereof in large Capitals: an Enormity observ'd by Travellers to be found in no Country but England.

But when Whoring and Popery were driven hence by the happy Revolution; still the Nation so greatly offended, that Socinianism, Arianism and Whistonism triumph'd in our Streets, and were in a manner become Universal.

And yet still, after all these Visitations, it has pleas'd Heaven to visit us with a Contagion more Epidemical, and of consequence more Fatal: This was foretold to us, First, by that unparallel'd Eclipse in 1714: Secondly, by the dreadful Coruscation in the Air this present Year: And Thirdly, by the Nine Comets seen at once over Soho-Square, by Mrs. Katherine Wadlington and Others; a Contagion that first crept in amongst the First Quality, descended to their Footman, and infused it self into their Ladies: I mean the woful Practice of PUNNING. This does occasion the Corruption of our Language, and therein of the Word of God translated into our Language, which certainly every sober Christian must tremble at.

Now

Now such is the Enormity of this Abomination, that our very Nobles not only commit Punning over Tea, and in Taverns, but even on the Lord's Day, and in the King's Chappel: Therefore to deter Men from this evil Practice, I shall give some True and Dreadful Examples of God's Revenge against Punsters.

The Right Honourable——(but it is not safe to insert the Name of an eminent Nobleman in this Paper, yet I will venture to say that such a one has been seen; which is all we can say, considering the largeness of his Sleeves:) This young Nobleman was not only a flagitious Punster himself, but was accessary to the Punning of others, by Consent, by Provocation, by Connivance, and by Defence of the Evil committed; for which the Lord mercifully spared his Neck, but as a Mark of Reprobation wryed his Nose.

Another Nobleman of great Hopes, no less guilty of the same Crime, was made the Punisher of himself with his own Hand, in the Loss of 500 Pounds at Box and Dice; whereby this unfortunate young Gentleman incurr'd the heavy Displeasure of his aged Grand-mother.

A Third of no less illustrious Extraction, for the same Vice, was permitted to fall into the Arms of a Dalilah, who may one day cut off his curious Hair, and deliver him up to the Philistines.

Colonel F——, an ancient Gentleman of grave Deportment, gave into this Sin so early in his Youth, that whenever his Tongue endeavours to speak Common Sense, he Hesitates so as not to be understood.

Thomas Pickle Gentleman, for the same Crime, banish'd to Minorca.

Muley Hamet, from a healthy and hopeful Officer in the Army, turn'd a miserable Invalid at Tilbury-Fort.

—Eustace, Esq; for the Murder of much of the King's English in Ireland, is quite depriv'd of his Reason, and now remains a lively Instance of Emptiness and Vivacity.

Poor Daniel Button, for the same Offence, depriv'd of his Wits.

One Samuel an Irishman, for his forward Attempt to Pun, was stunted in his Stature, and hath been visited all his Life after with Bulls and Blunders.

George Simmons, Shoe-maker at Turnstile in Holborn, was so given to this Custom, and did it with so much Success, that his Neighbours gave out he was a Wit. Which Report coming among his Creditors, no body would trust him; so that he is now a Bankrupt, and his Family in a miserable Condition.

Divers eminent Clergymen of the University of Cambridge, for having propagated this Vice, became great Drunkards and Tories.

From which Calamities, the Lord in his Mercy defend us all. &c. &c.

THE WONDERFUL WONDER of WONDERS.

THERE is a certain Person lately arrived at this City, whom it is very proper the World should be informed of. His Character may, perhaps, be thought very inconsistent, Improbable, and Unnatural; however I intend to draw it with the utmost Regard to Truth. This I am the better qualified to do, because he is a sort of Dependant upon our Family, and almost of the same Age; tho' I cannot directly say, I have ever seen him. He is a Native of this Country, and hath lived long among us, but what appears wonderful, and hardly credible, was never seen before, by any Mortal.

It is true, indeed, he always chuses the lowest Place in Company, and contrives it so, to keep out of Sight. It is reported, however, that in his younger Days he was frequently exposed to View, but always against his Will, and was sure to smart for it.

As to his Family, he came into the World a Younger Brother, being of six Children, the fourth in order of (1) Birth; of which the eldest is now Head of the House, the second and third carry Arms: but the two Youngest are only Footmen: Some indeed, add, that he hath likewise a Twin-Brother, who lives over-against him, and keeps a (2) Viſtualling-Houſe: He has the Reputation to be a cloſe, gripping, squeezing Fellow; and that when his Bags are full, he is often Needy; yet, when the Fit takes him, as faſt as he gets, he lets it fly.

When in Office, no one diſchargeth himſelf, or does his Buſineſs better. He hath ſometimes ſtrained hard for an Honeſt Livelihood, and never got a Bit, till every Body elſe had done.

One Practice appears very blameable in him, that every Morning he privately frequents unclean Houſes, where any modeſt Perſon would bluſh to be ſeen. And altho' this be generally known, yet the World, as Cenſorious as it is, is ſo kind to overlook this Infirmity in him. To deal Impartially, it muſt be granted, that he is too great a Lover of himſelf, and very often conſults his own Eaſe at the Expence of his beſt Friends. But this is one of his blind-Sides; and the beſt of Men I fear are not without them.

He hath been conſtituted by the higher Powers in the Station of Receiver-General, in which Employment ſome have cenſured him for playing faſt and looſe. He is likewise Overſeer of the Golden Mines, which he daily inſpects when his Health will permit him.

He was long bred under a (3) Maſter of Arts, who inſtilled good Principles in him, but theſe were

were soon Corrupted. I know not whether this deserves mention, that he is so very Capricious, as to take it for an equal Affront to talk either of kissing or kicking him, which hath occasion'd a Thousand Quarrels: However no body was ever so great a Sufferer for Faults which he neither was, nor possibly could be guilty of.

In his Religion he has thus much of the Quaker, that he stands always covered, even in the Presence of the King; in most other Points, a perfect (4) Idolater, altho' he endeavours to conceal it; for he is known to offer daily Sacrifices to certain Subterraneous Nymphs, whom he worships in an humble Posture, prone on his Face, and stript stark Naked, and so leaves his Offerings behind him, which the (5) Priests of those Goddesses are careful enough to remove upon certain Seasons, with the utmost Privacy at Midnight, and from thence maintain'd themselves and Families. In all urgent Necessities and Pressures he applies himself to these Deities, and sometimes even in the Streets and High-ways, from an Opinion that those Powers have an Influence in all Places, altho' their peculiar Residence is in Caverns under Ground. Upon these Occasions the fairest Ladies will not refuse to lend their Hands to assist him: For, altho' they are ashamed to have him seen in their Company, or even so much as to hear him Named; yet it is well known, that he is one of their constant Followers.

In Politicks, he always submits to what is uppermost, but he peruses Pamphlets on both Sides with great Impartiality, tho' seldom till every Body else have done with them.

His Learning is of a mixed kind, and he may properly be called a Helluo librorum, or another Jacobus de Voragine; tho' his Studies are chiefly confined to School-men, Commentators, and German Divines, together with Modern Poetry and Criticks: And he is an Atomick Philosopher, strongly maintaining a Void in Nature, which he seems to have fairly proved by many Experiments.

I shall now proceed to describe some peculiar Qualities, which in several Instances seem to distinguish this Person from the common Race of other Mortals.

His Grandfather was a Member of the Rump Parliament, as the Grandson is of the Present, where he often rises, sometimes grumbles but never speaks. However, he lets nothing pass willingly, but what is well digested. His Courage is indisputable, for he will take the boldest Man alive by the Nose.

He is generally the first a Bed in the Family, and the last up, which is to be lamented, because when he happens to rise before the rest, it hath been thought to forebode some good Fortune to his Superiors.

As Wisdom is acquired by Age, so by every new (6) Wrinkle in his Face, he is reported to gain some new Knowledge.

In him we may observe the true Effects and Consequences of Tyranny in a State: For, as he is a great Oppressor of all below him, so there is no Body more oppressed by those above him: Yet

Yet in his Time, he hath been so highly in Favour, that many Illustrious Persons have been entirely indebted to him for their Preferments.

He hath discovered from his own Experience the true Point wherein all human Actions, Projects, and Designs do chiefly terminate; and how mean and sordid they are at the Bottom.

It behoves the Publick to keep him quiet, for his frequent Murmurs are a certain Sign of intestine Tumults.

No Philosopher ever lamented more the Luxury, for which these Nations are so justly taxed; it hath been known to cost him (7) Tears of Blood: For in his own Nature he is far from being Profuse, tho' indeed, he never stays a Night at a Gentleman's House without leaving something behind him.

He receives with great Submission whatever his Patrons think fit to give him; and when they lay heavy Burthens upon him, which is frequently enough, he gets rid of them as soon as he can; but not without some Labour and much Grumbling.

He is a perpetual Hanger-on; yet no Body knows how to be without him. He patiently suffers himself to be kept under, but loves to be well used, and in that Case will sacrifice his Vitals to give you Ease; and he has hardly one Acquaintance for whom he hath not been Bound; yet, as far as we can find, was never known to lose any thing by it.

He is observ'd to be very (8) unquiet in the Company of a Frenchman in New Cloaths, or a young Coquett.

He is, in short the Subject of much Mirth and Raillery, which he seems to take well enough, tho' it hath not been observ'd that ever any good Thing came from himself.

There is so general an Opinion of his Justice, that sometimes very hard Cases are left to his Decision: and while he sits upon them, he carries himself exactly even between both sides, except where some knotty Point arises, and then he is observed to lean a little to the Right or Left as the Matter inclines him, but his Reasons for it are so manifest and convincing, that every Man approves them.

POSTSCRIPT.

Gentle Reader,

THO' I am not insensible how many Thousand Persons have been, and still are, with great Dexterity handling this Subject, and no less aware of what infinite Rheams of Paper have been laid out upon it; however in my Opinion, no Man living has touch'd it with greater Nicety, and more delicate Turns, than our Author. But because there is some intended Obscurity in this Relation, and Curiosity, inquisitive of Secrets, may possibly not enter into the Bottom and Depth of the Subject, 'twas thought not improper to take off the Veil, and gain the Reader's Favour by enlarging his Insight. ARS enim non habet Inimicum micum nisi ignorantem. 'Tis well known, that it has been the Policy of all Times, to deliver down Important Subjects by Emblem and Riddle, and not to suffer the Knowledge of Truth to be derived to us in plain and simple Terms, which are generally as soon forgot as conceived. For this Reason, the Heathen Religion is mostly couched under Mythology. For the like Reason (this being a FUNDAMENTAL in its kind) the Author has thought fit to wrap up his Treasure in clean Linen, which it is our Business to lay open, and set in a due Light; for I have observed, upon any accidental Discovery, the least Glimpse has given a great Diversion to the eager Spectator, as many Ladies could testify, were it proper, or the Case would admit.

The politest Companies have vouchsafed to smile at the bare Name, and some People of Fashion have been so little scrupulous of bringing it in Play, that it was the usual saying of a Knight and a Man of good Breeding, That whenever he rose, his A-se rose with him.

(1) He alludes to the Manner of our Birth, the Head and Arms appearing before the Posteriors and the two Feet, which he calls the Footmen.

(2) Victualling-House.] The Belly, which receives and digests our Nourishment.

(3) Master of Arts.] Persius, Magister Artis, Ingenique Largitor Venter.

(4) Idolater.] Alludes to the Sacrifices offer'd by the Romans to the Goddess Cloacina.

(5) Priests.] Gold-finders, who perform their Office in the Night-time: but our Author further seems to have an Eye to the Custom of the Heathen Priests stealing the Offerings in the Night; of which see more in the Story of Bell and the Dragon.

(6) Wrinkle.] This refers to a Proverb— You have one Wrinkle in your A-se more than you had before.

(7) Tears of Blood.] Hæmorrhoids, according to the Physicians, are a frequent Consequence of Intemperance.

(8) Unquiet.] Their Tails being generally observed to be most restless.

T H E

W O N D E R

Of all the Wonders, that ever the World wonder'd at.

For all Persons of Quality and Others.

NEWLY arriv'd at this City the famous Artist John Emanuel Schoitz, who to the great Surprize and Satisfaction of all Spectators, is ready to do the following Wonderful Performances,
the like before never seen in this Kingdom.

He will heat a Bar of Iron red hot, and thrust it into a barrel of Gunpowder, before all the Company, and yet it shall not take fire.

He lets any Gentleman charge a Blunderbuss, with the same Gunpowder, and twelve Leaden Bullets, which Blunderbuss the said Artist discharges full in the Face of the said Company, without the least hurt, the Bullets sticking in the Wall behind them.

He

He takes any Gentleman's own Sword, and runs it through the said Gentleman's Body, so that the Point appears bloody at the Back, to all the Spectators; then he takes out the Sword, wipes it clean and returns it to the owner, who receives no manner of hurt.

He takes a Pot of Scalding Oyl, and throws it by great Ladles full directly at the Ladies, without spoiling their Cloaths or burning their Skins.

He takes any Person of Quality's Child from two Years old to six, and lets the Child's own Father or Mother take a Pike in their Hands; then the Artist takes the Child in his Arms and tosses it upon the Point of the Pike, where it sticks to the great Satisfaction of all Spectators; and is then taken off without so much as a hole in his Coat.

He mounts upon a Scaffold just over the Spectators, and from thence throws down a great Quantity of large Tiles and Stones, which fall like so many Pillows, without so much as discomposing either Perukes or Head-dresses.

He takes any Person of Quality up to the said Scaffold, which Person pulls off his Shoes, and leaps nine Foot directly down on a Board prepar'd on Purpose full of sharp Spikes six Inches long, without hurting his Feet or Damaging his Stockings.

He places the said Board on a Chair, upon which a Lady sits down with another Lady in her Lap, while the Spikes instead of entering into the under Lady's flesh, will feel like a Velvet Cushion.

He

He takes any Person of Quality's Footman, tyes a Rope about his bare Neck, and draws him up by Pullies to the Cieling, and there keeps him hanging as long as his Master or the Company pleases, the said Footman to the Wonder and Delight of all Beholders, with a Pot of Ale in one Hand and a Pipe in the other ; and when he is let down, there will not appear the least Mark of the Cord about his Neck.

He bids a Lady's Maid put her finger into a Cup of clear Liquor like Water, upon which her Face and both her Hands are immediately wither'd, like an Old Woman of fourscore, her Belly swells as if she were in a Week of her Time, and her Legs are as thick as Mill-Posts ; but upon putting her finger into another Cup, she becomes as Young and Handsome as she was before.

He gives any Gentleman leave to drive forty Twelve-penny Nails up to the Head in a Porter's backside, and then places the said Porter on a Loadstone Chair, which draws out every Nail, and the Porter feels no Pain.

He likewise draws the Teeth of half a Dozen Gentlemen, mixes and jumbles them in a Hat, gives any Person leave to blindfold him, and returns each their own, and fixes them as well as ever.

With his Fore-finger and Thumb he thrusts several Gentlemen's and Lady's Eyes out of their Heads, without the least Pain, at which time they see an unspeakable Number of beautiful Colours, and after they are entertain'd to the full,

full, he places them again in their proper Sockets, without any Damage to the sight.

He lets any Gentleman drink a Quart of hot melted Led, and by a Draught of prepared Liquor, of which he takes part himself, he makes the said Lead pass through the said Gentleman before all the Spectators, without any Damage: After which it is produced in a Cake to the Company.

With many other Wonderful Performances of Art, too tedious here to mention.

The said Artist has perform'd before most Kings and Princes in Europe with great Applause.

He Performs every Day (except Sundays) from Ten of the Clock to One in the Forenoon; and from Four till Seven in the Evening, at the New Inn in Smithfield.

The first Seat a British Crown, the second a British Half-Crown, and the lowest a British Shilling.

N. B. The best Hands in Town are to play at the said Show.

TO the RIGHT HONOURABLE

The MAYOR and ALDERMEN of the City of LONDON:

The Humble Petition

Of the Colliers, Cooks, Cook-Maids, Blacksmiths, Jackmakers, Brasiers, and Others.

SHEWETH,

THAT whereas certain Virtuosi Disaffected to the Government, and to the Trade and Prosperity of this Kingdom, taking upon them the Name and Title of the CATOPTRICAL VICTUALLERS, have presumed, by Gathering, Breaking, Folding, and Bundling-up the Sun-Beams, by the help of certain Glasses, to Make, Produce, and Kindle up several New Furns or Fires within these His Majesty's Dominions, and thereby to Boil, Bake, Stew, Fry, and Dress all sorts of Victuals and Provisions, to Brew, Distil Spirits, Smelt Oar, and in general, to perform all the Offices of Culinary Fires; and are endeavouring to procure to themselves the Monopoly of this their said Invention. We beg leave humbly to represent to your Honours.

That such Grant or Patent will utterly Ruin and reduce to Beggery your Petitioners, their Wives, Children, Servants, and Trades on them depending; there being nothing left to them, after the said Invention, but Warming of Cellars and Dressing of Suppers in the Winter-time. That the abolishing so considerable a Branch of the Coasting Trade as that of the Colliers, will destroy the Navigation of this Kingdom. That whereas the said Catoptrical Viſtuallers talk of making use of the Moon by Night, as of the Sun by Day, they will utterly ruin the numerous Body of Tallow Chandlers, and impair a very considerable branch of the Revenue which arises from the Tax upon Tallow and Candles.

That the said Catoptrical Viſtuallers do profane the Emanations of that Glorious Luminary the Sun, which is appointed to Rule the Day, and not to Roast Mutton. And we humbly conceive, it will be found contrary to the known Laws of this Kingdom, to Confine, Foreſtall, and Monopolize the Beams of the Sun. And whereas the said Catoptrical Viſtuallers have undertaken by Burning-Glaſſes made of Ice, to Roast an Ox upon the Thames next Winter: We conceive all ſuch Practices to be an Encroachment upon the Rights and Privileges of the Company of Watermen.

That the Diversity of Exposition of the ſeveral Kitchens in this great City, whereby some

some receive the Rays of the Sun sooner, and others later, will occasion great Irregularity as to the Time of Dining of the several Inhabitants, and consequently great Uncertainty and Confusion in the dispatch of Business: And to those who, by reason of their Northern Exposition, will be still forced to be at the Expences of Culinary Fires, it will reduce the Price of their Manufacture to such Inequality as is inconsistent with common Justice: And the same Inconveniency will affect Landlords in the Value of their Rents.

That the Use of the said Glasses will oblige Cooks, and Cook-maids to study Opticks and Astronomy, in order to know the due Distances of the said Focus's or Fires, and to adjust the Position of their Glasses to the several Altitudes of the Sun, varying according to the Hours of the Day, and the Seasons of the Year; which Studies, at these years, will be highly Troublesome to the said Cooks and Cook-Maids, not to say any thing of the utter Incapacity of some of them to go through with such difficult Arts; or (which is still a greater Inconvenience) it will throw the whole Art of Cookery into the Hands of Astronomers and Glass-Grinders, Persons utterly unskill'd in other parts of that Profession, to the great Detriment of the Health of his Majesty's good Subjects.

That it is known by Experience, That Meat Roasted with Sun-Beams is extreamly unwholesome; witness several that have dy'd suddenly after eating the Provisions of the said Catoptrical Viſtuallers; forasmuch as the Sun-Beams taken inwardly

inwardly, render the Humours too Hot and Aduſt, occasion great Sweatings, and dry up the Rectual Moisture.

That Sun-beams taken inwardly, shed a Malignant Influence upon the Brain, by their natural Tendency towards the Moon; and produce Madneſs and Diſtraction at the time of the Full Moon. That the conſtant uſe of ſo great Quantities of this Inward Light, will occasion the Growth of Quakeriſm, to the Danger of the Church; and Poetry, to the Danger of the State.

That the Influences of the Conſtellations, through which the Sun paſſes, will with his Beams, be conveyed into the Blood; and when the Sun is amongſt the Horned Signs, may produce ſuch a Spirit of Unchaſtity, as is dangerous to the Honour of your Worſhips Families.

That Mankind living much upon the Seeds and other Parts of Plants, theſe being impregnated with the Sun-Beams, may vegetate and grow in the Bowels, a Thing of more dangerous Conſequence to human Bodies than Breeding of Worms; and this will fall heaviest upon the Poor, who live upon Roots; and the Weak and Sickly, who live upon Barley and Rice-Gruel, &c. for which we are ready to produce to your Honours the Opinions of Eminent Phyſicians, That the Taſte and Property of the Victuals is much alter'd to the worſe by the ſaid Solar Cookery, the Fricaffees being depriv'd of the Haut Gout they acquire by being dreſſ'd over Charcoal.

Laſtly,

Lastly, Should it happen by an Eclipse of an extraordinary Length, that this City should be depriv'd of the Sun-Beams for several Months; how will his Majesty's Subjects subsist in the Interim, when common Cookery, with the Arts depending upon it, is totally lost?

In Consideration of these, and many other Inconveniencies, your Petitioners humbly pray, that your Honours would either totally prohibit the Confining and Manufacturing the Sun-Beams for any of the useful Purposes of Life, or in the ensuing Parliament procure a Tax to be laid upon them, which may answer both the Duty and Price of Coals, and which we humbly conceive cannot be less than Thirty Shillings per Yard Square, reserving the sole Right and Privilege of the Catoptrical Cookery to the Royal Society, and to the Commanders and Crew of the Bomb-Vessels, under the Direction of Mr. Whiston, for finding out the Longitude, who by Reason of the Remoteness of their Nations, may be reduc'd to Streights for want of Firing.

And we likewise beg that your Honours, as to the forementioned Points, would hear the Reverend Mr. Flamsteed, who is the Legal Officer appointed by the Government to look after the Heavenly Luminaries, whom we have constituted our Trusty and Learned Solicitor.

REASONS

REASONS

Humbly Offered

By the Company exercising the Trade and Mystery of Uphol-ders, against Part of the BILL, For the better Viewing, Searching and Examining Drugs, Medicines, &c. 1724.

BEING call'd upon by several Retailers and Dispensers of Drugs and Medicines about Town, to use our Endeavours against the Bill now depending, for Viewing, &c.
In regard of our common Interest, and in Gratitude to the said Retailers and Dispensers of Medicines (which we have always found to be very effectual) we presume to lay the following Reasons before the Publick, against the said Bill.

That the Company of Upholders are far from being averse to the giving of Drugs and Medicines in general, provided they may be of such Qualities as we require, and administer'd by such

such Persons in whom our Company justly repose the greatest Confidence : And provided they tend to the Encouragement of Trade, and the Consumption of the Woollen Manufacture of this Kingdom.

We beg Leave to observe, that there hath been no Complaint from any of the Nobility, Gentry and Citizens whom we have attended. Our Practice, which consists chiefly in outward Applications, having been always so effectual, that none of our Patients have been oblig'd to undergo a second Operation. Excepting one Gentlewoman ; who, after her first Burial, having burthen'd her Husband with a new Brood of posthumous Children, her second Funeral was by us perform'd without any farther Charges to the said Husband of the deceas'd. And we humbly hope, that one single Instance of this kind (a Misfortune owing meerly to the Avarice of a Sexton in cutting off a Ring) will not be imputed to any Want of Skill, or Care, in our Company.

We humbly conceive, that the Power by this Bill lodged in the Censors of the College of Physicians, to restrain any of His Majesty's Subjects from dispensing, and well-disposed Persons from taking what Medicines they please, is a manifest Encroachment on the Liberty and Property of the Subjects.

As the Company exercising the Trade and Mystery of Upholders, have an undisputed Right in and upon the Bodies of all and every the Subjects of the Kingdom ; we conceive the passing of this Bill, though not absolutely depriving them of their said Right, might keep them out of Possession by unreasonable Delays, to the great Detriment of our Company and their numerous Families.
of

We hope it will be consider'd that there are Multitudes of necessitous Heirs and penurious Parents, Persons in pinching Circumstances, with numerous Families of Children, Wives that have lived long, many robust aged Women with great Jointures, elder Brothers with bad Understandings, single Heirs of great Estates, whereby the Collateral Line are for ever excluded, Reversionary Patents, and Reversionary Promises of Preferments, Leases upon Single Lives, and Play-debts upon joint Lives, and that the Persons so aggrieved have no Hope of being speedily relieved any other Way, than by the dispensing of Drugs and Medicines in the Manner they now are; Burying alive being judg'd repugnant to the known Laws of this Kingdom.

That there are many of the Deceased, who by certain mechanical Motions and Powers are carried about Town, who would have been put into our Hands long before this Time by any other well-order'd Government; by want of a due Police in this Particular, our Company have been great Sufferers.

That frequent Funerals contribute to preserve the Genealogies of Families and the Honours conferred by the Crown, (which are no where so well illustrated as on this solemn Occasion :) to maintain necessitous Clergy, to enable the Clerks to appear in decent Habits to officiate on Sundays, to feed the great Retinue of sister and melancholy Men who appear at the said Funerals, and who must must starve without constant and regular Employment. Moreover we desire it may be remember'd that by the passing of this Bill the Nobility and Gentry will have their old Coaches lie upon their Hands, which are now employed by our Company.

And we further hope that frequent Funerals will not be discouraged (as is by this Bill proposed) it being the only Method left of carrying some People to Church.

We are afraid that by the Hardships of this Bill our Company will be reduced to leave their Business here, and practise at York and Bristol, where the free Use of bad Medicines will be still allowed.

It is therefore hoped that no specious Pretence whatsoever will be thought sufficient to introduce an Arbitrary and Unlimited Power for People to live (in Defiance of Art) as long as they can by the Course of Nature, to the Prejudice of our Company, and the Decay of Trade.

That as our Company are like to suffer in some measure by the Power given to Physicians to dissect the Bodies of Malefactors, we humbly hope that the Manufacture of Cases for Skeletons will be reserved solely to the Coffin-makers.

We likewise humbly presume that the Interests of the several Trades and Professions which depend upon ours, may be regarded; such as that of Hearses, Coaches, Coffins, Epitaphs, and Bell-ropes, Stone-cutters, Feather-men and Bell-ringers; and especially the Manufacturers of Crapes; and the Makers of Snuff, who use great great Quantities of old Coffins, and who, consider'd in the Consumption of their Drugs, employ by far the greatest Number of Hands of any Manufacture of the Kingdom.

Annus

Annus Mirabilis :

O R,

The Wonderful Effects of the approaching Conjunction of the Planets
Jupiter, Mars, and Saturn.

By MART. SCRIBLERUS, Philomatō.
A Well-Wisher to the Mathematicks.

In nova fert animus mutatas dicere formas Corpora —

I SUPPOSE every Body is sufficiently appriz'd of, and duly prepar'd for the famous Conjunction to be celebrated the 29th of this Instant December, 1722, foretold by all the Sages of Antiquity, under the Name of the Annus Mirabilis, or the Metamorphostical Conjunction; a Word which denotes the mutual Transformation of Sexes, (the Effect of that Configuration of the Celestial Bodies) the human Males being to be turn'd into Females, and the human Females into Males.

D

The

The Egyptians have represented this great Transformation by several significant Hieroglyphicks, particularly one very remarkable. There are carv'd upon an Obelisk, a Barber and a Midwife; the Barber delivers his Razor to the Midwife, and she her Swadling Cloaths to the Barber. Accordingly Thales Milesius (who, like the rest of his Countrymen, borrow'd his Learning from the Egyptians) after having computed the Time of this famous Conjunction, Then, says he, shall Men and Women mutually exchange the Pangs of Shaving and Child-bearing.

Anaximander modestly describes this Metamorphosis in mathematical Terms: Then says he, shall the negative Quantity of the Women be turn'd into positive, their --- into +; (i. e.) their Minus into Plus.

Plato not only speaks of this great Change, but describes all the Preparations towards it. “ Long before the bodily Transformation (says he) Nature shall begin the most difficult Part of her Work, by changing the Ideas and Inclinations of the two Sexes: Men shall turn effeminate, and Women manly; Wives shall domineer, and Husbands obey; Ladies shall ride a Horseback, dress'd like Cavaliers; Princes and Nobles appear in Night-rails and Petticoats; Men shall squeak upon Theatres with Female Voices, and Women corrupt Virgins; Men shall knot and cut Paper; and even the Northern People, ἀσέλγη καὶ ἀναιδέα: A Phrase (which for Modesty's Sake I forbear to translate) which denotes a Vice too frequent amongst us.” So far Plato.

That

That the Ministry foresaw this great Change, is plain from the Callico-Act; whereby it is now become the Occupation of the Women all over England, to convert their useless Female Habits into Beds, Window-Curtains, Chairs, and Joint-stools; undressing themselves (as it were) before their Transformation.

The Philosophy of this Transformation will not seem surprizing to People, who search into the Bottom of Things. Madam Bourignon, a devout French Lady, has shewn us, how Man was at first created Male and Female in one Individual, having the Faculty of Propagation within himself: A Circumstance necessary to the State of Innocence, wherein a Man's Happiness was not to depend upon the Caprice of another. It was not till after he had made a faux pas, that he had his Female Mate. Many such Transformations of Individuals have been well attested; particularly one by Montaigne, and another by the late Bishop of Salisbury. From all which it appears, that this System of Male and Female has already undergone, and may hereafter suffer several Alterations. Every Smatterer in Anatomy knows, that a Woman is but an introverted Man; a new Fusion and Flatus will turn the hollow Bottom of a Bottle into a Convexity; but I forbear, (for the Sake of my Modest Men Readers, who are in a few Days to be Virgins.)

In some Subjects, the smallest Alterations will do: some Men are sufficiently spread about the Hips, and contriv'd with that Female Softness, that they want only the Negative Quantity to make them Buxom Wenches; and there are Women who are, as it were, already the Ebauche of a good sturdy Man. If nature could be puzzled, it will be how to bestow the redundant Matter of the exuberant Bubbies that now appear about Town, or how to roll out the short dapper Fellows into well-siz'd Women.

This great Conjunction will begin to operate on Saturday the 29th Instant. Accordingly, about Eight at Night, as Senixino shall begin at the Opera, Si videte, Did you but see? He shall be observed to make an unusual Motion; upon which the Audience will be affected with a red Suffusion over their Countenance: And because a strong Succession of the Muscles of the Belly is necessary towards performing this great Operation, both Sexes will be thrown into a profuse involuntary Laughter; Then (to use the modest Terms of Anaximander) shall negative Quantity be turn'd into positive, &c. Time never beheld, nor will it ever assemble, such a Number of untouch'd Virgins within those Walls! but alas! such will be the Impatience and Curiosity of People to act in their new Capacity, that many of them will go to pot that very Night. To prevent the Disorders that may happen upon this Occasion, is the chief Design of this Paper.

Gentlemen have begun already to make use of this Conjunction to Compass their filthy Purposes. They tell the Ladies, forsooth, that it is only parting with a perishable Commodity; hardly of so much Value as a Callico Under-petticoat, since like its Mistress, it will be useless in the Form it is now in. If the Ladies have no Regard to the Dishonour and Immorality of the Action,

Action, I desire they will consider that Nature, who never destroys her own Productions, will exempt big-belly'd Women till the time of their Lying-in ; so that not to be transform'd, will be the same as to be pregnant. If they don't think it worth while to defend a Fortrefs that is to be demolish'd in a few Days, let them reflect that it will be a melancholy thing Nine Months hence, to be brought to Bed of a Bastard ; a posthumous Bastard as it were, to which the Quondam Father can be no more than a dry Nurse.

This wonderful Transformation is the Instrument of Nature, to balance Matters between the Sexes. The Cruelty of scornful Mistresses shall be return'd ; The slighted Maid shall grow into an imperious Gallant, and reward her Undoer with a big Belly, and a Bastard, &c.

It is hardly possible to imagine the Revolutions that this wonderful Phænomenon will occasion over the Face of the Earth. I long impatiently to see the Proceedings of the Parliament of Paris, as to the Title of Succession to their Crown ; this being a Case not provided for by the Salique Law. There will be no preventing Disorders amongst Friars and Monks ; for certainly Vows of Chastity don't bind but under the Sex in which they were made. The same will hold good with Marriages, tho' I think it will be a Scandal amongst Protestants for Husbands and Wives to part, since there remain still a possibility to perform the Debitum Conjugale by the Husbands being femme Couverte. I submit it to the Judgment of the Gentlemen of the Long Robe, whether this Transformation does not discharge all Suits of Rapes?

The Pope must undergo a new groping; but the false Prophet Mahomet has contriv'd Matters well for his Successors; for as the Grand Signior has now a great many fine Women, he will then have as many fine young Gentlemen at his Devotion.

These are surprizing Scenes, but I beg leave to affirm, that the solemn Operations of Nature are Subjects of Contemplation, not of Ridicule; therefore I make it my earnest Request to the merry Fellows, and giggling Girls about Town, that they would not put themselves in a high Twitter, when they go to visit a General Lying-in of his first Child; his Officers serving as Midwives, Nurses and Rockers, dispensing Caudle; or if they behold the Reverend Prelates dressing the Heads and airing the Linen at Court, I beg they will remember that these Offices must be fill'd with People of the greatest Regularity, and best Characters. For the same Reason, I am sorry that a certain Prelate, who notwithstanding his Confinement, still preserves his healthy, chearful Countenance, cannot come in Time to be a Nurse at Court.

I likewise earnestly intreat the Maids of Honour, (then Ensigns and Captains of the Guards) that, at their first setting out, they have some Regard to their former Station; and do not run wild through all the infamous Houses about Town. That the present Grooms of the Bed-Chamber (then Maids of Honour) would not eat Chalk and Lime in their Green Sickness; and in general, that the Men would remember that they are become

Retro-

Retromingent, and not by Inadvertency lift up against Walls and Post.

Petticoats will not be burdensome to the Clergy; but Balls and Assemblies will be indecent for some Time.

As for you, Coquettes, Bawds, and Chambermaids, (the future Ministers, Plenipotentiaries and Cabinet-Counsellors to the Princes of the Earth) manage the great Intrigues that will be committed to your Charge, with your usual Secrecy and Conduct; and the Affairs of your Master will go better than ever.

O ye Exchange Women! (our Right Worshipful Representatives that are to be) be not so griping in the Sale of your Ware as your Predecessors, but consider that the Nation, like a spendthrift Heir, has run out: Be likewise a little more continent in your Tongues than you are at present, else the Length of Debates will spoil your Dinners.

You Housewifely good Women, who now preside over the Confectionary, (henceforth Commissioners of the Treasury) be so good as to dispence the Sugar-Plumbs of the Government with a more impartial and frugal Hand.

Ye Prudes and censorious old Maids, (the Hopes of the Bench) exert but your usual Talent of finding Faults, and the Laws will be strictly executed; only I would not have you proceed upon such slender Evidences as you have done hitherto.

It is from you, eloquent Oyster-Merchants of Billingsgate (just ready to be call'd to the Bar, and quois'd like your Sister-Serjeants,) that we expect the shortening the Time, and lessening the Expences of Law-Suits : For I think you are oblig'd to bring your Debates to a short Issue ; and even Custom will restrain you from taking the Oyster and leaving only the Shell to your Clients.

O ye Physicians, who 'in the Figure of old Women are to clean the Tripe in the Markets ; scour it as effectually as you have done that of your Patients, and the Town will fare most deliciously on Saturdays.

I cannot but congratulate human Nature, upon this happy Transformation ; the only Expedient left to restore the Liberties and Tranquility of Mankind ; which is so evident, that it is almost an Affront to common Sense to insist upon the Proof of it. If there can be any such stupid Creature who doubts it, I desire he will make but the following obvious Reflection : There are in Europe alone, at present, about a Million of sturdy Fellows under the Denomination of standing Forces, with Arms in their Hands : That those are Masters of the Lives, Liberties and Fortunes of all the rest, I believe no body will deny. It is no less true in Fact, that Reams of Paper, and above a square Mile of Skins of Velum have been employ'd to no Purpose, to settle Peace amongst those Sons of Violence. Pray, who is he that will say unto them, Go and disband your selves ? But lo ! by this Transformation it is done at once, and the Halcyon Days of publick Tranquility return. For neither the Military Temper nor Discipline can taint the soft Sex for a whole Age to come. Bellaque matribus invisa,
Wars

Wars odious now to Mothers, will not grow immediately palatable in their Paternal State.

Nor will the Influence of this Transformation be less in Family-Tranquility, than it is in National. Great Faults will be amended, and Frailties forgiven on both Sides. A Wife who has been disturb'd with late Hours, and choak'd with the Haugout of a Sot, will remember her Sufferings, and avoid the Temptation; and will, for the same Reason, indulge her Mate in his Female Capacity in some Passions, which she is sensible from Experience are natural to the Sex. Such as Vanity of fine Cloaths, being admir'd, &c. And now tenderly must she use her Mate under the Breeding Qualms and Labour-Pains, which she hath felt her self? In short, all unreasonable Demands upon Husbands must cease, because they are already satisfy'd from natural Experience that they are impossible. That the Ladies may govern the Affairs of the World, and the Gentlemen those of their Houshold, better than either of them have hitherto done, is the hearty desire of,

Their Most Sincere

Well-Wisher,

M. S.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Planetary Powders, as necessary for the new Births of Sexes, as Sperma Ceti for Puerperous Women: Prepar'd and Sold by John Moore, Apothecary at the Pestle and Mortar in Abchurch-Lane.

All Male and Female Implements exchange'd at reasonable Rates ; at Mr. Deard's Toy-Shop against St. Dunstan's Church.

All Sorts of Manly Exercise ; Riding, Vaulting, &c. taught to the Ladies, at a Guinea a Lesson ; at Mrs. L--ge's in Red-lion-Street.

A N
E S S A Y

Of the Learned

MARTINUS SCRIBLERUS,

Concerning the ORIGINE of SCIENCES.

Written to the most Learned Dr.— F. R. S. from the Deserts of NUBIA.

A MONG all the Enquiries which have been pursu'd by the Curious and Inquisitive, there is none more worthy the search of a Learned Head, than the Source from whence we derive those Arts and Sciences which raise us so far above the Vulgar, the Countries in which they rose, and the Channels by which they have been convey'd. As they who first brought them amongst us travell'd into the remotest Parts of the Earth to attain them, I may boast boast of some advantages by the same means; since I write this from the Deserts of Ethiopia, from those Plains of Sand which have buried the Pride of invading Armies, with my Foot perhaps at this instant ten Fathom over the Grave of Cambyfes, a Solitude to which neither Pythagoras nor Apollonius ever penetrated.

It is universally agreed, that Arts and Sciences took their Rise among the Ægyptians and Indians; but from whom they first receiv'd them, is yet a Secret. The highest Period of Time to which the Learned attempt to trace them, is from the beginning of the Assyrian Monarchy, when their Inventors were worship'd as Gods. It is therefore necessary to go backward into Times even more remote, and to gain some knowledge of their History, from whatever dark and broken Hints may any way be found in ancient Authors concerning them.

Nor Troy nor Thebes were the first of Empires; we have mention, tho' not Histories, of an earlier warlike People call'd the Pygmæans. I cannot but persuade my self, from those Accounts of * Hommer, Aristotle and others, that their History, Wars, and Revolutions were then a part of the Study of the Learned, from the very Air in which those Authors speak of them, as of things universally known. And tho' all we directly hear is of their Military Atchievements, in the brave defence of their Country from the annual Invasions of a powerful Enemy, yet I cannot doubt but that they excell'd as much in the Arts of peaceful Government, tho' there remain no Traces of their Civil Institutions. Empires as great have been swallow'd up in the wreck of Time, and such certain Periods have been put to them, as occasion a Total Ignorance of their Story. And if I should conjecture that the like happen'd to this Nation, from a general extirpation of the People by those Flocks of Monstrous Birds, wherewith Antiquity agrees they were continually infested ; it ought not to seem more incredible, than that one of the Baleares was wasted by Rabbits, * Smynthe by Mice, and of late † Bermudas almost depopulated by Rats. Nothing is more natural to imagine, than that the few survivors of that Empire retired into the depths of their Deserts, where they liv'd undisturb'd, 'till they were found out by Osyris in his Travels to instruct Mankind.

* Il. 3. Hom.

He met, says § Diodorus, in Æthiopia, a sort of little Satyrs, who were hairy one half of their Body, and whose leader Pan accompany'd him in his Expedition for the civilizing of Mankind. Now of this great Personage Pan, we have a very particular Description in the ancient Writers, who unanimously agree to represent him, shaggy Bearded, Hairy all over, half a Man, and half a Beast, and walking erect, with a Staff, (the Posture in which his race are to this Day shown among us.) And since the chief thing to which he apply'd himself was the civilizing of Mankind, it should seem that the first Principles of Science must be receiv'd from this People, to whom the Gods were by * Homer said to resort twelve Days every Year, for the Conversation of its Wife and Just Inhabitants.

* Eustathius in Hom. Il. 1. † Speede, in Bermudas.
§ L. 1. ch. 18. Diod.

If from Ægypt we proceed to take a View of India, we shall find that their knowledge also deriv'd itself from the same Source. To that Country did these Noble Creatures accompany Bacchus in his Expedition, under the Conduct of Silenus, who is also describ'd to us with the very same Marks and Qualifications. Mankind is ignorant, saith † Diodorus, whence Silenus derived his Birth, through his great Antiquity; but he had a Tail on his Loins, as likewise had all his Progeny in sign of their descent. Here then they settled a Colony, which to this Day subsists with the same Tails. From this time they seem to have communicated themselves only to those Men who retir'd from the Converse of their own Species, to a more uninterrupted Life of Contemplation. I am much inclin'd to believe that in the midst of those Solitudes they instituted the so much celebrated Order of Gymnosophists. For whoever observes the scene and manner of their Life, will easily find them to have imitated with all exactness imaginable, the Manners and Customs of their Masters and Instructors. They are said to dwell in the thickest Woods, to go naked, to suffer their Bodies to be over-run with Hair, and their Nails to grow to a prodigious length. § Plutarch says, they eat what they could get in the Fields, their Drink was Water, and their Bed made of Leaves or Moss. And * Herodotus tells us, that they esteem'd it a great exploit to kill very many Ants, or creeping Things.

* Il. 1st.

† L. 3. ch. 69. Diod.

§ Plutarch in his first Orat. on Alexander's Fortune.

Hence we see that the two Nations which contend for the Origine of Learning, are the same that have ever most abounded with this ingenious Race. Tho' they have contested which was first blest with the rise of Science, yet have they conspir'd in being grateful to their common Masters. Ægypt is well known to have worship'd them of old in their own Images: and India may be credibly suppos'd to have done the same, from that adoration which they paid in latter times to the Tooth of one of these hairy Philosophers, as it should seem in just Gratitude to the Mouth from which they receiv'd their Knowledge.

Pass we now over into Greece, where we find Orpheus returning out of Ægypt, with the same intent as Osyris and Bacchus made their Expeditions. From this period it was, that Greece first heard the Name of Satyrs, or own'd them for Semi-dei. And hence it is surely reasonable to conclude, that he brought some of this wonderful Species along with him, who also had a leader of the line of Pan, of the same Name, and expressly call'd King by † Theocritus. If thus much be allow'd, we easily account for two of the strangest reports in all Antiquity. One, that the Tradition of Beasts following the Musick of Orpheus

* Hered. L. 1. † Παν Αρξ, Theo. Id. 1st.

{which

(which has been interpreted of his taming Savage Tempers) will thus have a literal Application. The other, which we most insist upon, is, that the Love which these Sages bear to the Females of our Kind affords a Solution of all those Fables of the Gods compressing Women in Woods under bestial appearances. I am sensible it may be objected, that they are said to have been compress'd in the Shape of different Animals; but to this we answer, that Women under such apprehensions hardly know what Shape they have to deal with.

From what has been last said, 'tis highly credible that to this ancient and generous Race the World is indebted, if not for the Heroes, at least for the acutest Wits of Antiquity. One of the most remarkable Instances, is that great mimick Genius * Æsop, for whose extraction from these Sylvestres Homines we may gather an Argument from Pladunes, who says, that Æsop signifies the same thing as Æthiop, the Original Nation of our People. For a second Argument we may offer the description of his Person, which was short, deform'd, and almost Savage, insomuch that he might have liv'd in the Woods, had not the benevolence of his Temper made him rather adapt himself to our Manners, and come to Court in wearing Apparel. The third Proof is his acute and satyrical Wit; and lastly, his great Knowledge in the Nature of Beasts, together with the natural Pleasure he took to speak of them upon all Occasions.

* Vit. Æsop. initio.

The

The next instance I shall produce is * Socrates. First, it was a Tradition that he was of an uncommon Birth from the rest of Men; Secondly, he had a Countenance confessing the Line he sprung from, being bald, flat-nos'd: with prominent Eyes, and a downward look: Thirdly, he turn'd certain Fables of Æsop into Verse, probably out of his respect to Beasts in general, and love to his Family in particular.

In process of time, the Women, with whom these Sylvans would have lovingly cohabited, were either taught by Mankind, or induc'd by an abhorrence of their Shapes, to shun their embraces; so that our Sages were necessitated to mix with Beasts; This by degrees occasion'd the Hair of their Posterity to grow higher than their Middles; It arose in one Generation to their Arms, in the Second it invaded their Necks, in the Third it gain'd the ascendant of their Heads, 'till the degenerate Appearance in which the Species is now immers'd, became compleated. Tho' we must here observe, that there were a few who fell not under the common Calamity, there being some unprejudic'd Women in every Age, by virtue of whom a Total extinction of the Original Race was prevented: And it is remarkable also, that even where they were mix'd, the Defection from their Nature was not intire; there still appear'd marvellous Qualities among them, as was manifest in those who follow'd Alexander in India. How did they attend his Army and survey his Order! How did they cast themselves into the same forms for March or for Combat ! What an imitation was there of all his Discipline ! the ancient true remains of a warlike Disposition, and of that Constitution which they enjoy'd while they were a Monarchy.

* Vid. Plato and Xenophon.

To proceed to Italy : At the first Appearance of these wild Philosophers, there were some of the least mix'd, who vouchsafed to converse with Mankind ; which is evident from the Name of * Fauns, a fando, or speaking. Such was he who coming out of the Woods, in hatred to Tyranny, encourag'd the Roman Army to proceed against the Hetruscans who would have restor'd Tarquin. But here, as in all the Western Parts of the World, there was a great and memorable Æra in which they began to be Silent. This we may place something near the time of Aristotle, when the Number, Vanity and Folly of Human Philosophers encreas'd, by which Men's Heads became too much puzzled to receive the Wisdom of these ancient Sylvans ; the Questions of that Academy were too numerous to be consistent with their ease to answer ; and too intricate, extravagant, idle, or pernicious, to be any other than a derision and scorn unto them. From this Period, if ever we hear of their giving Answers, it is only when caught, bound, and constrain'd, in like manner as was that Ancient Grecian Prophet, Proteus.

Accordingly we read in † Sylla's Time, of such a Philosopher taken near Dyrrachium, who wou'd not be persuaded to give them a Lecture by all they cou'd say to him, and only shew'd his Power in Sounds by Neighing like a Horse.

* Livy.

† Plutarch in Vit. Sylla.

But a more successful attempt was made in Augustus's reign by the Inquisitive Genius of the great Virgil, whom, together with Varus, the Commentators suppose to have been the true Persons, who are related in the 6th Bucolick to have caught a Philosopher, and doubtless a genuine one, of the Race of the old Silenus. To prevail upon him to be communicative (of the importance of which Virgil was well aware) they not only ty'd him fast, but allur'd him likewise by making him a present of a comely Maiden call'd Ægle, which made him sing both merrily and instructively. In this Song we have their Doctrine of the Creation, the same in all probability as was taught so many Ages before in the great Pygmaean Empire, and several Hieroglyphical Fables under which they couch'd or embellish'd their Morals. For which reason I look upon this Bucolick as an inestimable Treasure of the most ancient Science.

In the Reign of Constantine we hear of another, taken in a Net, and brought to Alexandria, round whom the People flock'd to hear his Wisdom; but as Ammianus Marcellinus reporteth, he prov'd a dumb Philosopher, and only instructed by Action.

The last we shall speak of who seemeth to be of the true Race, is said by St. Jerome to have met St. * Anthony in a Desert, who enquiring the Way of him, he shew'd his Uunder-

* Vit. St. Ant.

standing,

standing, and Courtesy by pointing, but wou'd not answer, for he was a dumb Philosopher also.

These are all the Notices which I am at present able to gather of the appearance of so great and learned a People in your side of the World. But if we return to their ancient native Seats, Africa and India, we shall there find even in modern times, the Traces of their Original Conduct and Valour.

In Africa (as we read among the indefatigable Mr. Purchas's Collections) a Body of them whose Leader was inflam'd with Love for a Woman, by martial Powers and Stratagem won a Fort from the Portuguese.

But I must leave all others at present to celebrate the Praise of two of their unparallel'd Monarchs in India. The one was Perimal the Magnificent, a Prince most Learned and Communicative, to whom in Malabar their excess of Zeal dedicated a Temple, rais'd on Seven hundred Pillars, not inferior in * Maffæus's Opinion to those of Agrippa in the Pantheon. The other Hanimant the Marvellous his Relation and Successor, whose Knowledge was so great, as made his followers doubt if even that Wise Species cou'd arrive at such Perfection; and therefore they rather imagin'd him and his Race a sort of Gods form'd into Apes. His was the Tooth which the Portuguese took in Bisnagar 1559, for which the Indians offer'd, according to † Linschotten, the immense Sum of Seven hundred thousand Ducats. Nor let me quit this Head without mentioning with all due respect Oran Outang the Great, the last of this Line: whose unhappy Chance it was to fall into the Hands of Europeans. Oran Outang, whose Value was not known to us, for he was a mute Philosopher: Oran Outang, by whose dissection the Learned Dr. Tyson has added a Confirmation to this System, from the resemblance between the Homo Sylvestris and our Humane Body, in those Organs by which the rational Soul is exerted.

* Maff. l. 1. † Linschot. cb. 44.

We must now descend to consider this People, as sunk into the Bruta Natura, by their continual Commerce with Beasts. Yet even at this time, what Experiments do they not afford us of relieving some from the Spleen, and others from Imposthumes, by occasioning Laughter at proper Seasons? With what readiness do they enter into the imitation of whatever is remarkable in Human Life? and what surprizing Relations have Le Comte and others given of their Appetites, Actions, Conceptions, Affections, Varieties of Imaginations, and Abilities capable of pursuing them? If under this present low circumstances of Birth and Breeding, and in so short a Term of Life as is now allotted them, they so far exceed all Beasts, and equal many Men; what Prodigies may we not conceive of those, who were Nati melioribus annis, those Primitive Longæval and Antideluvian Man-Tegers, who first taught Sciences to the World?

This Account, which is entirely my own, I am proud to imagine has traced Knowledge from a Fountain correspondent to several Opinions of the Ancients, tho' hitherto undiscover'd, both by

by them and the Moderns. And now what shall I say to Mankind in the Thought of this great Discovery? What, but that they should abate of their Pride, and consider that the Authors of our Knowledge are among Beasts: That these, who were our elder Brothers by a Day in the Creation, whose Kingdom was like the Scheme of Plato govern'd by Philosophers, who flourish'd with Learning in Ethiopia and India, are now undistinguish'd from, and known only by the same Appellation, as the Man-Tiger and the Monkey!

As to Speech, I make no question that there are Remains of the First and less corrupted Race, in their Native Deserts, who yet have the Power of it. But the vulgar Reason given by the Spaniards, "that they will not speak for fear of being set to Work," is alone a sufficient one, considering how exceedingly all other Learned Persons affect their Ease. A Second is, That these observant Creatures having been Eye-Witnesses of the Cruelty with which that Nation treated their Brother Indians, find it necessary not to show themselves to be Men, that they may be protected not only from Work, but from Cruelty also. Thirdly, They cou'd at best take no delight to converse with the Spaniards, whose grave and sullen Temper is so averse to that natural and open Cheerfulness, which is generally observ'd to accompany all true Knowledge.

But now were it possible, that any way cou'd be found out to draw forth their Latent Qualities, I cannot but think it wou'd be highly serviceable to the Learned World, both in respect of recovering past Knowledge, and promoting the Future.

ture. Might there not be found certain gentle artful Methods, whereby to endear us to them? Is there no Nation in the World, whose natural turn is adapted to engage their Society, and win them by a sweet Similitude of Manners? Is there no Nation where the Men might allure them by a distinguishing Civility, and in a manner fascinate them by assimilated Motions? No Nation, where the Women with easy Freedoms, and the gentlest Treatment, might oblige the loving Creatures to sensible returns of Humanity? The Love I bear my native Country, prompts me to wish this Nation might be Great Britain, but alas! in our present wretched divided Condition, how can we hope that Foreigners of so great Prudence, will freely declare their Sentiments, in the midst of violent Parties, and at so vast a distance from their Friends, Relations, and Country? The Affection I bear our Neighbour-State, wou'd incline me to wish it were Holland---Sed lævâ in parte Mamillæ Nil salit Arcadico. 'Tis from France then we must expect this Restoration of Learning, whose late Monarch took the Sciences under his Protection, and rais'd them to so great a Height. May we not hope their Emis-saries will some time or other have Instructions, not only to invite Learned Men into their Country, but Learned Beasts, the true ancient Man-Tegers, I mean of Æthiopia and India? Might not the Talents of each Kind of these be adapted to the Improvement of the several Sciences? The Man-Tegers to instruct Heroes, Statesmen and Scholars? Baboons to teach the Courtiers, Ceremony and Address? Monkeys, the Art of plea-sing sing in Conversation and agreeable Affections, to Ladies and their Lovers? The Apes of less learning, Comedians and Dancing Masters?

96 An Essay concerning the, &c.

The Marmosets Court Pages, and young English
Travellers. But the distinguishing each Kind, and allotting them to their proper Business, I leave to the Inquisitive, and penetrating Genius, of the Jesuits in their respective Missions.

Vale & Fruere.

M. S.

VIRGILIUS

VIRGILIUS RESTAURTUS:

SEU

MARTINI SCRIBLERI

Summi Critici

CASTIGATIONUM in ÆNEIDEM

SPECIMEN:

ÆNEIDEM totam, Amice Lector, innumerabilibus pœnemendis scaturientem, ad pristinum sensum revocabimus. In singulis scilicet versibus spuria occurrunt lectiones, in omnibus quos unquam vidi codicibus, aut vulgatis aut ineditis, ad opprobrium usque Criticorum in hunc diem existentes. Interea adverte oculos, & his paucis frue. At si quæ sint in hisce castigationibus, de quibus non satis liquet, syllabarum quantitates, περλεγόμενα nostra Libro ipsi præfigenda, ut consulas, moneo.

I. SPECIMEN LIBRI PRIMI, VERS. I.

A RMA Virumque cano, Trojæ qui primas
ab oris
Italiam, fato profugus, Lavinaque venit
Litora: multum ille & terris jaçtatus & alto,
Vi superum —
Arma Virumque cano, Trojæ qui primus ab
Aris
Italiam, flatu profugus, Latinaque venit
E Litora:

Litora : multum ille & terris vexatus, & alto,

Vi superum —

Ab aris, nempe Hercæi Jovis, vide lib. 2.
vers. 512, 550.----- Flatu, ventorum Æoli, ut sequitur, ——— Latina certè littora cum Æneas aderat, Lavina non nisi postea ab ipso nominata, Lib. 12. vers. 193. ——— factatus, terris non convenit.

II. VERS. 52.

--- Et quisquis Numen Junonis adoret ?

--- Et quisquis Numen Junonis adoret ?
Longè melius, quam ut antea, Numen.
Et procul dubiò sic Virgilius.

III. VERS. 86.

--- Venti velut agmine facto
Qua data porta ruunt ---

Venti velut aggere facto
Qua data porta ruunt ---
Sic corrige, meo periculo.

IV. VERS. 117.

Fidumque vehebat Orontem.

Fortemque vehebat Orontem,
Non fidum, quia Epitheton Achatæ notissimum,
Oronti nunquam datur.

V. VERS. 119.

Excuitur, pronusque magister
Volvitur in caput ———

--- Excuitur : pronusque magis tēr
Volvitur in caput ———

Aio Virgilium aliter non scripsisse, quod planè confirmatur ex sequentibus ——— Ast illum ter fluctus ibidem Torquet ———

VI. VERS. 112.

Apparent rari nantes in gurgite vasto
Arma virum ———

Armi hominum : Ridicule antea Arma virum, quæ ex ferro conflata, quomodo possunt natare?

VII. VERS. 151.

Atque rotis summas leviter perlabitue undas.

Atque rotis spumas leviter perlabitur udas. Summas, & leviter perlabi, pleonasmus est : Mirifice altera lectio Neptuni agilitatem & celeritatem exprimit ; simili modo Noster de Camilla, Æn. 11. ——— intactæ segetis per summa volaret, &c. hyperbolicè.

VIII. VERS. 154,

Jamque faces & saxa volant, furor arma ministrat.

Jam fæces & saxa volant, fugiuntque Ministri:
 Uti solent, instanti periculo — Fæces, facibus longe præstant; quid enim nisi fæces jactarent vulgus sordidum?

IX. VERS. 170.

Fronte sub adversa scopulis pendentibus an-trum,

Intus aquæ dulces, vivoque sedilia saxo.

Fronte sub adversa populis prandentibus an-trum.

Sic malim, longe potius quam scopulis penden- tibus:

Nugæ! Nonne vides versu sequenti dulces aquas ad potandum & sedilia ad discumbendum dari?
 In quorum usum? quippe prandentium.

X. VERS. 188.

— Tres littore corvos

Prospicit errantes: hos tota armenta sequun-ter

A tergo —

Tres litore corvos

Aspicit errantes: hos agmina tota sequuntur

A tergo — Cervi, lectio vulgata, absurditas notissima: hæc Animalia in Africa non in-veniri, quis nescit? At motus & ambulandi ritus Corvorum quis non agnovit hoc loco!
Littore, locus ubi errant Corvi, uti Noster
 alibi,

Et sola secum sicca spaciatur arena.

Omen

Omen præclarissimum, immo & agminibus
Militum frequentè observatum, ut patet ex Historicis.

XI. VERS. 748.

Arcturum, pluviasque Hyades, geminosque
Triones.

Error gravissimus. Corrige, ——— septemque
Triones.

XII. VERS. 631.

Quare agite O juvenes, lectis succedite nostris.

Lectis potius dicebat Dido, polita magis orati-one, & quæ unica voce & Torum & Mensam exprimebat : Hanc lectionem probe confirmat appellatio O Juvenes : Duplicem hunc sen-sum alibi etiam Maro lepidè innuit, Æn. 4.
v. 19.

Huic uni forsan potui succumbere culpa :

Anna ? fatebor enim ———

Corrige, Huic uni [Viro scil.] potui succumbere :
Culpas

Anna ? fatebor enim, &c.

Vox succumbere quam eleganter ambigua !

LIBER SECUNDUS. VERS. I.

CONTICUERE omnes, intentique ora tenebant,

E 3

Inde

Inde toro Pater Æneas sic orsus ab alto :

Concubuerunt omnes, intentèque ora tenebant ;
Inde toro satur Æneas sic orsus ab alto.

Concubuerunt, quia toro Æncam vidimus accumbentem : quin & altera ratio, scil. Conticuere & ora tenebant, tautologice, dictum. In Manu-scripto perquam rarissimo in Patris Musæo, legitur, ore gemebant ; sed magis ingeniosè quam verè.-- Satur Æneas, quippe qui jamjam a prandio surrexit : Pater nihil ad rem attinet.

VERS. 3.

Infandum Regina jubes renovare dolorem.

Infantum regina jubes renovare dolorem. Sic haud dubito veterrimis codicibus scriptum fuisse.
Hoc satis constat ex perantiqua illa Britannorum Cantilena vocata Chevy-chace, cujus autor hunc locum sibi ascivit in hæc verba,

The Child may rue that is unborn.

VERS. 4.

Trojanas ut opes, & lamentabile regnum.
Eruerint. Danai —

Trojanas ut Oves & lamentabile regnum Diruerint -- Mallem oves potius quam opes, quoniam in antiquissimis illis temporibus oves & armenta divi-tiæ regum fuere. Vel fortasse Oves Paradis innuit, quas super Idam nuperrime pascebat, & jam in vindictam

vindictam pro Helenæ raptu, a Menelao, Ajace, aliisque ducibus, merito occisas.

VERS. 5.

— Quæque ipse miserrima vidi,
Et quorum pars magna fui.

— Quæque ipse miserrimus audi,
Et quorum pars magna fui —

Omnia tam audita quam visa recta distinctione enarrare hic Æneas profitetur: Multa quorum nox ea fatalis sola conscia fuit, Vir probus & pius tanquam visa referre non potuit.

VERS. 7.

— Quis talia fando
Temperet a lacrymis?

— Quis talia flendo,
Temperet in lacrymis? — Major enim doloris indicatio, absque modo lacrymare? quam solummodo a lacrymis non temperare.

VERS. 9.

Et jam nox humida cœlo
Præcipitat, suadentque cadentia sydera som-nos.

Et jam nox lumina cœlo
Præcipitat, suadentque latentia sydera somnos, Lectio, humida, vespertinum rorem solum in-nuere videtur: magis mi arridet Lumina, quæ latentia

tentia postquam præcipitantur, Auroræ adventum annunciant.

VERS. 11.

Sed si tantus amor casus cognoscere nostros,
Et breviter Trojæ supremum audire laborem,
Sed si tantus amor curas cognoscere noctis,
Et breviter Trojæ Superumque audire labores.

Curæ Noctis (scilicet noctis Excidii Trojani) magis compendiosè (vel ut dixit ipse breviter) totam belli catastrophem denotat, quam diffusa illa & indeterminata lectio, casus nostros. — Ter audire gratum fuisse Didoni, patet ex libro quarto, ubi dicitur, Iliacosque iterum demens audire labores Exposcit : Ter enim pro sæpe usurpatur. Trojæ, superumque labores, recte, quia non tantum homines sed & Dii sese his laboribus immiscuerunt. Vide Æn. 2. vers. 610, &c.

VERS. 13.

Quamquam animus meminisse horret, luctusque
refugit,

Incipiam.

Quamquam animus meminisse horret, luctusque
resurgit. Resurgit multò proprius dolorem renascentem notat, quam ut hætenus, refugit.

VERS. 14.

Fracti bello, fatisque repulsi,
Ductores Danaûm, tot jam lætibus annis,
Instar montis Equum, divina Palladis arte, Ædificant — &c.

Tracti

Traēti bello, fatisque repulsi.

Traēti & Repulsi, Antithesis perpulchra ! attraēti frigide & vulgaritèr.

Equum jam Trojanum, (ut vulgus loquiter) adamus : quem si Equam Græcam vocabis Lector, minimè pecces : Solæ enim femellæ utero gestant.
— Uterumque armato milite complent — Uteroque
recusso Insonuere cavæ Atque utero sonitum quater arma dedere. — Inclusos utero Danaos, &c. Vox fætq non convenit maribus, — Scandit fatalis machina muros, Foeta armis — Palladem Virgi- nem, Equo mari fabricando invigilare decuisse, quis putat ? Incredibile prorsus ! Quamobrem existimo veram Equæ lectionem passim restituendam, nisi ubi forte, metri causa, Equum potius quam Equam, Genus, pro Sexu, dixit Maro. Vale ! dum hæc paucula corriges, majus opus moveo.

M. S.

It cannot Rain but it Pours:

O R,

LONDON strow'd with Rarities.

BEING,

An Account of the Arrivall of a White Bear, at the House of Mr. Ratcliff in Bishopsgate-Street: As also of the Faustina, the celebrated Italian Singing Woman; And of the Copper-Farthing Dean from Ireland.

And Lastly,

Of the wonderful Wild Man that was nursed in the Woods Of Germany by a Wild Beast, hunted and taken in Toyls; how he behaveth himself like a dumb Creature, and is a Christian like one of us, being call'd Peter; and how he was brought to Court all in green, to the great Astonishment of the Quality and Gentry, 1726.

WE shall begin with a Description of Peter the Savage, deferring our other Curiosities to some following Papers.

Romulus and Remus, the two famous wild Men of Antiquity, and Orsin that of the Moderns, have been justly the Admiration of all Mankind: Nor can we preface less of this wild Youth, as may be gather'd from that famous and well known Prophecy of Lilly's, which being now accomplish'd, is most easily interpreted.

When

*When Rome shall wend to Benevento,
And Espagne breaking the Affiento;
When Eagle Split shall fly to China,
And Christian Folks adore Fauſtina:
Then ſhall an Oak be brought to Bed,
Of Creature neither taught nor fed;
Great Feats ſhall be atchieve—*

The Pope is now going to Benevento: the Spaniards having broke their Treaty; the Emperor Trades to China; and Lilly, were he alive, muſt be convinced, that it was not the Empreſs Fauſtina that was meant in the Prophecy.

It is evident by ſeveral Tokens about this wild Gentleman, that he had a Father and Mother like one of us; but there being no Register of his Chriſtning, his Age is only to be gueſſed at by his Stature and Countenance, and appeareth to be about twelve or Thirteen. His being ſo young was the Occaſion of the great Diſappointment of the Ladies, who came to the Drawing Room in full Expectation of ſome Attempt upon their Chaſtity: So far is true, that he endeavour'd to Kiſs the young Lady W-le, who for that reaſon is become the Envy of the Circle; this being a Declaration of Nature, in favour of her ſuperior Beauty.

Ariſtotle ſaith, That Man is the moſt Mimick of all Animals; which Opinion of that great Philoſopher is ſtrongly confirm'd by the Behaviour of this wild Gentleman, who is endow'd with that Quality to an extream Degree. He receiv'd his firſt Impreſſions at Court: His Manners

Manners are, first to lick People's Hands, and then turn his Breech upon them; to thrust his Hand into every body's Pocket; to climb over People's Heads; and even to make use of the Royal Hand, to take what he has a mind to. At his first Appearance he seiz'd on the Lord Chamberlain's Staff, and put on his Hat before the King; from whence some have conjectur'd, that he is either descended from a Grandee of Spain, or the Earls of Kingsale in Ireland. However, these are manifest Tokens of his innate Ambition; he is extreamly tenacious of his own Property, and ready to invade that of other People. By this mimick Quality he discover'd what wild Beast had nurs'd him: Observing Children to ask Blessing of their Mothers, one Day he fell down upon his Knees to a Sow, and mutter'd some Sounds in that humble Posture.

It has been commonly thought, that he is Ulrick's natural Brother, because of some resemblance of Manners, and the officious Care of Ulrick about him; but the Superiority of the Parts and Genius in Peter, demonstrates this to be impossible.

Though he is ignorant both of ancient and modern Languages, (that Care being left to the ingenious Physician, who is entrusted with his Education) yet he distinguishes Objects by certain Sounds fram'd to himself, which Mr. Rotenberg, who brought him over, understands perfectly. Beholding one day the Shambles with great Fear and Astonishment, ever since he calls Man by the same Sound which expresseth Wolf. A young Lady is a Peacock, old Women Mag-pyes and Owls; a Beau

Beau with a Toupee, a Monkey ; Glass, Ice ; Blue, Red, and Green Ribbons, he calls Rainbows ; an Heap of Gold a Turd. The first Ship he saw, he took to be a great Beast swimming on her Back, and her Feet tied above her : The Men that came out of the Hold he took to be her Cubs, and wonder'd they were so unlike their Dam. He understands perfectly the Language of all Beasts and Birds, and is not, like them, confin'd to that of one Species. He can bring any Beast what he calls for, and no doubt is much miss'd now in his Native Woods, where he us'd to do good Offices among his Fellow Citizens, and serv'd as a Mediator to reconcile their Differences. One Day he warn'd a Flock of Sheep that were driving to the Shambles, of their Danger, and upon uttering some Sounds, they all fled. He takes vast Pleasure in Conversation with Horses ; and going to the Meuse to converse with two of his intimate Acquaintances in the King's Stables, as he pass'd by, he Neighed to the horse at Charing-Cross ; being as it were surpriz'd to see him so high, he seem'd to take it ill that the Horse did not answer him ; but I think no body can undervalue his Understanding for not being skill'd in Statuary.

He expresseth his Joy most commonly by Neighing ; and whatever the Philosophers may talk of their Risibility, Neighing is a more Noble Expression of that Passion than Laughing, which seems to me to have something Silly in it ; and besides, is often attended with Tears. Other Animals are sensible they debase themselves, by mimicking Laughter ; and I take it to be a general Observation, that the top Felicity of Mankind is to imitate Monkeys, and Birds: Witness Harlequins, Scaramouches and Masquerades; on the other Hand, Monkeys, when they would look extreamly silly, endeavour to bring themselves down to Mankind. Love he expresseth by the Cooing of a Dove, and Anger by the Croaking of a Raven, and it is not doubted but that he will serve in Time as an Interpreter between us and other Animals.

to

Great Instruction is to be had from this wild Youth in the knowledge of Simples; and I am of Opinion, that he ought always to attend the Censors of the College in their Visitation of Apothecaries Shops.

I am told that the new Seet of Herb-eaters intend to follow him into the Fields, or to beg him for a Clerk of their Kitchen; And that there are many of them now thinking of turning their Children into Woods to Graze with the Cattle, in hopes to raise a healthy and moral Race, refin'd from the Corruptions of this Luxurious World.

He sings naturally several pretty Tunes of his own Composing, and with equal Facility, in the Chromatick, Inharmonick, and Diatonick Stile, and consequently must be of infinite Use to the Academy, in judging of the Merits of their Composers, and is the only Person that ought to decide betwixt Cuzzoni and Faustina.

I cannot omit his first Notion of Cloaths, which he took to be the natural Skins of the Creatures that wore them, and seem'd to be in great Pain for the pulling off a Stocking, thinking the poor Man was a Fleaing.

I am not ignorant that there are disaffected People, ple, who say he is a Pretender, and no genuine wild Man. This Calumny proceeds from the false Notions they have of wild Men, which they frame from such as they see about the Town, whose Actions are rather absurd than wild; therefore it will be incumbent on all young Gentlemen, who are ambitious to excel in this Character, to Copy this true Original of Nature.

The Senses of this wild Man are vastly more acute than those of a tame One; he can follow the Track of a Man, or any other Beast of Prey. A Dog is an Ass to him for finding Troubles; his Hearing is more perfect, because his Ears not having been confin'd by Bandages, he can move them like a Drill, and turn them towards the Sonorous Object.

Let us pray the Creator of all Beings, Wild and Tame, that as this wild Youth, by being brought to Court, has been made a Christian; so such as are at Court, and are no Christians, may lay aside their Savage and Rapacious Nature, and return to the Meekness of the Gospel.

An INFALIBLE SCHEME
To Pay the PUBLICK DEBT
OF
IRELAND in Six Months.

THE great Distress of this unhappy Country, is too visible to all, except those who have Power to redress it.

We may observe thro' the whole Nation one universal Complaint of the Decay of Trade, the Oppression of Landlords, and the Deficiency of Money ; and yet I cannot find among all the Schemes proposed to lessen these Evils, any one in particular, which seems likely to succeed.

But, what is still an Addition to this melancholy Prospect of Affairs, is the unbounded Luxury and Extravagance, both in Apparel and Enter-

Entertainments, which Persons of all Ranks and Degrees run into at present, tho' in general we labour under such Hardships and Poverty.

We are affected in a quite different Manner from all the Nations upon Earth; for, with others, Wealth is the Mother of Luxury, but with us Poverty has the very same Effect: With others, Scarcity is the Parent of Industry, but with us it is the Nurse of Idleness and Vice.

We labour to imitate our neighbouring Kingdoms in nothing but their Extravagance, without having the same plentiful Aids of Commerce, or applying ourselves to the Study of Fair-dealing to maintain it. So that, in short, by our own ill Management, we are brought to so low an Ebb of Wealth and Credit, that our Condition seems incapable of any Relief.

But as I have the interest of this misguided People very much at Heart, I do not intend this Essay as a Detection of their present Grievances, but as a Remedy against them. And for that Purpose I have laboured to find out such a Scheme as will discharge our publick Debt with all possible Ease and Pleasure to the Subject, and in so short a Time, that we may neither complain of being oppressed with long continued Taxes, (as some unreasonable People often presume to do) nor quite despair of being once more in a thriving Condition.

Let us consider what those Vices are, which at present prevail most among us; and I believe, upon Enquiry, they will be found Perjury, Fornication, Drunkenness, Swearing, Slander, Infidelity, Fraud, Blasphemy, and many others.

Would

Would it not then be worthy of our Consideration whether a moderate Tax upon every particular Vice, instead of laying an additional Duty upon Wine, Hops, and other Commodities, wou'd not supply us with a sufficient Sum in a very short Time? Such a Tax must of Necessity yield a vast Revenue, and prove the most infallible, and indeed the only Scheme for our Prosperity, if it shall be thought proper to be continued.

But, before I proceed to Particulars, it may not be amiss to premise, that this Tax is not designed for any one County or Province in this Kingdom, but to extend itself universally over the whole Nation; because different Vices may flourish in different Counties, as different Plants in their different Soils; as Perjury in one, Theft in another, Diffimulation and Flattery in another, Rapine in another, and so of the rest: However, I take Theft to be our peculiar staple Vice.

And least any Disputes may hereafter arise about the Nature of Perjury, the Intention of the Act in this particular, or what Persons are to be subject to this Tax, I must here also premise, that every Lie confirmed by an Oath, is undoubtedly Perjury, whether before a Magistrate, or behind a Counter. And, therefore, we do not doubt, but the Trading Part of our People, will be great Benefactors to the Publick, in this particular Article, as well as many others.

These two Things being premis'd, let us suppose suppose that in this large Country, 5000 Persons are guilty of this Infirmary each Day. Which Computation must be allow'd very moderate, if we recollect that this Number is not above a four-hundredth Part of the Inhabitants of this Kingdom, who are generally computed to amount to Two-Millions. And if we further consider what strong Inducements our Natives have to practise it, from its being often so exceeding beneficial; if we consider the great Use made of it in all Sorts of Traffick; the great Demands for it in Law-suits; the great Advantage of it in Elections, and the undeniable Profit of it in all Prosecutions, we shall think the Number of 5000 still more reasonable.

Let us then suppose every one of this Number to be perjur'd, only once every Day, (which is a very favourable Supposition) and subject only to a Tax of Sixpence for each Offence; for which Sum, perhaps, he may procure either the Death of an Enemy, an Estate for his Friend, or a Fortune for himself, (all which are esteem'd very desirable) the Tax will be too inconsiderable to make any one murmur, and yet will yield the Sum of 125 l. per Day, towards discharging our National Debt.

Besides, this Tax, tho' very low, may in Reality be very profitable for Mankind; for Attornies, Sollicitors, Usurers, Butchers, and other honest Traders, will scarce think it answerable to the Expence of Time, to forswear themselves for any Profit from One Penny to Six Pence inclusive, (as now customary) but will at least,

for

for every Transgression, expect to gain sufficient to detract the Tax.

However, I would have all sworn Constables, and all Collectors of this and many other Taxes, entirely exempted from any Penalty as priviledg'd Persons; because, by that Means they will be enabled to be very serviceable in their several Stations.

Fornication, as the World is at present, would furnish the Publick with a large Sum, even at a very moderate Tax; for it is now made an essential Part of the polite Gentleman's Character, and he that has prevail'd on the greatest Number, proportionably rises in Reputation.

Let us then compute that in the several Parts of this Nation, 5000 per Day, were liable to be taxed for this general Vice, only at two Shillings: The Sum arising from this to the publick Good, will amount to 500 l. per Day, and in Six Months to almost one Third of our National Debt.

I know it may be here objected, that I have computed upon too small a Number, and that I might justly account rather upon Twenty or Thirty Thousand per Day, in the several Counties of this Kingdom: But, tho' I own this Objection to be very strong, if we were to consider the Opportunities of Wakes, Patron Days, Hay-making Seasons, May-Days, Religious Pilgrimages to Holy Wells, Balls publick and private, and many other commodious Scenes for that kind of Entertainment; yet I would rather chuse to err on the right Side in too small, than too great a Computation.

I know the Popish Clergy will make strong Remonstrances against this Tax ; and plead, that it is design'd to oppress them ; that all Nations of the Earth allow them a Toleration in this particular Point, as they are frail Mortals, and sworn to Celibacy ; and what is still worse, that such a Tax should be the most effectual Means to drain them of their whole Revenues ; but as I would not have such pious Persons justly complain of the least Rigour, I shall readily agree to their being exempted.

Drunkennes I would only Tax at Six Pence, because it might be prejudicial to His Majesty's Revenue, to discourage it, and consequently subject the Proposer to Penalties.

Let us then compute, that only Twenty Thousand Persons, (which is but one hundredth Part of the People in this Kingdom) were daily liable to be tax'd, the Amount would be 500 l. per Day. And how extreamly moderate this Computation is, may appear to any one who considers, that besides the usual Opportunities of Taverns, and private Houses, there are Elections, Fairs, Mayor's Feasts, University Treats, Corporation Dinners, Christmas Regales, Weddings and Christnings, both in Town and Country, and many other irresistible Inducements to this manly Vice, which would, perhaps, if nicely calculated, daily furnish us with two Thirds more than our computed Number, and by that Means greatly conduce to the Publick Good.

But, however, I would by all Means exempt all Country Justices of the Peace, whether Squires

Squires or Parsons : because it would be unseemly to see such honourable and reverend Personages insulted by meaner Officers, as often as they might be discover'd in such a Condition.

Swearing would be a most universal Benefit in this Case ; because, at present, it serves to season the Discourse of all Ranks and Degrees of Men. It is the principal Ingredient and Decoration of all modern Jokes, Gibes, Quarrels, Love-Speeches, Disputes, Threats and Promises, and consequently capable of affording an incredible Revenue.

However, let us suppose 40000 Persons per Day, liable to the Tax of Six Pence only for each Offence of this Kind ; which, considering the great Number of Markets, Coffee-Houses, Shambles, Barracks, and Gaming-Houses in this Kingdom, is a very inconsiderable Number ; yet even this Article will furnish us with 1000 l. per Day, which would amount to near two Thirds of the publick Debt.

Our Laws have amerced each Offence in this way at One Shilling, ordering one half to the Informer, and the other to the Poor, which, in my humble Opinion, was very ill concerted ; for if the Legislature did really intend that this Law should be punctually enforced, they ought to have divided the whole Mulct between the Informer and the Justice, without any regard to the Poor, and then, they might be assured, it would be vigorously executed.

I am already apprehensive, that all military Persons will expect an Exemption from Taxes on this Account ; because they may plead Precedents cedents for many Generations, may alledge the Power of Custom, the Decency and Comeliness of it, when properly mingled with other Discourse, or that the censorious World would perhaps suspect they knew nothing of God at all, if they did not sometimes mention his Name; and many other Persons of equal Weight: But though these Remonstrances are very just, yet as this is the only Means by which, some think a Standing Army can conduce to the national Good, it will be hard to exempt them.

However, as the military Power would infallibly be liable to this Tax in all its Branches, by which Means they might be utterly impoverish'd, I believe it may not be improper to allow all Foot-Soldiers and Field-Officers, all young Ensigns, spruce Cornets, naval Captains, Cabin-Boys and Quarter-Masters, forty or fifty Oaths a Day, entirely free from any Tax or Penalty.

As for Slander, supposing only twenty thousand per Day, taxed at Six Pence for every Offence, this Article would daily afford the Publick (at the lowest reasonable Computation) five hundred Pounds.

And, as this is a favourite Talent, we might have ventur'd to tax it much higher; but I would not seem to discourage so charitable a Disposition, especially where it may promote the Interest of my Country.

As to the Ladies, I have been always too great an Admirer of theirs, to desire any Restriction should be laid on their Pleasure, either private or publick; and therefore I would have them them tax'd only half as much as the Men for every little Error of this Kind; because Slander, in Men, is a Talent unnatural and acquired, and generally practis'd to ingratiate themselves with the opposite Sex; whereas this genteel Failing in Females, is innate, and impossible to be restrain'd; which is a Case that demands our utmost Compassion.

I think all Drawing-Rooms, Assemblies, and all Places of publick Resort for Ladies, ought to be exempt from any Penalty, because it is so material a Part of the Discourse and Amusement of those Places, that to tax them for each Offence, would be in Effect, to enjoin them perpetual Silence; which, if it were possible, would be too great a Misfortune, both to themselves and the World, to be exacted from them.

Infidelity and Blasphemy would furnish us with a considerable Sum; and as they are not originally of our own Growth, but annually imported from Neighbouring Kingdoms, they ought to be subject to some Duty, which in few Years would probably be a vast Addition to the publick Revenue. Yet as this Traffick is principally carried on by young Lawyers, and travelling Squires, any Attempt to tax it would certainly meet with too vigorous an Opposition. But on condition it might pass into a Law, I would gladly exempt both Lawyers of all Ages, Subalterns, and Field-Officers, young Heirs, Dancing-Masters, Pick-Pockets, and Players.

Let us now only consider the several Sums arising from the Tax on our Vices, as we have before computed them, and the Justness and Infallibility Infallibility of this Scheme must appear demonstrably.

l.

The publick Debt of this Nation is } 3000000 about — — —

l.

And the Tax			125	}	per Day.
For Perjury,	—	—	500
Fornication,	—	—	500
Drunkenness,	—	—	1000
Swearing,	—	—	500
Slander,	—	—	500

Total per Day 2625

which in 182 Days or half a Year, will amount to 477,750 l. which is considerably more than our National Debt.

But, lest by the universal Poverty of our People, which is much to be fear'd, or by their growing more virtuous, which never can be reasonably apprehended, this daily Income should fall short of what we have computed, I must humbly beg Leave to offer some other Improvements of this Scheme, which will undoubtedly answer all Deficiencies.

And for this Purpose, what if a severe Tax was laid on all manner of Persons who presum'd to marry 'till they were full Forty Years old? If any should prove Fool-hardy enough to transgress a Law so calculated for the Happiness of Men, each Offence would be of signal Benefit to the Publick, and if providentially it should prove an effectual

F

Re-

Restraint, there must of Necessity be fewer Children in each Family, and of Consequence the Number of Beggars and Wretches in this Kingdom must proportionably decrease. And what would still be more material, perhaps, in one Age, if this beneficial Act should be continued, the greatest Part of this Country would require to be new peopled from E — d; a Circumstance greatly to be wish'd; because such an Accident would probably cure that Nation of its inveterate Antipathy to the Inhabitants of this, at least for some Generations.

As for the Scheme to tax Batchelors, which has lately been propos'd to the House by one of its Honourable Members, I must beg leave to think it highly improper; because Batchelors, of all Ranks and Degrees, are real Benefactors to the Publick, by not furnishing it either with Beggars, or Oppressors of Beggars, one of which must infallibly be the Consequence of Marriage in this Country.

I would also earnestly request, that all young Clergymen, who, with more Passion than Prudence, shall dare to marry before they are benefited, may be liable to a most severe Tax, equal to a Prohibition; because such Offenders must inevitably multiply Beggars, live in Contempt, and die in Poverty.

These, and many other Expedients, might easily be found upon any Emergency to furnish considerable Sums for the National Debt.

But as there will remain about 177,750 l. over and above our publick Debt, I will allow One Hundred Thousand Pounds of it for Sallaries, to such such Persons as shall be appointed Collectors, and I hope this will be a reasonable Provision, tho' generally above one half of every Tax is expended in paying proper Officers to collect it. The Overplus may be deposited in the Treasury for any other pious Use.

And if this Scheme should be so fortunate as to succeed, as I have no reason to doubt from the present Disposition of the H — of C — s, all those Noblemen who shall be appointed Commissioners, will have excellent Opportunities of promoting their Nephews, Cousins, Footmen, Fosterers, Valets, and other valuable Dependants, to good Incomes, and Places of Trust and Credit. But I would, by all Means, have none but Englishmen nominated to be Tax-Gatherers; because we may rationally suppose, that they will be entirely free from Prejudice, in Favour of the Natives of this Kingdom.

Thus would a moderate Tax upon our Vices apparently contribute to save this Nation from utter Ruin. Many Persons who have not the least Excuse for their Irregularities at present, (except the commendable Publick-spirited Contempt for Religion) might then plead in their own Defence, that their Immoralities had preserv'd their Country. And by this Means we might be furnish'd with a Multitude of Patriots, who probably would never prove so in any other Respect.

But I must humbly beg leave to dissent from that religious Gentleman, the excellent Author of the Fable of the Bees; though, perhaps, such a Particularity of Opinion may injure my Character with several of my Lay-brethren of most Professions; and I must publickly declare, that there can be no other Method half so good as mine, to make Private Vices Publick Benefits.

A M O D E S T
P R O P O S A L

F O R

Preventing the Children of poor people in Ireland, from being a Burden to their Parents or Country, and for making them Beneficial to the Publick.

IT is a melancholy Object to those, who walk through this great Town or travel in the Country, when they see the Streets, the Roads and Cabbin-doors crowded with Beggars of the Female Sex, followed by three, four, or six Children, all in Rags, and importuning every Passenger for an Alms. These Mothers instead of being able to work for their honest livelyhood, are forced to employ all their time in Stroling to beg Sustenance for their helpless Infants, who, as they grow up, either turn Thieves for want of Work, or leave their dear Native Country, to fight for the Pretender in Spain, or sell themselves to the Barbadoes.

I think it is agreed by all Parties, that this prodigious digious number of Children in the Arms, or on the Backs, or at the Heels of their Mothers, and frequently of their Fathers, is in the present deplorable state of the Kingdom, a very great additional Grievance ; and therefore whoever could find out a fair, cheap and easy method of making these Children sound and useful Members of the Common-wealth, would deserve so well of the Publick, as to have his Statue set up for a Preserver of the Nation.

But my Intention is very far from being confined to provide only for the Children of professed Beggars, it is of a much greater Extent, and shall take in the whole Number of Infants at a certain Age, who are born of Parents in effect as little able to support them, as those who demand our Charity in the Streets.

As to my own Part, having turned my Thoughts, for many Years, upon this important Subject, and maturely weighed the several Schemes for no Projectors, I have always found them grossly mistaken in their Computation. It is true, a Child just dropt from its Dam, may be supported by her Milk, for a Solar Year with little other Nourishment, at most not above the Value of two Shillings, which the Mother may certainly get, or the Value in Scraps, by her lawful Occupation of Begging ; and it is exactly at one Year Old that I propose to provide for them in such a Manner, as, instead of being a Charge upon their Parents, or the Parish, or wanting Food and Raiment for the rest of their Lives, they shall, on the Contrary, contribute to the feeding, and partly to the Cloathing of many Thousands.

There

There is likewise another great Advantage in my Scheme, that it will prevent those voluntary Abortions, and that horrid Practice of Women murdering their Bastard Children, alas! too frequent among us, Sacrificing the poor innocent Babes, I doubt, more to avoid the Expence than the Shame, which would move Tears and Pity in the most savage and inhuman Breast.

The number of Souls in this Kingdom being usually reckoned one Million and a half. Of these I calculate there may be about two hundred thousand Couple whose Wives are Breeders; from which number I subtract thirty Thousand Couples, who are able to maintain their own Children, although I apprehend there cannot be so many, under the present Distresses of the Kingdom; but this being granted, there will remain an hundred and seventy Thousand Breeders. I again subtract fifty Thousand, for those Women who miscarry, or whose Children die by accident, or disease within the Year. There only remain an hundred and twenty thousand Children of poor Parents annually born: The question therefore is, How this number shall be reared, and provided for? which, as I have already said, under the present Situation of Affairs, is utterly impossible by all the Methods hitherto proposed; for we can neither employ them in Handicraft or Agriculture; we neither build Houses, (I mean in the Country) nor cultivate Land: They can very seldom pick up a Livelihood by Stealing till they arrive at six years old; except where they are of towardly parts; although, I confess, they learn the Rudiments much earlier; during which time they can however be properly looked upon only as Probationers; as I have been informed by a principal Gentleman in the County of Cavan, who protested to me, that he never knew above one or two Instances under the Age of six, even in a part of the Kingdom so renowned for the quickest Proficiency in that Art.

I am assured by our Merchants, that a Boy or a Girl before twelve years old, is no saleable Commodity, and even when they come to this Age, they will not yield above three Pounds, or three Pounds and half a Crown at most, on the Exchange; which cannot turn to Account either to the Parents or Kingdom, the Charge of Nutriment and Rags having been at least four times that Value.

I shall now therefore humbly propose my own Thoughts, which I hope will not be liable to the least Objection.

I have been assured by a very knowing American of my Acquaintance in London, that a young healthy Child well Nursed, is, at a Year old, a most delicious nourishing and wholesome Food, whether Stewed, Roasted, Baked, or Boiled; and I make no doubt that it will equally serve in a Fricassee, or a Ragoust.

I do therefore humbly offer it to publick Consideration, that of the Hundred and twenty thousand Children, already computed, twenty thousand may be reserved for Breed, whereof only one fourth Part to be Males; which is more than we allow to Sheep, black Cattle, or Swine, and my reason is, that these Children are seldom the Fruits of Marriage, a Circumstance not much regarded regarded by our Savages, therefore, one Male will be sufficient to serve four Females. That the remaining Hundred thousand may, at a Year old, be offered in Sale to the Persons of Quality and Fortune, through the Kingdom, always advising the Mother to let them Suck plentifully in the last Month, so as to render them Plump, and Fat for a good Table. A Child will make two Dishes at an entertainment for Friends, and when the Family dines alone, the fore or hind Quarter will make a reasonable Dish, and seasoned with a little Pepper or Salt will be very good Boiled on the fourth Day, especially in Winter.

I have reckoned upon a Medium, that a Child just born will weigh 12 Pounds, and in a solar Year, if tolerably nursed, encreaseth to 28 Pounds.

I grant this food will be somewhat dear, and therefore very proper for Landlords, who, as they have already devoured most of the Parents, seem to have the best Title to the Children.

Infant's flesh will be in Season throughout the Year, but more plentiful in March, and a little before and after; for we are told by a grave Author, an eminent French Physician, that Fish being a prolifick Dyet, there are more Children born in Roman Catholick Countries about nine Months after Lent, than at any other Season; therefore reckoning a Year after Lent, the Markets will be more glutted than usual, because the Number of Popish Infants, is at least three to one in this Kingdom, and therefore it will have one other Collateral Advantage, by lessening the Number of Papists among us.

I have already computed the Charge of nursing a Beggar's Child (in which List I reckon all Cottagers, Labourers, and four-fifths of the Farmers) to be about two Shillings per Annum, Rags included; and I believe no Gentleman would repine to give Ten Shillings for the Carcass of a good fat Child, which, as I have said, will make four Dishes of excellent Nutritive Meat, when he hath only some particular Friend, or his own Family to dine with him. Thus the Squire will learn to be a good Landlord, and grow popular among his Tenants, the Mother will have Eight Shillings neat Profit, and be fit for Work 'till she produces another Child.

Those who are more thrifty (as I must confess the Times require) may flea the Carcass; the Skin of which, Artificially dressed, will make admirable Gloves for Ladies, and Summer Boots for fine Gentlemen.

As to our City of Dublin, Shambles may be appointed for this purpose, in the most convenient Parts of it, and Butchers we may be assured will not be wanting; although I rather recommend buying the Children alive, and dressing them hot from the Knife, as we do roasting Pigs.

A very worthy Person, a true Lover of his Country, and whose Virtues I highly esteem, was lately pleased, in discoursing on this Matter, to offer a Refinement upon my Scheme. He said, that many Gentlemen of this Kingdom, having of late destroyed their Deer, he conceived that the Want of Venison might be well supply'd by the
the

the Bodies of young Lads and Maidens, not exceeding fourteen Years of Age, nor under twelve; so great a Number of both Sexes in every Country being now ready to starve for want of Work and Service: And these to be disposed of by their Parents if alive, or otherwise by their nearest Relations. But with due deference to so excellent a Friend, and so deserving a Patriot, I cannot be altogether in his Sentiments; for as to the Males, my American Acquaintance assured me from frequent Experience, that their Flesh was generally Tough and Lean, like that of our School-boys, by continual Exercise, and their Taste disagreeable, and to fatten them would not answer the Charge. Then as to the Females, it would, I think, with humble Submission, be a Loss to the Publick, because they soon would become Breeders themselves: And besides, it is not improbable that some scrupulous People might be apt to censure such a Practice, (although indeed very unjustly) as a little bordering upon Cruelty, which, I confess, hath always been with me the strongest Objection against any Project, how well soever intended.

But in order to justify my Friend, he confessed, that this Expedient was put into his Head by the famous Sallmanaazor, a Native of the Island Formosa, who came from thence to London, above twenty Years ago, and in Conversation told my Friend, that in his Country, when any young Person happened to be put to Death, the Executioner sold the Carcass to Persons of Quality, as a prime Dainty, and that, in his Time, the Body of a plump Girl of fifteen, who was crucified crucified for an Attempt to poison the Emperor, was sold to his Imperial Majesty's prime Minister of State, and other great Mandarins of the Court in foints from the Gibbet, at four hundred Crowns. Neither indeed can I deny, that if the same Use were made of several plump young Girls in this Town, who without one single Groat to their Fortunes, cannot stir abroad without a Chair, and appear at a Play-house, and Assemblies in foreign Fineries, which they never will pay for; the Kingdom would not be the worse.

Some Persons of a desponding Spirit are in great Concern about that vast Number of poor People, who are Aged, Diseased, or Maimed, and I have been desired to employ my Thoughts what Course may be taken, to ease the Nation of so grievous an Incumbrance. But I am not in the least Pain upon that Matter, because it is very well known, that they are every Day dy- ing, and rotting, by Cold and Famine, and Filth, and Vermin, as fast as can be reasonably expected. And as to the young Labourers, they are now in almost as hopeful a Condition. They cannot get Work, and consequently pine away for want of Nourishment, to a degree, that if at any Time they are accidentally hired to common Labour, they have not Strength to perform it, and thus the Country and themselves are happily delivered from the Evils to come.

I have too long digressed, and therefore shall return to my Subject, I think the Advantages by the Proposal which I have made are obvious and many, as well as of the highest Importance.

For

For First, as I have already observed, it would greatly lessen the Number of Papists, with whom we are Yearly over-run, being the principal Breeders of the Nation, as well as our most dangerous Enemies, and who stay at home on purpose with a Design to deliver the Kingdom to the Pretender, hoping to take their Advantage by the Absence of so many good Protestants, who have chosen rather to leave their Country, than stay at home, and pay Tithes against their Conscience, to an Episcopal Curate.

Secondly, The poorer Tenants will have something valuable of their own, which by Law may be made liable to a Distress, and help to pay their Landlord's Rent, their Corn and Cattle being already seized, and Money a thing unknown.

Thirdly, Whereas the Maintainance of an hundred thousand Children, from two Years old, and upwards, cannot be computed at less than Ten Shillings a piece per Annum, the Nation's Stock will be thereby encreased fifty thousand Pounds per Annum, besides the Profit of a new Dish, introduced to the Tables of all Gentlemen of Fortune in the Kingdom, who have any Refinement in Taste, and the Money will circulate among our Selves, the Goods being entirely of our own Growth and Manufacture.

Fourthly, The constant Breeders, besides the Gain of eight Shillings Sterling per Annum, by the Sale of their Children, will be rid of the Charge of maintaining them after the first Year.

Fifthly,

Fifthly, This Food would likewise bring great Custom to Taverns, where the Vintners will certainly be so prudent as to procure the best Receipts for dressing it to Perfection; and consequently have their Houses frequented by all the fine Gentlemen, who justly value themselves upon their Knowledge in good Eating; and a skilful Cook, who understands how to oblige his Guests, will contrive to make it as expensive as they please.

Sixthly, This would be a great Inducement to Marriage, which all wise Nations have either encouraged by Rewards, or enforced by Laws and Penalties. It would encrease the Care and Tenderness of Mothers towards their Children, when they were sure of a Settlement for Life, to the poor Babes, provided in some Sort by the Publick, to their annual Profit instead of Expence; we should soon see an honest Emulation among the married Women, which of them could bring the fattest Child to the Market. Men would become as fond of their Wives, during the Time of their Pregnancy, as they are now of their Mares in Foal, their Cows in Calf, or Sows when they are ready to farrow, nor offer to beat or kick them (as is too frequent a Practice) for fear of a Miscarriage.

Many other Advantages might be enumerated. For Instance, the Addition of some thousand Carcasses in our exportation of Barrel'd Beef: The Propagation of Swines Flesh, and Improvement in the Art of making good Bacon, so much wanted among us by the great Destruction of Pigs, too frequent at our Tables, which are no way comparable in Taste, Taste, or Magnificence to a well grown, fat Yearly Child, which roasted whole will make a considerable Figure at a Lord Mayor's Feast, or any other Publick Entertainment. But this, and many others, I omit, being studious of Brevity.

Supposing that one thousand Families in this City, would be constant Customers for Infants Flesh, besides others who might have it at merry Meetings, particularly at Weddings and Christenings, I compute that Dublin would take off Annually about twenty thousand Carcasses and the rest of the Kingdom (where probably they will be sold somewhat cheaper) the remaining eighty Thousand.

I can think of no one Objection, that will possibly be raised against this Proposal, unless it should be urged, that the Number of People will be thereby much lessened in the Kingdom. This I freely own, and 'twas indeed one principal Design in offering it to the World. I desire the Reader will observe, that I calculate my Remedy for this one individual Kingdom of IRELAND, and for no Other that ever was, is, or, I think, ever can be upon Earth. Therefore let no Man talk to me of other Expedients: Of taxing our Absentees at five Shillings a Pound: Of using neither Cloaths, nor Household Furniture, except what is of our own Growth and Manufacture: Of utterly rejecting the Materials and Instruments that promote Foreign Luxury: Of curing the Expensiveness of Pride, Vanity, Idleness, and Gaming in our Women: Of introducing a Vein of Parsimony, Prudence and Temperance: Of learning to love our Country, wherein we differ even from LAPLANDERS,
and

and the Inhabitants of TOPINAMBOO: Of quitting our Animosities, and Faſtions, nor aſt any longer like the Jews, who were murdering one another at the very moment their City was taken: Of being a little cautious not to ſell our Country and Conſciences for nothing: Of teaching Landlords to have at leaſt one Degree of Mercy towards their Tenants. Laſtly, Of putting a Spirit of Honesty, Industry, and Skill into our Shop-keepers, who, if a Reſolution, could now be taken to buy only our Native Goods, would immediately unite to cheat and exact upon us in the Price, the Meaſure, and the Goodneſs, nor could ever yet be brought to make one fair Propoſal of juſt Dealing, though often and earneſtly invited to it.

Therefore I repeat, let no Man talk to me of theſe and the like Expedients, 'till he hath at leaſt ſome Glimpſe of Hope, that there will ever be ſome hearty and ſincere Attempt to put them in Practice.

But, as to my ſelf, having been wearied out for many Years with offering vain, idle, viſionary Thoughts, and at length utterly deſpairing of Succeſs, I fortunately fell upon this Propoſal, which, as it is wholly new, ſo it hath ſomething Solid and Real, of no Expence and little Trouble, full in our own Power, and whereby we can incur no Danger in diſobliging ENGLAND. For this kind of Commodity will not bear Exportation, the Fleſh being of too tender a Conſiſtence, to admit a long Continuance in Salt, although perhaps I could name a Country, which would be glad to eat up our whole Nation without it.

After all, I am not ſo violently bent upon my own

own Opinion, as to reject any Offer, proposed by wise Men, which shall be found equally innocent, cheap, easy, and effectual. But before something of that Kind shall be advanced in Contradiction to my Scheme, and offering a better, I desire the Author or Authors, will be pleased maturely to consider two Points. First, As things now stand, how they will be able to find Food and Raiment for a hundred Thousand uselesMouths andBacks. And Secondly, There being a roundMillion of Creatures in Humane Figure, throughout this Kingdom, whose whole subsistence put into a common Stock, would leave them in Debt two Millions of Pounds Sterling, adding those, who are Beggars by Profession, to the Bulk of Farmers, Cottagers and Labourers, with their Wives and Children, who are Beggars in effect; I desire those Politicians, who dislike my Overtue, and may perhaps be so bold to attempt an Answer, that they will first ask the Parents of these Mortals, Whether they would not at this Day think it a great Happiness to have been sold for Food at a Year old, in the manner I prescribe, and thereby have avoided such a perpetual Scene of Misfortunes, as they have since gone through, by the Oppression of Landlords, the Impossibility of paying Rent without Money or Trade, the Want of common Sustenance, with neither House nor Cloaths to cover them from the Inclemencies of the Weather, and the most inevitable Prospect of intailing the like, or greater Miseries upon their Breed for ever.

I profess in the Sincerity of my Heart, that I have not the least Personal Interest in endeavouring to promote this necessary Work, having no other Motive

Motive than the Publick Good of my Country, by advancing our Trade, providing for Infants, relieving the Poor, and giving some pleasure to the Rich. I have no Children, by which I can propose to get a single Penny; the youngest being nine Years Old, and my Wife past Child-bearing.

A VINDICATION
OF THE

Lord Lieutenant of Ireland,

THE Lord CARTERET,

From the CHARGE of favouring

Tories, High-Church-Men, and Jacobites.

IN order to treat this important Subject with the greatest Fairness and Impartiality, perhaps it may be convenient to give some Account of his Excellency, in whose Life and Character there are certain Particulars which might suggest a very just Suspicion of some Truth in the Accusation he lies under.

He is descended from two noble, ancient, and most loyal Families, the Carterets and the Granvilles; too much distinguished, I confess, for what

what they acted, and what they suffered in defending the former Constitution in Church and State, under King Charles the Martyr ; I mean that very Prince, on Account of whose Martyrdom a Form of Prayer with Fasting was enjoin'd by Act of Parliament, to be used on the Thirtieth Day of January every Year, to implore the Mercies of God, that the Guilt of that sacred and innocent Blood, &c. might not be visited on us or our Posterity, as we may read at large in our Common-Prayer-Books, which Day hath been solemnly kept, even within the Memory of many Men now alive.

His Excellency the present Lord, was educated in the University of Oxford ; from thence, with a Singularity scarce to be justified, he carried away more Greek, Latin, and Philosophy, than properly became a Person of his Rank ; indeed, much more of each, than most of those who are forc'd to live by their Learning, will be at the unnecessary Pains to load their Heads with.

This was the Rock he split on upon his first Appearance in the World, just got clear of his Guardians. For as soon as he came to Town, some Bishops and Clergymen, and other Persons most eminent for Learning and Parts, got him among them, from whom, though he were fortunately dragg'd by a Lady and the Court, yet he could never wipe off the Stain, nor wash out the Tincture of his University Acquirements and Disposition.

To this another Misfortune was added, That it pleas'd God to endow him with great natural Talents, Talents, Memory, Judgment, Comprehension, Eloquence, and Wit; and to finish the Work, all these were fortify'd, even in his Youth, with the Advantages received by such Employments, as are best fitted, both to exercise and polish the Gifts of Nature and Education, having been Ambassador in several Courts, when his Age would hardly allow him to take a Degree, and made Principal Secretary of State at a Period, when, according to Custom, he ought to have been busied in losing his Money at a Chocolate-house, or in other Amusements, equally laudable and epidemick among Persons of Honour.

I cannot omit another weak Side in his Excellency, for it is known, and can be proved upon him, that Greek and Latin Books might be found every Day in his Dressing-Room, if it were carefully searched; and there is Reason to suspect, that some of the said Books have been privately conveyed to him by Tory Hands. I am likewise assured, that he hath been taken in the very Fact of reading the said Books, even in the midst of a Session, to the great Neglect of publick Affairs.

I own, there may be some Grounds for this Charge, because I have it from good Hands, that when his Excellency is at Dinner with one or two Scholars at his Elbows, he grows a most insupportable and unintelligible Companion to all the fine Gentlemen round the table.

I cannot deny, that his Excellency lies under another great Disadvantage: for besides all the Accomplishments above mentioned, having that of a most comely and graceful Person, he hath, during the Prime of Youth, Spirits and Vigour, in a most exemplary Manner led a regular, domestic Life, discover'd a great Esteem, Friendship and Love for his Lady, as well as a true Affection for his Children: and when he is dispos'd to admit an entertaining Evening Companion, he doth not always enough reflect whether the Person may possibly in former Days have lain under the Imputation of a Tory? Nor at such Times do the natural or affected Fears of Popery and the Pretender make any Part of the Conversation: I presume, because neither Homer, Plato, Aristotle, nor Cicero, have made any mention of them.

These I freely acknowledge to be his Excellency's Failings; yet, I think, it is agreed by Philosophers and Divines, that some Allowance ought to be given to human Infirmary, and the Prejudices of a wrong Education.

I am well aware how much my Sentiments differ from the orthodox Opinion of one or two principal Patriots; for these have decided the Matter directly against me, by declaring, that no Person, who was ever known to lie under the Suspicion of one single Tory Principle, or who had been once seen at a great Man's Levee in the worst of Times, should be allow'd to come within the Verge of the Castle; much less to bow in the Anti-Chamber, appear at the Assemblies, or dance at a Birth-Night. However, I dare assert, that this Maxim hath been often controul'd, and that, on the contrary, a considerable Number of early Penitents have been received into Grace, who are now an Ornament, Happiness, and Support to the Nation.

Neither do I find any Murmuring on some other other Points of greater Importance, where this favourite Maxim is not so strictly observed.

To instance only in one. I have not heard that any Care hath hitherto been taken to discover whether * Madam Violante be a Whig or a Tory in her Principles, or even that she hath ever been offer'd the Oaths to the Government; on the contrary, I am told, that she openly professeth herself to be a High-Flyer; and it is not improbable, but by her Outlandish Name she may also be a Papist in her Heart; Yet we see this illustrious and dangerous Female openly carefs'd by principal Persons of both Parties, who contribute to support her in a splendid Manner, without the least Apprehensions from a Grand jury. And as Hobbs wisely observes, so much Money being equivalent to so much Power, it may deserve considering with what Safety such an Instrument of Power ought to be trusted in the Hands of an Alien, who hath not given any legal Security for her good Affection to the Government.

I confess there is one Evil, which I could wish our Friends would think proper to redress. There are many Whigs in this Kingdom of the old-fashion'd Stamp, of whom we might make very good Use; they bear the same Loyalty with us, to the Hanoverian Family, in the Person of King George the second; the same Abhorrence of the Pretender, with the Consequents of Popery and Slavery; and the same Indulgence to tender Consciences; but having nothing to ask for themselves, and consequently the more Leisure to think for the Publick; they are often apt to en-

* A famous Rope dancer.

ertain

ertain Fears and melancholy Prospects concerning the State of their Country, the Decay of Trade, the Want of Money, the miserable Condition of the People, with other Topicks of like Nature, all which do equally concern both Whig and Tory, who, if they have any Thing to lose, must be equally Sufferers. Perhaps one or two of these melancholy Gentlemen will sometimes venture to publish their Thoughts in Print: Now, I can by no Means approve our usual Custom of cursing and railing at this Species of Thinkers, under the Names of Tories, Jacobites, Papists, Libellers, Rebels, and the like.

This was the utter Ruin of that poor, angry, bustling, well-meaning Mortal Pistorides, who lies equally under the Contempt of both Parties, with no other Difference than a Mixture of Pity on one side and of Aversion on the other.

How hath he been pelted, pester'd and pounded by one single Wag, who promiseth never to forsake him living or dead.

I was much pleased with the Humour of a Surgeon in this Town, who, having in his own Apprehensions received some great Injustice from the Earl of Galloway, and despairing of Revenge, as well as Relief, declared to all his Friends, that he had set apart a hundred Guineas to purchase the Earl's Carcass from the Sexton, whenever it should die, to make a Skeleton of the Bones, stuff the Hide, and shew them for three Pence; and thus get Vengeance for the Injuries he had suffer'd by the owner.

Of the like Spirit too often is that implacable Race of Wits, against whom there is no Defence
but

but Innocence and Philosophy, neither of which is likely to be at Hand, and therefore the Wounded have no where to fly for a Cure, but to downright Stupidity, a crazed Head, or a profligate Contempt of Guilt and Shame.

I am therefore sorry for that other miserable Creature * Traulus, who altho' of somewhat a different Species, yet seems very far to out-do even the Genius of Pistorides in that miscarrying Talent of Railing without Consistency or Discretion, against the most innocent Persons, according to the present Situation of his Gall and Spleen. I do not blame an honest Gentleman for the bitterest Invectives against one to whom he professeth the greatest Friendship, provided he acts in the Dark, so as not to be discovered; but in the midst of Caresses, Visits, and Invitations, to run into the Streets, or to as publick a Place, and without the least pretended Incitement, sputter out the basest and falsest Accusations, then to wipe his Mouth, come up smiling to his Friend, shake him by the Hand, and tell him in a Whisper, it was all for his Service: This Proceeding I am bold to think a great Failure in Prudence, and I am afraid lest such a Practitioner, with a Body so open, so foul, and so full of Sores, may fall under the Resentment of an incens'd political Surgeon, who is not in much Renown for his Mercy upon great Provocation, who without waiting for his Death, will flay and dissect him alive, and to the View of Mankind lay open all the disorder'd Cells of his Brain, the Venom of his Tongue, the Corruption of his

* L—d V——t A—n, who spoke against the Libel in the Privy Council, and likewise in the House of Lords.

Heart, and Spots and Flatuluses of his Spleen-- and all this for three Pence.

In such a Case, what a Scene would be laid open? and to drop my Metaphor, what a Character of our mistaken Friend might an angry Enemy draw and expose? Particularizing that unnatural Conjunction of Vices and Follies so inconsistent with each other in the same Breast: Furious and fawning, scurrilous and flattering, cowardly and provoking, insolent and abject; most profligately false, with the strongest Professions of Sincerity; positive and variable, tyrannical and slavish.

In vain would his Excuses endeavour to palliate his Enormities, by imputing them to Madness, because it is well known, that Madness only operates by inflaming and enlarging the good or evil Dispositions of the Mind; for the Curators of Bedlam assures us, that some Lunaticks are Persons of Honour, Truth, Benevolence, and many other Virtues, which appear in their highest Ravings, although after a wild incoherent Manner, while others on the contrary discover in every Word and action the utmost Baseness and Depravity of human Minds; which infallibly they possessed in the same Degree, although perhaps under a better Regulation, before their Entrance into that Academy.

But it may be objected, that there is an Argument of much more Force to excuse the Overflowings of that zeal which our Friend shews or means for our Cause. And it must be confessed, that the easy and smooth Fluency of his Elocution bestowed on him by Nature, and cultivated by continual continual Practice, added to the Comelyness of his Person, the Harmony of his Voice, the Gracefulness of his Manner, and the Decency of his Dress, are Temptations too strong for such a Genius to resist upon any publick Occasion of making them appear with universal Applause. And if good Men are sometimes accused of loving their Jest better than their Friend, surely to gain the Reputation of the first Orator in the Kingdom, no Man of Spirit would scruple to lose all the Friends he had in the World.

It is usual for Masters to make their Boys declaim on both Sides of an Argument; and as some kinds of Assemblies are called the Schools of Principles, I confess nothing can better improve political School-Boys, than the Art of making plausible or implausible Harrangues against the very Opinion for which they resolve to determine.

So Cardinal Perron, after having spoke for an Hour to the Admiration of all his Hearers, to prove the Existence of God, told some of his Intimates, that he could have spoken another Hour, and much better, to prove the contrary.

To return from this long Digression: If Persons in high Stations have been allow'd to chuse Mistresses, without Regard even to Difference in Religion, yet never incurred the least Reflection on their Loyalty or their Protestantism; shall the chief Governour of a great Kingdom be censured for chusing a Companion, who may formerly have been suspected for differing from the Orthodox in some speculative Opinions of Persons and Things, which cannot affect the fundamental Principles of a sound Whig?

But let me suppose a very possible Case. Here is a Person sent to govern Ireland, whose unfortunate weak Side it happens to be, for several Reasons abovemention'd, that he hath encouraged the Attendance of one or two Gentlemen distinguished from their Taste, their Wit, and their Learning; who have taken the Oaths to his Majesty, and pray heartily for him; yet, because they may perhaps be stigmatized as quondam Tories by Pistorides and his Gang, his Excellency must be forced to banish them under the Pain and Peril of displeasing the Zealots of his own Party, and thereby, be put into a worse Condition than every common Good-fellow; who may be a sincere Protestant, and a loyal Subject; and yet rather chuse to drink fine Ale at the Pope's Head, than muddy at the King's.

Let me then return to my Supposition. It is certain, the High-flown Loyalists in the present Sense of the Word, have their Thoughts, and Studies, and Tongues, so entirely diverted by political Schemes, that the Zeal of their Principles hath eaten up their Understandings; neither have they Time from their Employments, their Hopes, and their hourly Labours, for acquiring new Additions of Merit; to amuse themselves with philological Converse, or Speculations which are utterly ruinous to all Schemes of rising in the World: What must then a Great Man do, whose ill Stars have fatally perverted him to a Love, and Taste, and Possession sion of Literature, Politeness and good Sense? Our thorough-sped Republick of Whigs, which contains the Bulk of all Hoppers, Pretenders, Expectors and Possessors, are, beyond all Doubt, most highly useful to Princes, to Governours, to great Ministers, and to their Country; but at the same Time, and by necessary Consequence, the most disagreeable Companions to all who have that unfortunate Turn of Mind peculiar to his Excellency, and perhaps to five or six more in a Nation.

I do not deny it possible, that an Original or Profelyte Favourer of the Times might have been born to these useless Talents, which in former Ages qualified a Man to be a Poet, or a Philosopher. All I contend for is, that where the true Genius of Party once enters, it sweeps the House clean, and leaves Room for many other Spirits, to take joint Possession till the last State of that Man is exceedingly better than the first.

I allow it a great Error in his Excellency, that he adheres so obstinately to his old unfashionable academick Education: Yet so perverse is human Nature, that the usual remedies for this Evil in others, have produced a contrary Effect in him; to a Degree that I am credibly informed, he will, as I have already hinted, in the Middle of a Session, quote Passages out of Plato and Pindar at his own Table to some Book-learn'd Companion without Blushing, even when Persons of great Stations are by.

I will venture one Step farther, which is, freely to confess, that this mistaken Method of educating Youth in the Knowledge of ancient Learning and Language, is too apt to spoil their Politicks and Principles? because, the Doctrine and Examples of the Books they read, teach them Lessons directly contrary in every Point to the present Practice of the World: And accordingly, Hobbes most judiciously observes, that the Writings of the Greeks and Romans made young Men imbibe Opinions against absolute Power in a Prince, or even in a first Minister, and to embrace Notions of Liberty and Property.

It hath been therefore a great Felicity to these Kingdoms, that the Heirs to Titles and large Estates have a Weakness in their Eyes, and a Tenderness in their Constitutions, are not able to bear the Pain and Indignity of Whipping, and, as the Mother rightly expresses it, could never take to their Books; yet are well enough qualified to sign a Receipt for half a Year's Rent, to put their Name (rightly spelt) to a Warrant, and to read Phamphlets against Religion and High-Flying; whereby they fill their Niches, and carry themselves through the World with that Dignity which best becomes a Senator, and a Squire.

I could heartily wish his Excellency would be more condescending to the Genius of the Kingdom he Governs, to the Condition of the Times, and to the Nature of the Station he fills. Yet if it be true, what I have read in old English Story-Books, that one Agésilas (no Matter to the Bulk of my Readers whether I spell the Name right or wrong) was caught by the Parson of the Parish, riding on a Hobby-Horse with his Children; that Socrates a Heathen Philosopher was found dancing by himself at Fourscore; that a King call'd Cæsar Augustus (or some such Name) used to play with Boys, whereof some might possibly be Sons of Tories; and two great Men called Scipio and Lælius (I forget their Christian Names, and whether they were Poets or Generals,) often play'd at Duck and Drake with smooth Stones on a River: Now, I say, if these Facts be true, (and the Book where I found them is in Print) I cannot imagine why our most zealous Patriots may not a little indulge his Excellency, in an Infirmary which is not mortally Evil, provided he gives no publick Scandal (which is by all Means to be avoided :) I say, why he may not be indulged twice a Week to converse with one or two particular Persons, and let him and them conn over their old exploded Readings together, after Mornings spent in hearing and prescribing Ways and Means from and to his most obedient Politicians for the Welfare of the Kingdom; although the said particular Person or Persons may not have made so publick a Declaration of their political Faith in all its Parts, as the Business of the Nation requires; still submitting my Opinion to that happy Majority, which I am confident is always in the right; by whom the Liberty of the Subject hath been so frequently, so strenuously, and so successfully asserted; who by their wise Councils have made Commerce to flourish, Money to abound, Inhabitants to increase, the Value of Lands and Rents to rise, and the whole Island put on a new Face of Plenty and Prosperity.
of

But in order to clear his Excellency more fully from this Accusation of shewing his Favours to High-flyers, Tories and Jacobites, it will be necessary to come to Particulars.

The first Person of a Tory Denomination, to whom his Excellency gave any Marks of his Favour, was Doctor Thomas Sheridan. It is to be observed, that this happened so early in his Excellency's Government, as it may be justly supposed he had not been informed of that Gentleman's Character upon so dangerous an Article. The Doctor being well known and distinguish'd for his Skill and Success in the Education of Youth, beyond most of his Profession for many Years past; was recommended to his Excellency on the Score of his Learning, and particularly for his Knowledge in the Greek Tongue, whereof it seems his Excellency is a great Admirer, although for what Reasons I could never imagine. However it is agreed on all Hands, that his Lordship was too easily prevail'd on by the Doctor's Request, or indeed rather from the Bias of his own Nature, to hear a Tragedy acted in that unknown Language by the Doctor's Lads, which was written by some Heathen Author; but whether it contained any Tory or High-Church Principles, must be left to the Consciences of the Boys, the Doctor, and his Excellency; the only Witnesses in this Case whose Testimonies can be depended upon.

It

It seems, his Excellency (a Thing never to be sufficiently wonder'd at) was so pleas'd with his entertainment, that some Time after he gave the Doctor a Church Living, to the Value almost of one Hundred Pounds a Year, and made him one of his Chaplains, from an antiquated Notion, that good Schoolmasters ought to be encouraged in every Nation professing Civility and Religion. Yet his Excellency did not venture to make this bold Step without strong Recommendations from Persons of undoubted Principles fitted to the Times; who thought themselves bound in Justice, Honour, and Gratitude, to do the Doctor a good Office in Return for the Care he had taken of their Children, or those of their Friends. Yet the Catastrophe was terrible; for the Doctor in the Height of his Felicity and Gratitude, going down to take Possession of his Parish, and furnished with a few led Sermons, whereof, as it is to be supposed, the Number was very small, having never served a Cure in the Church; he stopp'd at Cork to attend on his Bishop, and going to Church on the Sunday following, was, according to the usual Civility of Country Clergymen, invited by the Minister of the Parish to supply the Pulpit. It happened to be the first of August; and the first of August happened that Year to light upon a Sunday: And it happened, that the Doctor's Text was in these Words; Sufficient unto the Day is the Evil thereof. And lastly, it happened, that some one Person of the Congregation, whose Loyalty made him watchful upon every Appearance of Danger to his Majesty's Person and Government, when Service was over, gave the Alarm. Notice was immediately sent up to Town, and by the Zeal of one Man, of no large Dimensions of Body or Mind, such a clamour was raised, that we in Dublin could apprehend no less than an Invasion by the Pretender, who must be landed in the South. The Result was, that the Doctor must be struck out of the Chaplains List, and appear no more at the Castle. Yet, whether he were then, or be at this Day a Whig or a Tory, I think is a Secret; only it is manifest, that he is a zealous Hanoverian, at least in Poetry, and a great Adorer of the present Royal Family thro' all its Branches; his Friends likewise assert, that he had preached this same Sermon often, under the same Text; that not having observed the Words 'till he was in the Pulpit, and had opened his Notes, as he is a Person a little abstracted, he wanted Presence of Mind to change them: And that in the whole Sermon there was not a Syllable relating to Government or Party, or to the Subject of the Day.

In this Incident there seems to have been an Union of Events that will probably never happen again to the End of the World, or at least, like the grand Conjunction in the Heavens, which, I think, they say can arrive but once in twenty Thousand Years.

The second Gentleman (if I am right in my Chronology) who under the Suspicion of a Tory

re-

received some Favour from his Excellency, is Mr. James Stopford, very strongly recommended by the most eminent Whig in England, on the Account of his Learning and Virtue, and other Accomplishments: He had pass'd the greatest Part of his Youth in close Study, or in travelling; and was either not at Home or not at Leisure to trouble his Thoughts about Party, which I allow to be a great Omission; tho' I cannot honestly place him in the List of Tories; and therefore think his Excellency may be fairly acquitted for making him Vicar of Finglass, worth about one Hundred and fifty Pounds a Year.

The third is Doctor Patrick Delany; this Divine lies under some Disadvantage, having in his Youth received many Civilities from a certain Person † then in a very high Station here, for which Reason I doubt the Doctor never drunk his Confusion since; and what makes the Matter desperate, it is now too late; unless our Inquisitors will be content with drinking Confusion to his Memory. The aforesaid eminent Person who was a Judge of all Merit but Party, distinguished the Doctor among other Juniors in our University, for his Learning, Virtue, Discretion, and good Sense; but the Doctor was then in too good a Situation at his College to hope or endeavour at a better Establishment from one who had no Power to give it him.

† Sir Constantine Phipps, Lord Chancellor of Ireland when Queen Anne died.

Upon the present Lord Lieutenant's coming over, the Doctor was named to his Excellency by a Friend, among other Clergymen of Distinction, as Persons whose Characters it was proper his Excellency should know: And by the Truth of which the Giver would be content to stand or fall in his Excellency's Opinion: since not one of those Persons were in particular Friendship with the Gentlemen who gave in their Names. By this and some other Incidents, particularly the Recommendation of the late Archbishop of Dublin, the Doctor became known to his Excellency, whose fatal Turn of Mind towards heathenish and outlandish Books and Languages, finding, as I conceive, a like Disposition in the Doctor, was the Cause of his becoming so domestick as we are told he is, at the Castle of Dublin.

Three or four Years ago, the Doctor, grown weary of an Academick Life, for some Reasons best known to the Managers of the Discipline in that learned Society (which it may not be for their Honour to mention) resolved to leave it, although by the Benefit of his Pupils, and his Senior-fellowship with all its Perquisites, he received every Year between nine Hundred and a Thousand Pounds. And a small Northern Living, in the University's Donation, of somewhat better than a hundred Pounds a Year, falling at the same Time with the Chancellorship of Christ-Church to about equal Value, in the Gift of his Excellency, the Doctor ventured into the World in a very scanty Condition, having ving squander'd away all his annual Income in a manner, which although perhaps proper enough for a Clergyman without a Family, will not be for the Advantage of his Character to discover either on the Exchange, or at a Banker's Shop.

About two Months ago, his Excellency gave the Doctor a Prebend in St. Patrick's Cathedral, which being of near the same Value with either of the two former will add a third Part to his Revenues, after he shall have paid the great Incumbrances upon it; so that he may now be said to possess of Church Preferments, in scatter'd Tythes, three hundred Pounds a Year, instead of the like Sum of infallible Rents from a Senior-Fellowship with the Offices annexed; besides the Advantage of a free Lodging, and some other Easements. But since the Doctor hath not in any of his Writings, his Sermons, his Actions, his Discourse, or his Company, discovered one single Principle of either Whig or Tory; and that the Lord Lieutenant still continues to admit him, I shall boldly pronounce him one of us; but like a new Free-Mason, who hath not yet learned all the Dialect of the Mystery. Neither can he justly be accused of any Tory Doctrines, except perhaps some among those few, with which that wicked Party was charged during the Height of their Power, but have been since transferred for the most solid Reasons to the whole Body of our firmest Friends. I have now done with the Clergy, and upon the strictest Examination, have

have not been able to find above one of that Order, against whom any Party Suspicion can lie, which is the unfortunate Gentleman Dr. Sheridan, who by mere Chance-medly shot his own Fortune dead with a single Text.

As to the Laity, I can hear of but one Person of the Tory Stamp, who since the Beginning of his Excellency's Government, did ever receive any solid Mark of his Favour, I mean Sir Arthur Acheson, reported to be an acknowledged Tory, and, what is almost as bad, a Scholar into the Bargain. It is whisper'd about as a certain Truth, that this Gentleman is to have a Grant of a certain Barrack upon his Estate within two Miles of his own House, for which the Crown is to be his Tenant, at the Rent of sixty Pounds per Annum; he being only at the Expence of about five hundred Pounds, to put the House in Repair, build Stables, and other Necessaries. I will place this invidious Mark of Beneficence, conferred on a Tory in a fair Light, by computing the Costs and necessary Defalcations; after which it may be seen how much Sir Arthur will be annually a clear Gainer by the Publick, notwithstanding his unfortunate Principles, and his Knowledge in Greek and Latin.

	l.	s.	d.
For Repairs, &c. 500 l. the Interest whereof, per Ann. —	30	0	0
For all Manner of Poultry to furnish the Troopers, but which the said Troopers must be at the Labour of catching, valued per Ann. —	5	0	0
For straggling Sheep.	8	0	0
For Game destroyed five miles round	6	0	0
	49	0	0
Rent paid to Sir Arthur — — —	60	0	0
Deduct —	49	0	0
Remains clear	11	0	0

Thus, if Sir Arthur Acheson shall have the good Fortune to obtain a Grant of this Barrack, he will receive neat Profit annually from the Crown Eleven Pounds Sterling, to help him in entertaining the Officers, and making Provision for his younger Children.

It is true, there is another Advantage to be expected, which may fully compensate the Loss of Cattle and Poultry ; by multiplying the Breed of mankind ; and particularly of good Protestants in a Part of the Kingdom half depopulated by the wild Humour among the Farmers thereof leaving their Country. But I am not so skilful in Arithmetick, as to compute the Value.

I have

I have reckoned one per Cent. below the legal Interest for the Money that Sir Arthur must expend : And valued the Damage in the other Articles very moderately. However, I am confident he may with good Management be a Saver at least : which is a prodigious Instance of Moderation in our Friends towards a professed Tory, whatever Merit he may pretend by the Unwillingness he hath shewn to make his Excellency uneasy in his Administration.

Thus I have with the utmost Impartiality collected every single Favour, (further than personal Civilities) conferred by his Excellency on Tories, and reputed Tories, since his first Arrival hither, to this present 13th Day of April, in the Year of our Lord 1730, giving all Allowance possible to the Arguments on the other Side of the Question.

And the Account will stand thus.

Disposed of Preferments and Employments to Tories, or reputed Tories, by his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant in about the Space of six Years,

To Doctor Thomas Sheridan in a Rectory near Kinsale , per Ann.	}	100	0	0
To Sir Arthur Acheson , Baronet, a Barack, per Ann.	}	11	0	0
		111	0	0

Give me Leave now to compute in Gross the Value

Value of the Favours done by his Excellency to the true Friends of their King and Country, and of the Protestant Religion.

It is to be remembered, that although his Excellency cannot be properly said to bestow Bishopricks, Commands in the Army, the Place of a Judge, or Commissioner in the Revenue, and some others; yet they are, for the most Part, disposed upon his Recommendation, except where the Persons are immediately sent from England by their Interest at Court, for which I have allowed large Defalcations in the following Accounts. And it is remarkable that the only considerable Station conferred on a reputed Tory since his present Excellency's Government was of this latter Kind.

And indeed it is but too remarkable, that in a neighbouring Nation (where that dangerous Denomination of Men is incomparably more numerous, more powerful, and of Consequence more formidable) real Tories can often with much less Difficulty obtain very high Favours from the Government, than their reputed Brethren can arrive to the lowest in ours. I observe this with all possible Submission to the Wisdom of their Policy, which, however, will not, I believe, dispute the Praise of Vigilance with ours.

WHIG

A Vindication of
 W H I G Account.

To Persons promoted to Bishopricks, or removed to more beneficial Ones, computed		10050	0 0
per Ann.
To Civil Employments	—	9030	0 0
To Military Commands	—	8436	0 0
		27516	0 0

T O R Y Account.

To Tories	—	—	III	0 0
Balance	—	—	27405	0 0

I shall conclude with this Observation, that, as I think, the Tories have sufficient Reason to be fully satisfied with the Share of Trust, and Power, and Employments which they possess under the Lenity of the present Government; so, I do not find how his Excellency can be justly censured for favouring none but High-Church, High-flyers, Termagants, Laudists, Sacheverellians, Tip-top-gallon-men, Jacobites, Tantivyves, Anti-Hannoverians, Friends to Popery and the Pretender, and to Arbitrary Power, Disobligers of England, Breakers of DEPENDENCY, Inflamers of Quarrels between the two Nations, Publick Incendiaries, Enemies to the King and Kingdoms, Haters of TRUE Protestants, Lawrel-men, Annists,

*Annists, Complainers of the Nation's Poverty,
Ormondians, Iconoclasts, Anti-Glorious Memorists,
White-rosalists, Tenth-a-Junians, and the like:*
When by a fair State of the Account, the Balance,
I conceive, plainly lies on the other Side.

A N

ESSAY

ON THE

Fates of CLERGYMEN.

THere is no Talent so useful towards rising in the World, or which puts Men more out of the Reach of Fortune, than that Quality generally possessed by the dullest Sort of People, and is in common Speech called Discretion, a Species of lower Prudence, by the Assistance of which, People of the meanest Intellectuals, without any other Qualification, pass through the World in great Tranquility, and with universal good Treatment, neither giving nor taking Offence. Courts are seldom unprovided of Persons under this Character, on whom, if they happen to be of great Quality, most Employments, even the Greatest naturally fall, when Competitors will not agree; and in such Promotions, no Body rejoices or grieves. The Truth of this I could prove by several Instances, within my own Memory (for I say nothing of the present Times.)

And

And indeed, as Regularity and Forms are of great Use in carrying on the Business of the World, so it is very convenient, that Persons endued with this Kind of Discretion, should have that Share which is proper to their Talents in the Conduct of Affairs, but by no Means to meddle in Matters which require Genius, Learning, strong Comprehension, Quickness of Conception, Magnanimity, Generosity, Sagacity, or any other superior Gift of human Minds. Because this sort of Discretion, is usually attended with a strong Desire of Money, and few Scruples about the Way of obtaining it, with servile Flattery and Submission, with a Want of all publick Spirit or Principle, with a perpetual wrong Judgment when the Owners come into Power and high Place, how to dispose of Favour and Preferment; having no Measure for Merit and Virtue in others, but those very Steps by which themselves ascended; nor the least Intention of doing Good or Hurt to the Publick, farther than either one or t'other, is likely to be subservient to their own Security or Interest. Thus being void of all Friendship and Enmity, they never complain nor find Fault with the Times, and indeed never have Reason to do so.

Men of eminent Parts and Abilities, as well as Virtues, do sometimes rise in the Courts, sometimes in the Law, and sometimes, even in the Church. Such were the Lord Bacon, the Earl of Strafford, Archbishop Laud in the Reign of King Charles I. and others in our own Times, whom I shall not name; but these, and many many more, under different Princes, and in different Kingdoms, were Disgraced or Banished or suffered Death, merely in Envy to their Virtues and superior Genius, which emboldened them in great Exigencies and Distresses of State (wanting a reasonable Infusion of this Aldermanly Discretion) to attempt the Service of their Prince and Country out of the common Forms.

This evil Fortune, which generally attends extraordinary Men in the Management of great Affairs, hath been imputed to divers Causes, that need not be here set down, when so obvious an One occurs; if what a certain Writer observes, be true, that when a great Genius appears in the World, the Dunces are all in Confederacy against him. And thus although he employs his Talents wholly in his Closet, without interfering with any Man's Ambition or Avarice; what must he expect when he ventures out to seek for Preferment in a Court, but universal Opposition when he is mounting the Ladder, and every Hand ready to turn him off, when he is at the Top? And in this Point Fortune generally acts directly contrary to Nature; for in Nature we find, that Bodies full of Life and Spirits mount easily, and are hard to fall, whereas heavy Bodies are hard to rise, and come down with greater Velocity, in Proportion to their Weight; but we find Fortune every day acting just the Reverse of this.

This Talent of Discretion, as I have described it in its several Adjuncts and Circumstances, is no where so serviceable as to the Clergy, to whose Preferment nothing is so fatal as the

Character

Character of Wit, Politeness in Reading, or Manners, or that Kind of Behaviour which we contract by having too much conversed with Persons of high Stations and Eminency; these Qualifications being reckoned by the Vulgar of all Ranks, to be Marks of Levity, which is the last Crime the World will pardon in a Clergyman: To this I may add a free Manner of Speaking in mixt Company, and too frequent an Appearance in Places of much Resort, which are equally noxious, to spiritual Promotions.

I have known indeed a few Exceptions to some Parts of these Regulations. I have seen some of the dullest Men alive aiming at Wit, and others with as little Pretensions affecting Politeness in Manners and Discourse; but never being able to persuade the World of their Guilt, they grew into considerable Stations, upon the firm Assurance which all People had of their Discretion, because they were a Size too low to deceive the World to their own Disadvantage. But this I confess is a Tryal too dangerous often to engage in.

There is a known Story of a Clergyman, who was recommended for a Preferment by some great Men at Court, to an Archbishop. His Grace, said he had heard that the Clergyman used to play at Whisk and Swobbers; that as to playing now and then a sober Game at Whisk for Pastime, it might be pardoned, but he could not digest those wicked Swobbers, and it was with some Pains that my Lord S ———rs could undeceive him. I ask, by what Talents we may suppose that great Prelate ascended so high, high, or what sort of Qualifications he would expect in those whom he took into his Patronage, or would probably recommend to Court for the Government of Distant Churches.

Two Clergymen in my Memory stood Candidates for a small Free School in — Shire, where a Gentleman of Quality and Interest in the Country, who happened to have a better Understanding than his Neighbours, procured the Place for him who was the better Scholar, and more gentlemanly Person of the two, very much to the Regret of all the Parish; the other being disappointed came up to London, where he became the greatest Pattern of this lower Discretion that I have known, and possessed with as heavy Intellectuals; which together with the Coldness of his Temper, and Gravity of his Deportment, carried him safe through many Difficulties, and he lived and died in a great Station, while his Competitor is too obscure for Fame to tell us what become of him.

This Species of Discretion, which I so much celebrate, and do most heartily recommend, hath one Advantage not yet mentioned, that it will carry a Man safe through all the Malice and Variety of Parties, so far, that whatever Faction happens to be uppermost, his Claim is usually allowed for a Share of what is going. And the Thing seems to me highly reasonable: For in all great Changes, the prevailing Side is usually so tempestuous, that it wants the Ballast of those, whom the World calls Moderate Men, and I call Men of Discretion, whom People in Power,

Power may with little Ceremony load as heavy as they please, drive them through the hardest and deepest Roads without danger of foundering, or breaking their Backs, and will be sure to find them neither rusty nor vicious.

I will here give the Reader a short History of two Clergymen in England, the Characters of each, and the Progress of their Fortunes in the World; by which the Force of worldly Discretion, and the bad Consequences from the Want of that Virtue will strongly appear.

Corusodes, an Oxford Student, and a Farmer's Son, was never absent from Prayers or Lecture, nor once out of his College after Tom had toll'd. He spent every Day ten Hours in his Closet, in reading his Courses, Dozing, clipping Papers, or darning his Stockings, which last he performed to Admiration. He could be soberly drunk at the Expence of others, with College Ale, and at those Seasons was alway most devout. He wore the same Gown five Years, without dragling or tearing. He never once look'd into a Play-book or a Poem. He read Virgil and Ramus in the same Cadence, but with a very different Taste. He never understood a Jest, or had the least Conception of Wit.

For one Saying he stands in Renown to this Day. Being with some other Students over a Pot of Ale, one of the Company said so many pleasant Things, that the rest were much diverted, only Corusodes was silent and unmoved. When they parted, he called this merry Companion aside, and said, Sir, I perceive by your often speaking, and our Friends Laughing, that you spoke many Jest, and you could not but observe my Silence. But, Sir, this is my Humour, I never make a Jest myself, nor ever laugh at another Man's.

H

panion

Corusodes thus endowed got into Holy Orders, having by the most extreme Parsimony saved thirty four Pounds out of a very beggarly Fellowship, went up to London, where his Sister was waiting Woman to a Lady, and so good a Solicitor, that by her Means he was admitted to read Prayers in the Family twice a Day, at fourteen Shillings a Month. He had now acquired a low, obsequious, awkward Bow, and a Talent of gross Flattery, both in and out of Season; he would make the Butler by the Hand; he taught the Page his Catechism, and was sometimes admitted to dine at the Steward's Table. In short, he got the good Word of the whole Family, and was recommended by my Lady for Chaplain to some other Noble House, by which his Revenue (besides Vales) amounted to about thirty Pounds a Year; his Sister procured him a Scarf from my Lord (who had a small Design of Gallantry upon her;) and by his Lordship's Solicitation he got a Lectureship in Town of sixty Pounds a Year; where he preached constantly in Person, in a grave Manner, with an audible Voice, a Style Ecclesiastick, and the Matter (such as it was) well suited to the Intellectuals of his Hearers. Some time after a Country Living fell in my Lord's Disposal, and his Lordship, who had

now

now some Encouragement given him of Success in his Amour, bestow'd the Living on Corusodes, who still kept his Lectureship and Residence in Town, where he was a constant Attendant at all Meetings relating to Charity, without ever contributing further than his frequent pious Exhortations. If any Women of better Fashion in the Parish happened to be absent from Church, they were sure of a Visit from him in a Day or two, to chide and to dine with them.

He had a select Number of Poor, constantly attending at the Street Door of his Lodgings, for whom he was a common Solicitor to his former Patroness, dropping in his own half-Crown among the Collections, and taking it out when he disposed of the Money. At a Person of Quality's House, he would never sit down 'till he was thrice bid, and then upon the Corner of the most distant Chair. His whole Demeanor was formal and starched, which adhered so close, that he could never Shake it off in his highest Promotion.

His Lord was now in high Employment at Court, and attended by him with the most abject Assiduity, and his Sister being gone off with Child to a private Lodging, my Lord continued his Graces to Corusodes, got him to be a Chaplain in Ordinary, and in due Time a Parish in Town, and a Dignity in the Church.

He paid his Curates punctually, at the lowest Salary, and partly out of the Communion-Money; but gave them good Advice in Abundance. He married a Citizen's Widow, who taught him to put out small Sums at Ten per Cent. and brought him acquainted with Jobbers in Change-Alley. By her Dexterity, he sold the Clarkship of his Parish, when it became vacant.

He kept a miserable House, but the Blame was laid wholly upon Madam; for the good Doctor was always at his Books, or visiting the Sick, or doing other Offices of Charity and Piety in his Parish.

He treated all his Inferiors of the Clergy with a most sanctified Pride; was rigorously and universally censorious upon all his Brethren of the Gown, on their first appearance in the World, or while they continued meanly preferred; but gave large Allowance to the Laity of high Rank or great Riches, using neither Eyes nor Ears for their Faults: He was never sensible of the least Corruption in Courts, Parliaments or Ministries, but made the most favourable Constructions of all publick Proceedings; and Power, in whatever Hands, or whatever Party, was always secure of his most charitable Opinion. He had many wholesome Maxims ready to excuse all Miscarriages of State; Men are but Men; Erunt vitia donec homines; and Quod supra nos, nil ad nos; with several others of equal Weight.

It would lengthen my Paper beyond Measure to trace out the whole System of his Conduct; his dreadful Apprehensions of Popery; his great Moderation towards Dissenters of all Denominations; with hearty Wishes, that by yielding somewhat on both Sides, there might be

be a general Union among Protestants; his short, inoffensive Sermons in his Turns at Court, and the Matter exactly suited to the present Juncture of prevailing Opinions. The Arts he used to obtain a Mitre, by writing against Episcopacy, and the Proofs he gave of his Loyalty, by palliating or defending the Murder of a martyr'd Prince.

Endowed with all these Accomplishments, we leave him in the full Career of Success, mounting fast towards the Top of the Ladder Ecclesiastical, which he hath a fair Probability to reach, without the Merit of one single Virtue, moderately stocked with the least valuable Parts of Erudition, utterly devoid of all Taste, Judgment, or Genius, and in his Grandeur naturally chusing to hawl up others after him, whose Accomplishments most resemble his own, except his beloved Sons, Nephews, or other Kindred, be not in Competition; or lastly, except his Inclinations be diverted by those who have Power to mortify or further advance him.

Eugenio set out from the same University, and about the same Time with Corusodes; he had the Reputation of an arch Lad at School, and was unfortunately possessed with a Talent for Poetry, on which Account he received many chiding Letters from his Father, and grave Advice from his Tutor. He did not neglect his College Learning, but his chief Study was the Authors of Antiquity, with a perfect Knowledge in the Greek and Roman Tongues. He could never procure himself to be chosen Fellow; for it was objected against him, that he had written Verses, and particularly some, wherein he glanced at a certain Reverend Doctor, famous for Dulness: That he had been seen bowing to Ladies as he met them in the Streets; and it was proved, that once he had been found dancing in a private Family with half a dozen of both Sexes.

He was the younger Son to a Gentleman of a good Birth, but small Fortune, and his Father dying, he was driven to London, to seek his Fortune: He got into Orders, and became Reader in a Parish-Church at twenty Pounds a Year, was carried by an Oxford Friend to Will's Coffee-House, frequented in those Days by Men of Wit, where, in some Time, he had the bad Luck to be distinguished. His scanty Salary compelled him to run deep in Debt for a new Gown and Cassock, and now and then forced him to write some Paper of Wit or Humour, or preach a Sermon for ten Shillings, to supply his Necessities. He was a thousand Times recommended by his political Friends to great Persons, as a young Man of excellent Parts, who deserved Encouragement, and received a thousand Promises; but his Modesty, and a generous Spirit, which disdained the Slavery of continual Application and Attendance, always disappointed him, making room for vigilant Dunces, who were sure to be never out of Sight.

He had an excellent Faculty in preaching, if he were not sometimes a little too refined, and apt to trust too much to his own Way of thinking and reasoning.

When

When upon the Vacancy of Preferment he was hardly drawn to attend upon some promising Lord, he received the usual Answer, that he came too late, for it had been given to another the very Day before. And he had only this Comfort left, that every Body said, it was a thousand Pities, something could not be done for poor Mr. Eugenio.

The Remainder of his Story will be dispatched in a few Words: Wearied with weak Hopes, and weaker Pursuits, he accepted a Curacy in Derbyshire, of thirty Pounds a Year, and when he was five and forty, had the great Felicity to be preferred by a Friend of his Father's, to a Vicaridge worth annually sixty Pounds, in the most desert Parts of Lincolnshire, where, his Spirit quite sunk with those Reflections that Solitude and Disappointments bring, he married a Farmer's Widow, and is still alive, utterly undistinguished and forgotten, only some of the Neighbours have accidentally heard, that he had been a notable Man in his Youth.

A N
E S S A Y
O N
Modern Education.

FROM frequently reflecting upon the Course and Method of educating Youth in this and a neighbouring Kingdom, with the general Success and Consequence thereof, I am come to this Determination, That Education is always the worse in Proportion to the Wealth and Grandeur of the Parents; nor do I doubt in the least, that if the whole World were now under the Dominion of one Monarch (provided I might be allowed to chuse where he should fix the Seat of his Empire) the only Son and Heir of that Monarch, would be the worst educated Mortal, that ever was born since the Creation; and I doubt, the same Proportion will hold through all Degrees and Titles, from an Emperor downwards, to the common Gentry.

I do not say, that this has been always the Case; for in better Times it was directly otherwise, and a Scholar may fill half his Greek and Roman

Roman Shelves with Authors of the noblest Birth, as well as highest Virtue: Nor, do I tax all Nations at present with this Defect, for I know there are some to be excepted, and particularly Scotland, under all the Disadvantages of its Climate and Soil, if that Happiness be not rather owing even to those very Disadvantages. What is then to be done, if this Reflection must fix on two Countries, which will be most ready to take Offence, and which of all others it will be least prudent or safe to offend?

But there is one Circumstance yet more dangerous and lamentable: For if, according to the Postulatum already laid down, the highest Quality any Youth is of, he is in greater Likelihood to be worse educated; it behoves me to dread, and keep far from the Verge of Scandalum Magnatum.

Retracting therefore that hazardous Postulatum, I shall venture no further at present than to say, that perhaps some additional Care in educating the Sons of Nobility and principal Gentry, might not be ill employed. If this be not delivered with Softness enough, I must for the future be silent.

In the mean Time, let me ask only two Questions, which relate to England. I ask first, how it comes about, that for above sixty Years past, the chief Conduct of Affairs hath been generally placed in the Hands of New-men, with very few Exceptions? The Noblest Blood of England having been shed in the grand Rebellion, many great Families became extinct, or supported only by Minors. When the King was restored, very few of those Lords remained, who began, or at least had improved their Education, under the happy Reign of King James, or King Charles I. of which Lords the two principal were the Marquis of Ormond, and the Earl of Southampton. The Minors have, or had, during the Rebellion and Usurpation, either received too much Tincture of bad Principles from those fanatick Times, or coming to Age at the Restoration, fell into the Vices of that dissolute Reign.

I date from this Æra, the corrupt Method of Education among us, and the Consequence thereof, in the Necessity the Crown lay under of introducing New-men into the chief Conduct of publick Affairs, or to the Office of what we now call Prime Ministers, Men of Art, Knowledge, Application and Insinuation, merely for Want of a Supply among the Nobility. They were generally (though not always) of good Birth, sometimes younger Brothers, at other Times such, who, although inheriting good Estates, yet happened to be well educated, and provided with Learning; such under that King, were Hyde, Bridgeman, Clifford, Osborn, Godolphin, Ashley-Couper: Few or none under the short Reign of King James II. Under King William; Sommers, Mountague, Churchil, Vernon, Boyle, and many others: Under the Queen; Harley, St. John, Harcourt, Trevor, who indeed were Persons of the best private Families, but unadorn'd with Titles. So in the following Reign, Mr. Robert Walpole, was for many Years Prime Minister, in which
Post

Post he still happily continues : His Brother Horace is Ambassador Extraordinary to France, Mr. Addison and Mr. Craggs, without the least Allowance to support them, have been Secretaries of State.

If the Facts have been thus for above sixty Years past (whereof I could with a little further Recollection produce many more Instances) I would ask again, how it hath happened, that in a Nation plentifully abounding with Nobility, so great Share in the most competent Parts of publick Management, hath been for so long a Period chiefly entrusted to Commoners, unless some Omissions or Defects of the highest Import, may be charged upon those, to whom the Care of educating our Noble Youth had been committed ? For, if there be any Difference between human Creatures in the Point of natural Parts, as we usually call them, it should seem, that the Advantage lies on the Side of Children, born from noble and wealthy Parents ; the same traditional Sloth and Luxury which render their Body weak and effeminate, perhaps refining and giving a freer Motion to the Spirits, beyond what can be expected from the gross, robust Issue of meaner Mortals. Add to this, the peculiar Advantages, which all young Noblemen possess, by the Privileges of their Birth. Such as a free Access to Courts, and a universal deference paid to their Persons.

But as my Lord Bacon chargeth it for a Fault on Princes, that they are impatient to compass Ends, without giving themselves the Trouble of consulting or executing the Means ; So perhaps, it may be the Disposition of young Nobles, either from the Indulgence of Parents, Tutors and Governors, or their own Inactivity, that they expect the Accomplishments of a good Education, without the least Expence of Time or Study, to acquire them.
it

What I said last, I am ready to retract ; for the Case is infinitely worse ; and the very Maxims set up to direct modern Education, are enough to destroy all the Seeds of Knowledge, Honour, Wisdom and Virtue among us. The current Opinion prevails, that the Study of Greek and Latin is loss of Time ; that publick Schools, by mingling the Sons of Noblemen with those of the Vulgar, engage the former in bad Company ; that Whipping breaks the Spirits of Lads well born ; that Universities make young Men Pedants ; that to dance, fence, speak French, and know how to behave yourself among great Persons of both Sexes, comprehends the whole Duty of a Gentleman.

I cannot but think this wise System of Education, hath been much cultivated among us by those Worthies of the Army, who during the last War, returning from Flanders at the Close of each Campaign, became the Dictators of Behaviour, Dress, and Politeness, to all those Youngsters, who frequent Chocolate-Coffee-Gaming-Houses, Drawing-Rooms, Opera's, Levees and Assemblies ; where a Colonel by his Pay, Perquisites and Plunder, was qualified to outshine many Peers of the Realm ; and by the Influence of an exotick Habit and Demeanor, added to other foreign Accomplishments, gave

gave the Law to the whole Town, and was copied as the Standard-Pattern of whatever was refined in Dress, Equipage, Conversation, or Diversions.

I remember in those Times, an admired Original of that Vocation, sitting in a Coffee-house near two Gentlemen, whereof one was of the Clergy, who were engaged in some Discourse that favoured of Learning; this Officer thought fit to interpose, and professing to deliver the Sentiments of his Fraternity, as well as his own (and probably did so of too many among them) turning to the Clergy-Man, spoke in the following Manner, D---n me, Doctor, say what you will, the Army is the only School for Gentlemen. Do you think my Lord Marlborough beat the French with Greek and Latin. D-----n me, a Scholar when he comes into good Company, what is he but an Ass? D---n me, I would be glad by G-d, to see any of your Scholars with his Nouns, and his Verbs, and his Philosophy, and Trigonometry, what a Figure he would make at a Siege or Blockade, or rencountring----- D---n me, &c. After which he proceeded with a Volley of Military Terms, less significant, sounding worse, and harder to be understood than any that were ever coined by the Commentators upon Aristotle. I would not here be thought to charge the Soldiery with Ignorance and Contempt of Learning, without allowing Exceptions, of which I have known many; but however, the worse Example, especially in a great Majority, will certainly prevail.

I have

I have heard, that the late Earl of Oxford, in the Time of his Ministry, never pass'd by White's Chocolate-House (the common Rendezvous of infamous Sharpers, and Noble Cullies) without bestowing a Curse upon that famous Academy, as the Bane of half the English Nobility. I have likewise been told another Passage concerning that great Minister, which, because it gives a humorous Idea of one principal Ingredient in modern Education, take as followeth. Le Sack the famous French Dancing-master, in great Admiration, asked a Friend, whether it were true, that Mr. Harley was made an Earl and Lord Treasurer? And finding it confirmed, said; Well, I wonder what the Devil the Queen could see in him; for I attended him two Years, and he was the greatest Dunce that ever I taught.

Another Hindrance to good Education, and I think the greatest of any, is that pernicious Custom in rich and noble Families, of entertaining French Tutors in their Houses. These wretched Pedagogues are enjoyned by the Father, to take special Care that the Boy shall be perfect in his French; by the Mother, that Master must not walk 'till he is hot, nor be suffered to play with other Boys, nor be wet in his Feet, nor daub his Cloaths, and to see the Dancing-master attends constantly, and does his Duty; the further insists, that the Child be not kept too long poring on his Book, because he is subject to sore eyes, and of a weakly Constitution.

By these Methods, the young Gentleman is in every Article as fully accomplished at eight Years

Years old as at eight and twenty, Age adding only to the Growth of his Person and his Vice ; so that if you should look at him in his Boyhood through the magnifying End of a Perspective, and in his Manhood through the other, it would be impossible to spy any Difference ; the same Airs, the same Strutt, the same Cock of his Hat, and Posture of his Sword, (as far as the Change of Fashions will allow) the same Understanding, the same Compass of Knowledge, with the very same Absurdity, Impudence and Impertinence of Tongue.

He is taught from the Nursery, that he must inherit a great Estate, and hath no need to mind his Book, which is a Lesson he never forgets to the End of his Life. His chief Solace is to steal down and play at Span-farthing with the Page, or young Black-a-moor, or little favourite Foot-Boy, one of which is his principal Confident and Bosom-Friend.

There is one young Lord in this Town, who, by an unexampled Piece of good Fortune, was miraculously snatch'd out of the Gulph of Ignorance, confined to a publick School for a due Term of Years, well-whipped when he deserved it, clad no better than his Comrades, and always their Play-Fellow on the same Foot, had no Precedence in the School, but what was given him by his Merit, and lost it whenever he was negligent. It is well known how many Mutinies were bred at this unprecedented Treatment, what Complaints among his Relations, and other Great Ones of both Sexes ; that his Stockings with silver Clocks were ravish'd from him ;

him ; that he wore his own Hair ; that his Dress was undistinguished ; that he was not fit to appear at a Ball or Assembly, nor suffered to go to either : And it was with the utmost Difficulty, that he became qualified for his present Removal, where he may probably be farther persecuted, and possibly with Success, if the Firmness of a very worthy Governor, and his own good Dispositions will not preserve him. I confess, I cannot but wish he may go on in the Way he began, because I have a Curiosity to know by so singular an Experiment, whether Truth, Honour, Justice, Temperance, Courage, and good Sense acquired by a School and College Education, may not produce a very tolerable Lad, although he should happen to fail in one or two of those Accomplishments, which in the general Vogue are held so important to the finishing of a Gentleman.

It is true, I have known an Academical Education to have been exploded in publick Assemblies ; and have heard more than one or two Persons of high Rank declare, they could learn nothing more at Oxford and Cambridge, than to drink Ale and smoke Tobacco ; wherein I firmly believed them, and could have added some hundred Examples from my own Observation in one of those Universities ; but they all were of young Heirs sent thither, only for Form ; either from Schools, where they were not suffered by their careful Parents to stay above three Months in the Year ; or from under the Management of French Family-Tutors, who yet often attended them to their College, to prevent all Possibility of their Improvement: But I never yet knew any one Person of Quality, who followed his Studies at the University, and carried away his just Proportion of Learning, that was not ready upon all Occasions to celebrate and defend that Course of Education, and to prove a Patron of learned Men.
of

There is one Circumstance in a learned Education, which ought to have much Weight, even with those who have no Learning at all. The Books read at School and Colleges, are full of Incitements to Virtue, and Discouragements from Vice, drawn from the wisest Reasons, the strongest Motives, and the most influencing Examples. Thus young Minds are filled early with an Inclination to Good, and an Abhorrence of Evil, both which encrease in them, according to the Advances they make in Literature; and, although they may be, and too often are, drawn by the Temptations of Youth, and the Opportunities of a large Fortune, into some Irregularities, when they come forward into the great World, it is ever with Reluctance and Compunction of Mind, because their Byass to Virtue still continues. They may stray sometimes out of Infirmary or Compliance, but they will soon return to the right Road, and keep it always in View. I speak only of those Excesses, which are too much the Attendants of Youth and warmer Blood; for, as to the Points of Honour, Truth, Justice, and other noble Gifts of the Mind, wherein the Temperature of the Body hath no Concern, they are seldom or ever known to be mild.

I have

I have engaged my self very unwarily in too copious a Subject for so short a Paper. The present Scope I would aim at is to prove, that some Proportion of human Knowledge appears requisite to those, who, by their Birth or Fortune, are called to the making of Laws, and in a subordinate Way to the Execution of them; and that such Knowledge is not to be obtained without a Miracle, under the frequent, corrupt, and sottish Methods, of educating those, who are born to Wealth or Titles. For, I would have it remembered, that I do by no Means confine these Remarks to young Persons of Noble Birth; the same Errors running through all Families, where there is Wealth enough to afford, that their Sons (at least the Eldest) may be good for nothing. Why should my Son be a Scholar, when it is not intended that he should live by his Learning? By this Rule, if what is commonly said be true, that Money answereth all Things, why should my Son be honest, temperate, just, or charitable, since he hath no Intention to depend upon any of these Qualities for a Maintenance?

When all is done, perhaps, upon the Whole, the Matter is not so bad as I would make it; and God, who worketh Good out of Evil, acting only by the ordinary Cause and Rule of Nature, permits this continual Circulation of human Things for his own unsearchable Ends. The Father grows rich by Avarice, Injustice, Oppression; he is a Tyrant in the Neighbourhood over Slaves and Beggars, whom he calls his Tenants. Why should he desire to have Qualities

Qualities infused into his Son, which himself never possessed, or knew, or found the Want of in the Acquisition of his Wealth? The Son bred in Sloth and Idleness, becomes a Spend-thrift, a Cully, a Profligate, and goes out of the World a Beggar, as his Father came in : Thus the former is punished for his own Sins, as well as for those of the latter. The Dung-hill having raised a huge Mushroom of short Duration, is now spread to enrich other Mens Lands. It is indeed of worse Consequence, where noble Families are gone to Decay ; because their Titles and Privileges outlive their Estates : And, Politicians tell us, that nothing is more dangerous to the Publick, than a numerous Nobility without Merit or Fortune. But even here, God hath likewise prescribed some Remedy in the Order of Nature, so many great Families coming to an End by the Sloth, Luxury, and abandoned Lusts, which enervated their Breed through every Succession, producing gradually a more effeminate Race, wholly unfit for Propagation.

A L E T.

A

LETTER

TO THE

INTELLIGENCER.

S I R,

IT may appear to you perhaps a Thing very unnatural to receive a Complaint from a Son against his Father; but the Treatment, which I meet with from mine, is of such a Nature, that it is impossible for me not to complain.

You must know there are three Brethren of us, George, Patrick, and Andrew; I am the second, but the last in Affection with my Father, for which I call Heaven and Earth to Witness, I never committed any Fault to incur his Displeasure, or to deserve his Neglect. But so it is, that the best of Men have often Times been misled in the Choice of their Minions, and very undiscerning in conferring their Favours where they ought.

If Parents could but once bring themselves to be impartial, it would, beyond all doubt, produce duce a delightful Union in their Children, and be the most binding Cement, that could be thought of, to preserve their Affections ; because an equal Dispensation of Favours would entirely remove all Cause of Murmuring, Repining, or Envy ; and, what is of the greatest Consequence, would secure the Love and Esteem of their Children ; whereas a partial Behaviour in Parents must necessarily produce the contrary.

But to state my Case, in the best Manner I can, and with an unbiassed Regard to Truth, I think it first necessary to give you our Characters, with an Account of my Father's Behaviour, that you may be the better able to give me your Advice.

First then, to begin with my Brother George. He was ever a great Lover of his Belly, and formerly used to cram himself with Beef, Pudding, and White-Pot ; but for some Time past, he has taken more Delight in new fangled Toss-ups, and French Keck Shaws. This high Feeding does naturally dispose him to be haughty, stubborn, cholerick and rebellious, inso-much, that besides his Insults towards others, he is ready upon all Occasions to fly in his own Father's Face, and apt to despise every Body but himself.

He is so various in his Opinions, that he is of as many Religions, as there are and have been Sects, since the Beginning of Christianity ; but the True and Reformed Church as by Law established, is what he chiefly frequents. He was once a great Admirer of ancient Learning, but he has long since quitted this, for the Reading

Reading of News-Papers, Pamphlets, and Modern Language. In his younger Years, he was fond of manly Exercises, such as Fencing, Leaping, Boxing, pitching the Bar, Wrestling, Hurling, Foot-ball, Hunting, &c. but of late he has fallen into a strange and unaccountable Effeminacy, and seems to take Delight in nothing but Masquerades, Plays, and Italian Opera's. He is very fond of Italian magnificent Buildings, although entirely inconsistent with our Climate, extravagant in the highest Degree in purchasing fine Paintings and Statues, and no less expensive in vast extensive Parks and Gardens, by which Means he has almost run out all his Fortune.

My younger Brother, Andrew, who has Cunning enough to outwit the Devil, joined with Brother George some Years ago, and they manage so dextrously together, that whatever they say, is a Law with my Father; however, they are not without their Quarrels now and then; but Brother Andrew still comes by the worst, although he is cautious enough to go always armed, for Brother George wears a longer Sword. Brother Andrew is not very nice in his Food, but loves fine Cloaths. This I suppose he has learned abroad; for he is a great Traveller. His chief Studies are Mathematicks and the Civil-Law, in both which he has made a considerable Progress. As for his Religion, although he openly professes himself a most rigid Fanatick of the Kirk, yet he is shrewdly suspected to have a Hankering after Papery. He has one eminent bad Quality, which is, that he cannot easily forgive and forget. I remember I was once so unfortunate, as to tell a fair Lady (a Mistress of mine) before his Face, that I would stand by her against him and all other Adversaries, which he took heinously ill, and has not forgiven me to this Hour, but lies upon the Watch to do me all the ill Offices he can.
which

I come now to my own Character, in which I shall not conceal nor gloss over my Vices, Errors, or Failings, but at the same Time, I shall not think it inconsistent with Modesty, to tell you my Virtues.

I have but a small Fortune, can hardly keep Soul and Body together, yet out of a Regard to my Family, which is very Ancient, I love to make what they call a Figure, upon extraordinary Occasions. And now and then I furnish my Table with Victuals and Liquors of the best Kinds, which makes my Father and Brother George think I have got the World in a String. I am kind and hospitable to Strangers, although they frequently rob my House, and turn my Children to lye in the Barn.

I am so fond of Learning, that I put them to the best School in the Kingdom, and I plainly see, they will be only the Wiser, but never the Richer for it; because my Father uses all his Interest for Brother George's Sons, and the greatest Dunce among them shall be better provided for, than the most ingenious of mine. And, I must say, I have some who are equal in Learning to the best of his. I had a Design once, to follow Merchandise, that I might the better

better be able to provide for my poor Children; but Brother George having a Mind to make a Monopoly, prevailed upon my Father to join against me; and so at last they contrived it, that I should sell nothing but a few of my Cattle, and some Linen-Cloth, which is all the Support I have; whereas Brother George can sell every Thing he has, all the World over; and so cruel is he to me, that he will not let me have even a Bit of his Dirt, if he thinks it will be of any Advantage to me. My Religion is of three Sorts, the Established, Popish, and Presbyterian, but I have a greater Share of the first in me: I think it is best, because it encourages Obedience to my Father, more than either of the other two. It is not long, since Brother George and Andrew were in a Confederacy against my Father with an Intent to turn him out of his House, and give another the Possession; at which critical Juncture, I mustered up a great number of my Sons and Servants, to his Assistance, and, for ought I know, saved both his Life and Fortune.

Soon after this, I had like to have been ruined by a Project; for one of my Brother George's Family endeavoured to persuade my Father, that Gold and Silver were of no Use to me, and desired Leave to furnish me with a few Counters, in Lieu thereof; and I fear, I should have been so weak, as to accept of them, had it not been for the seasonable Remonstrances made by some of my own House.

These are a few of the many Hardships I have suffered; notwithstanding all which I am willing willing to continue in Passive Obedience to my dear Father; for I have Reason to believe, that his Unkindness to me, is owing to ill Advisers, who have prejudiced him against me and my Children; but I hope before long he will be able to distinguish his most faithful Son. In the mean Time, I do humbly entreat the Favour of you to write a Letter to my Father, which he may see in Print, for I fear all my Letters to him hitherto have been intercepted.

PATRICK.

S I R,

YOU have not told me your Father's Name, nor his Quality, and therefore I am at a Loss in what Manner I should address him. But in common Humanity (because I think your Case deplorable) I will give you what Comfort I am able, together with my best Advice.

You are not the only Instance of suffering Innocence, and therefore it ought not to surprize you, that Providence (for Reasons unaccountable to us) has laid two great Tryals in your Way, Oppression from your Brethren, and Unkindness from your Father, this too without any Fault on your Side. If you did not meet with these Afflictions, you would want an Opportunity of shewing your Humility and Resignation, as I understand you do not by your Letter.

Let me advise you to consider that your Condition is not quite so lamentable, as that of Joseph, who triumphed in God's own Time over all his Misfortunes and Sufferings, and at last had the Pleasure of doing Good even to his Persecutors; but indeed there is this Difference, that his Grievance was chiefly from his Brethren; for had his Father joined in the Cruelty, the Wounds would have pierced nearer to his Heart.

I do not in the least Doubt but there are some about your Father, who do you ill Offices, (I hope sometime or other they will be detected :) You may find a convenient Opportunity of getting fairly at him. State your Case and expostulate with him concerning your own and your Childrens Sufferings. When he hears your Story, and beholds your Sincerity, you may be sure of his Compassion and a Redress; for there is no Heart so hard as not to sympathize with Real Woe, no Advocate so powerful as Innocence. In the mean Time, let me conjure you not to turn aside to the Right or to the Left, from that indispensable Duty, which the express Laws of God enjoin you, for let me assure you that Ingratitude to a Parent is, no less than Rebellion, like the Sin of Witchcraft.

I commit you to his Care and Direction, who is best able to govern the unruly Affections of Men, to turn the Hearts of the Malicious, and to relieve and support those who suffer for the Sake of Righteousness.

I am your faithful Friend,

The INTELLIGENCER.

A Second

A SECOND LETTER
TO THE Intelligencer.

*Quantum stagna Tagi rudibus stillantia venis
Effluxere decus ! quanto pretiosa metallo
Hermi ripa micat ! quantas per Lidia culta Despumat rutilas dives Pactolus arenas.*

CLAUDIAN.

Mr. Intelligencer,

HAVING lately, with great Candour and Impartiality, perused some of your Papers upon the Distress and Poverty of this Island, which you take Care to describe in the most pathetick Manner, you must forgive me if I differ from you, and think it one of the most flourishing and wealthy Kingdoms in the whole World. And to support my Opinion, I will venture to affirm, that there never was such Affluence in ready Cash as at this present Juncture : For have we not more Bankers than ever were known among us ? And whether the Money circulates in Specie or Paper, it is the same Thing to us, since those who would rather have Cash than Paper, can (as is well known) have their Choice, whenever they please. It is to be presum'd that no Banker gives a NOTE before the Money is first laid down on his Counter; then of Consequence there is as much Money as there is Paper; and that we have a great deal of Paper is most certain, therefore a great deal of Money. But I will proceed farther, and prove that we have much more Money than Paper, because there are Multitudes who keep their own Money. This appears from the great Number of Iron Chests imported from Holland within these last seven Years; for what Use can they be of, but to lodge Money? They are at least two hundred. We will suppose that these, one with another, may contain two thousand Pounds a piece, then the Sum total amounts to four hundred thousand Pounds, which is so much superfluous and unnecessary Cash.

If this Island were not very wealthy, it is strongly to be presumed, that so many wise and able Heads, Men of great Learning and superior Talents, whose Reputations reach'd us from distant Regions long before they came among us, so well distinguished in their own Countries for their great Knowledge in their several Professions, and here more especially remarkable for their speaking in Publick, and their profound Skill in Religion, Politicks and Law: I say that Men of such Accomplishments would never quit their own Native Soil, where so many Estates are daily made, if they were not sure that this Island must,

or

on account of its greater Wealth, afford them Opportunities of making larger Acquisitions than they could at home.

Have not almost all the Gentlemen thro' this Kingdom, for some Years past, declined all profitable Employments, and left them to be filled by others? Can there be a stronger Argument of their Wealth, than their chusing to live at their Ease, out of Office, rather than be at the small Trouble which attends the Discharge of a beneficial Employment?

Could so many estated Gentlemen thro' the North of Ireland, afford to keep so much of their Lands waste and untenanted, if they had not Money enough by them to live without Tenants; and would not the Tenants likewise be glad to take this waste Land to plow and sow, but that they have ready Money enough to buy Bread-Corn and other Necessaries from all the World beside?

As another signal Mark of our Riches, there is scarce a Gentleman who does not educate his Sons at our UNIVERSITY (which as the World sees, wants not its due Encouragement) where they live at vast Expences, take Degrees, return to their Fathers, who, without ever troubling Law or Gospel, maintain them afterwards at Home, like Gentlemen.

Do not many of our Nobility through Wantonness and Superfluity, reside constantly in another Kingdom, where it is well known they make a better Figure, as to Houses, Coaches, and Equipages, than their Neighbours? And do not our young Peers and Gentry, who go thither to see the World, Game, Race, Drink, &c. beyond any in Great-Britain, of the same Age and Quality? Which they could not possibly do, if their Agents here had not an undrainable Fund to supply them. For as the Philosopher says, Nemo dat quod non habet: Or as the Juglar very elegantly expresses it, Where nothing is, there nothing can come out.

If it be true, (I know it is confidently reported) that a great Number of English Robbers are come over; that likewise is a very strong Argument of our Wealth; for they would never quit the English Streets and Roads for ours, unless they were sure to find an Advantage by the Change. It is most certain we never had such a Number of Robbers as at this very Juncture; from whence we may conclude, that they could not possibly multiply thus, if they did not find Houses and People enough to rob, for all Professions and Trades encrease according to the Encouragement they meet with.

Are not whole Streets adding every Day to our Metropolis, when one would think it large enough already? Some entire Streets and many Houses, I must confess, are waste and uninhabited. But does not this shew the Wealth and Wantonness of the Inhabitants, who, not content with their present Dwellings, change them for others more costly and expensive?

Do not great Numbers of our Inhabitants, daily go off to America? will any Man say, this can be done with empty Pockets? Can any Man think otherwise, but that it must be the Effect of vast Superfluity, when People wantonly take take such long Voyages and Journeys, to go where they have no Business.

The last Argument I shall offer for the Wealth of this Kingdom, is the great Number of Beggars in which it abounds; for it is a common Observation, that Riches are the Parent of Idleness, Sloth, and Luxury; and are not these naturally productive of Want and Beggary?

I could offer many more Arguments, but that I hope you and your Countrymen are sufficiently convinced, by what I have said, that Ireland is a Place of great Wealth, Affluence, and Plenty. Therefore let me advise you, the next Time you put Pen to Paper, not to dress up Hibernia in Rags and Dirt, but cloath her in Scarlet and fine Linnen; for she can very well afford them. Draw the God of Riches, hovering over your Island, shaking ten Thousand of Golden Feathers from his Wings, much more than the Inhabitants can gather. And thus will your Countrymen who have retrenched upon your last groundless Alarm, return to their former Hospitality, and we shall see Halcyon, that is Irish, Days once more.

A True and Faithful

NARRATIVE

OF

What pass'd in LONDON during the general Consternation of all Ranks and Degrees of Mankind;

On Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday last.

ON Tuesday the 13th of October, Mr. Whiston held his Lecture near the Royal Exchange, to an Audience of Fourteen worthy Citizens, his Subscribers and constant Hearers. Besides these, there were five chance Auditors for that Night only, who had paid their Shillings a-piece. I think my self oblig'd to be very particular in this Relation, lest my Veracity should be suspected; which makes me appeal to the Men who were Present; of which Number, I my self was one. Their Names are

Henry

A true and faithful Narrative, &c. 201

Henry Watſon, Haberdaſher.

George Hancock, Druggiſt.

John Lewis, Dry-Salter.

William Jones, Corn-chandler.

Henry Theobald, Watchmaker.

James Peters, Draper.

Thomas Floyer, Silversmith.

John Wells, Brewer.

Samuel Greg, Soap-Boyle.

William Cooley, Fishmonger.

James Harper, Hofier.

Robert Tucker, Stationer.

George Ford, Ironmonger.

Daniel Lynch, Apothecary.

William Bennet,

David Somers,

Charles Lock,

Leonard Daval,

Henry Croft.

} Apprentices.

Mr. Whiſton began by acquainting us, that (contrary to his Adverſement) he thought himſelf in duty and conſcience, oblig'd to change the ſubject Matter of his intended diſcourſe.-----

Here he pauſ'd, and ſeem'd for a ſhort ſpace as it were loſt in Devotion and mental Prayer; after which, with great earneſtneſs and vehemence he ſpoke as follows.

“ Friends and Fellow Citizens, all ſpeculative

“ Science is at an end; the Period of all things

“ is at Hand; on Friday next this World ſhall

“ be no more. Put not your Confidence in “ me Brethren, for to morrow Morning five “ Minutes after five the Truth will be Evident ;

 “ in that instant the Comet shall appear, of “ which I have heretofore warn’d you. As ye “ have heard, believe. Go hence, and prepare “ your Wives, your Families and Friends, for “ the universal Change.

At this solemn and dreadful Prediction, the whole Society appear’d in the utmost Astonishment : but it would be unjust not to remember that Mr. Whiston himself was in so calm a Temper, as to return a Shilling a piece to the Youths who had been disappointed of their Lecture, which I thought from a Man of his Integrity a convincing Proof of his own Faith in the Prediction.

As we thought it a Duty, in Charity to warn all Men ; in two or three Hours the News had spread through the City. At first indeed, our report met with but little Credit, it being by our greatest Dealers in Stocks, thought only a Court-Artifice to sink them, that some choice Favourites might purchase at a lower Rate ; for the South Sea, that very Evening fell five per Cent. the India, eleven ; and all the other Funds in Proportion. But at the Court-end of the Town, our Attestations were intirely disbeliev’d or turn’d into ridicule ; yet nevertheless the News spread every where, and was the subject matter of all Conversation.

That very Night (as I was credibly inform’d) Mr. Whiston was sent for to a great Lady, who is very curious in the Learned Sciences, and addicted to all the Speculative Doubts of the most able Philosophers ; but he was

was not now to be found : and since at other times, he has been known not to decline that Honour, I make no Doubt he conceal'd himself to attend the great Business of his Soul : But whether it was the Lady's Faith, or Inquisitiveness, that occasion'd her to send, is a Point I shall not presume to determine. As for his being sent for to the Secretary's Office by a Messenger, it is now known to be a Matter notoriously false, and indeed at first it had little credit with me, that so Zealous and Honest a Man should be ordered into Custody, as a Seditious Preacher, who is known to be so well affected to the present happy Establishment.

'Twas now I reflected with exceeding trouble and sorrow, that I had disus'd Family Prayers for above five Years, and (though it hath been a Custom of late intirely neglected by Men of any Business or Station) I determin'd within myself no longer to omit so reasonable and religious a Duty. I acquainted my Wife with my Intentions : But two or three Neighbours having been engaged to Sup with us that Night, and many Hours being unwarily spent at Cards, I was prevail'd upon by her, to put it off till the next Day ; she reasoning, that it would be time enough to take off the Servants from their Business (which this practice must infallibly occasion for an Hour or two every Day) after the Comet had made its appearance.

Zachary Bowen, a Quaker, and my next Neighbour, had no sooner heard of the Prophecy but he made me a Visit. I informed him of every thing I had heard, but found him quite obstinate in his unbelief ; for, said he, be comforted, Friend, thy tidings are Impossibilities, for were these things to happen, they must have been foreseen by some of our Brethren. This indeed (as in all other spiritual Cases with this Sett of People) was his only reason against believing me ; and, as he was fully persuaded that the Prediction was erroneous, he in a very neighbourly Manner admonished me against selling my Stock, at the present low Price ; which, he said, beyond dispute must have a Rise before Monday, when this unreasonable Consternation should be over.

But on WEDNESDAY Morning (I believe to the exact Calculation of Mr. Whiston) the Comet appear'd : For at three Minutes after five by my own Watch, I saw it. He indeed, foretold that it would be seen at five Minutes after Five, but as the best Watches may be a Minute or two too slow, I am apt to think his Calculation just to a Minute.

In less than a quarter of an Hour, all Cheapside was crouded with a vast concourse of People, and notwithstanding it was so early, 'tis thought that through all that part of the Town, there was not Man, Woman or Child, except the Sick, or Infirm, left in their Beds. From my own Balcony, I am confident, I saw several 'Thousands in the Street, and counted at least seventeen who were upon their Knees, and seem'd in actual Devotion. Eleven of them indeed appear'd to be old Women of about Fourscore ; The Six others, were Men in an advanc'd

advanc'd Life, but (as I could guess) two of them might be under Seventy.

It is highly probable, that an event of this Nature, may be pass'd over by the greater Historians of our Times, as conducing very little or nothing to the unravelling and laying open the deep Schemes of Politicians and Mysteries of State ; for which reason, I thought it might not be unacceptable to record the Facts, which in the Space of three Days came to my Knowledge, either as an Eye-witness, or from unquestionable Authorities ; nor can I think this Narrative will be intirely without its Use, as it may enable us to form a more just Idea of our Countrymen in general, particularly in regard to their Faith, Religion, Morals and Politicks.

Before WEDNESDAY Noon, the Belief was universal that the Day of Judgment was at Hand, insomuch, that a Waterman of my acquaintance told me he counted no less than one hundred and twenty three Clergymen, who had been ferry'd over to Lambeth before twelve a-Clock : these, 'tis said, went thither, to Petition, that a short Prayer might be Penn'd and Order'd, there being none in the Service upon that occasion. But as in things of this Nature, it is necessary that the Council be consulted, their request was not immediately comply'd with ; and this I affirm to be the true and only Reason that the Churches were not that Morning so well attended ; and is in no ways to be imputed to the Fears and Consternation of the Clergy, with which the Free-thinkers thinkers have since very unjustly reproach'd them.

My Wife and I went to Church (where we had not been for many Years on a Week-day) and, with a very large Congregation, were disappointed of the Service. But (what will be scarce credible) by the carelessness of a 'Prentice, in our absence, we had a Piece of fine Cambric carried off by a Shop-lifter, so little impression was yet made on the minds of those wicked Women!

I cannot omit the care of a particular Director of the Bank; I hope the worthy and wealthy Knight will forgive me that I endeavour to do him justice; for it was unquestionably owing to Sir G---- H----'s sagacity that all the Fire-Offices were requir'd to have a particular Eye upon the Bank of England. Let it be recorded to his Praise that in the general hurry, this struck him as his nearest and tenderest concern; but the next day in the Evening, after having taken due care of all his Books, Bills and Bonds, I was inform'd, his mind was wholly turn'd upon Spiritual Matters; yet, ever and anon, he could not help expressing his resentment against the Tories and Jacobites, to whom he imputed that sudden Run upon the Bank which happen'd on this occasion.

A Great Man (whom at this time 'it may not be prudent to name) employ'd all the Wednesday Morning, to make up such an Account as might appear fair, in case he should be call'd upon upon to produce it on the Friday; but was forced to desist, after having
for

for several Hours together attempted it, not being able to bring himself to a resolution to trust the many hundred Articles of his secret Transactions upon Paper.

Another seem'd to be very melancholy, which his flatterers imputed to his dread of losing his Power in a Day or two; but I rather take it, that his chief concern was, the Terror of being try'd in a Court that could not be influenc'd and where a Majority of Voices could avail him nothing. It was observ'd too, that he had few Visitors that Day; this added so much to his Mortification, that he read thro' the first Chapter of the Book of Job, and wept over it bitterly; in short, he seem'd a true Penitent in every thing but in Charity to his Neighbour. No business was that Day done in his Compting-House; 'tis said too, that he was advis'd to Restitution, but I never heard that he comply'd with it any further than in giving half a Crown a piece to several craz'd, and starving Creditors, who attended in the outward Room.

Three of the Maids of Honour sent to countermand their Birth-day Cloaths; two of them burnt all their Collections of Novels and Romances, and sent to a Bookseller's in Pall-mall to buy each of them a Bible, and Taylor's Holy Living and Dying. But I must do all of them the Justice to acknowledge, that they shew'd a very decent Behaviour in the drawing Room, and restrain'd themselves from those innocent Freedoms and little Levities so commonly incident to young Ladies of their Profession. So many Birth-day Suits were countermanded the next Day,

Day, that most of the Taylors and Mantua-makers discharg'd all their Journeymen and Women. A grave elderly Lady of great Erudition and Modesty who visits these young Ladies, seem'd to be extreamly shock'd, by the Apprehensions that She was to appear naked before the whole World; and no less so, that all Mankind was to appear naked before Her; which might so much divert her Thoughts, as to incapacitate her to give Ready and apt Answers to the Interrogatories that might be made her. The Maids of Honour who had both Modesty and Curiosity, could not imagine the Sight so disagreeable as was represented; nay, one of them went so far as to say, she perfectly long'd to see it; for it could not be so indecent, when every Body was to be alike; and they had a Day or two to prepare themselves to be seen in that Condition. Upon this reflection, each of them order'd a Bathing-Tub to be got ready that Evening, and a Looking-Glass to be set by it. So much are these young Ladies both by Nature and Custom addicted to cleanly appearance.

A West-Country Gentleman told me, he got a Church-Lease fill'd up that Morning for the same Sum which had been refus'd for three Years successively. I must impute this meerly to accident; for I cannot imagine that any Divine could take the Advantage of his Tenant, in so unhandsome a Manner; or that the shortness of the Life was in the least his Consideration; though I have heard the same worthy
 Prelate

Prelate aspers'd and malign'd since upon this very Account.

The Term being so near, the alarm among the LAWYERS was inexpressible, though some of them, I was told, were so vain as to promise themselves some advantages in making their defence, by being vers'd in the Practice of our earthly Courts. It is said too, that some of the chief Pleaders were heard to express great satisfaction, that there had been but few State-Tryals of late Years. Several Attornies demanded the return of Fees that had been given the Lawyers: but it was answered the Fee was undoubtedly charg'd to their Client, and that they could not connive at such Injustice, as to suffer it to be sunk in the Attorney's Pockets. Our sage and learned Judges had great consolation, insomuch as they had not pleaded at the Bar for several Years; the Barristers rejoiced in that they were not Attornies, and the Attornies felt no less satisfaction that they were not Petty-foggers, Scriveners, and other meaner Officers of the Law.

As to the ARMY, far be it from me to conceal the Truth. Every Soldier's behaviour was as undismayed, and undaunted, as if nothing was to happen: I impute not this to their want of Faith, but to their martial Disposition; though I cannot help thinking they commonly accompany their commands with more Caths than are requisite, of which there was no remarkable diminution this Morning on the Parade in St. James's Park. But possibly it was by choice, and on consideration, that they continued

continued this way of Expression, not to intimidate the common Soldiers, or give occasion to suspect that even the Fear of Damnation could make any impression upon their Superior Officers. A Duel was fought the same Morning between two Colonels, not occasion'd (as was reported) because the one was put over the other's Head ; that being a Point which might at such a Juncture have been accommodated by the Mediation of Friends ; but as this was upon the account of a Lady, 'twas judg'd it could not be put off at this time, above all others, but demanded immediate Satisfaction : I am apt to believe that a young Officer who desir'd his Surgeon to defer putting him into a Salivation till Saturday, might make this request out of some Opinion he had of the truth of the Prophecy ; for the apprehensions of any danger in the Operation could not be his Motive, the Surgeon himself having assured me that he had before undergone three severe Operations of the like Nature, with great resignation and fortitude.

There was an Order issued, that the Chap-lains of the several Regiments should attend their Duty ; but as they were dispers'd about in several parts of England, it was believ'd, that most of them could not be found, or so much as heard of, till the great Day was over.

Most of the considerable PHYSICIANS by their outward demeanor seem'd to be Unbelievers ; but at the same time, they every where insinuated, that there might be a Pestilential Malignancy in the Air, occasion'd by the Co-met, met, which might be arm'd against by proper and timely Medicines. This caution had but little effect; for as the time approach'd, the Christian Resignation of the People encreas'd, and most of them (which was never before known) had their Souls more at Heart, than their Bodies.

If the Reverend CLERGY shew'd more Concern than others, I charitably impute it to their great charge of Souls; and what confirm'd me in this Opinion was, that the Degrees of Apprehension and Terror could be distinguish'd to be greater or less, according to their Ranks and Degrees in the Church.

The like might be observ'd in all sorts of Ministers, though not of the Church of England; the higher their Rank, the more was their Fear.

I speak not of the COURT, for fear of offence; and I forbear Inserting the Names of particular Persons, to avoid the imputation of Slander, so that the Reader will allow this Narrative must be deficient, and is therefore desir'd to accept hereof rather as a Sketch, than a regular circumstantial History.

I was not inform'd of any Persons who shew'd the least Joy, except three Malefactors who were to be executed the Monday following, and one Old Man, a constant Church-goer, who being at the point of Death, express'd some satisfaction at the News.

On Thursday Morning there was little or nothing transacted in Change-Alley; there were a Multitude of Sellers, but so few Buyers, that that one cannot affirm the Stocks bore any certain Price except among the Jews; who this Day, reap'd great Profit by their Infidelity. There were many who call'd themselves Christians, who offer'd to buy for time, but as these were People of great Distinction, I chuse not to mention them, because in effect it would seem to accuse them both of Avarice, and Infidelity.

The Run upon the Bank is too well known to need a particular Relation; for it never can be forgotten that no one Person whatever (except the Directors themselves, and some of their particular Friends and Associates) could convert a Bill all that Day into Specie; all hands being employ'd to serve them.

In the several Churches of the City and Suburbs, there were seven Thousand two Hundred and Forty Five, who publickly and solemnly declar'd before the Congregation, that they took to Wife their several kept Mistresses, which was allow'd as valid Marriage, the Priests not having time to pronounce the Ceremony in Form.

At St. Bride's Church in Fleetstreet, Mr. Woolston (who writ against the Miracles of our Saviour) in the utmost Terrors of Conscience, made a publick Recantation. Dr. Mandevil; (who had been groundlessly reported formerly to have done the same) did it now in good earnest at St. James's Gate; as did also at the Temple Church several Gentlemen, who frequent Coffee-Houses near the Bar. So great was the Faith and Fear of two of them, that they dropt

dropt Dead on the Spot ; but I will not record their Names, lest I should be thought invidiously to lay an Odium on their Families and Posterity.

Most of the Players who had very little Faith before, were now desirous of having as much as they cou'd, and therefore embrac'd the Roman Catholick Religion ; the same thing was observ'd of some Bawds, and Ladies of Pleasure.

An Irish Gentleman out of pure Friendship came to make me a Visit, and advis'd me to hire a Boat for the ensuing Day, and told me, that unless I gave earnest for one immediately, he fear'd it might be too late ; for his Countrymen had secured almost every Boat upon the River, as judging that, in the general Conflagration to be upon the Water would be the safest Place.

There were two Lords, and three Commoners, who, out of a scruple of Conscience, very hastily threw up their Pensions, as imagining a Pension was only an annual retaining Bribe. All the other great Pensioners, I was told, had their Scruples quieted by a Clergyman or two of distinction, whom they happily consulted.

It was remarkable that several of our very richest Tradesmen of the City, in common Charity, gave away Shillings and Six-pences to the Beggars, who ply'd about the Church Doors ; and at a particular Church in the City, a Wealthy Church-warden with his own Hands distributed Fifty twelve-penny Loaves to the Poor by way of Restitution for the many great and costly

costly Feasts, which he had eaten of at their expence.

Three great Ladies, a Valet de Chambre, two Lords, a Custom-House Officer, five Half-pay Captains, and a Baronet, (all noted Gamesters) came publickly into a Church at Westminster, and deposited a very considerable Sum of Money in the Minister's Hands; the Parties whom they had defrauded, being either out of Town, or not to be found. But so great is the Hardness of Heart of this Fraternity, that among either the Noble, or Vulgar Gamesters, (though the Profession is so general) I did not hear of any other restitution of this Sort. At the same time I must observe that (in comparison of these) through all parts of the Town, the Justice and Penitence of the Highway-Men, House-breakers, and common Pick-Pockets, was very remarkable.

The Directors of our Publick Companies were in such dreadful apprehensions, that one would have thought a Parliamentary Enquiry was at hand; yet so great was their Presence of Mind, that all the Thursday Morning was taken up in private Transfers, which by malicious People was thought to be done with Design to conceal their Effects.

I forbear mentioning the private Confessions of particular Ladies to their Husbands; for as their Children were born in Wedlock, and of consequence are Legitimate, it would be an invidious Task to record them as Bastards; and particularly after their several Husbands have so charitably forgiven them.

The

The Evening and Night, through the whole Town, were spent in Devotions both Publick and Private; the Churches for this one Day, were so crowded by the Nobility and Gentry, that Thousands of common People were seen praying in the publick Streets. In short, one would have thought the whole Town had been really and seriously religious. But what was very remarkable, all the different Persuasions kept by themselves, for as each thought the other would be damned, not one would join in Prayer with the other.

At length FRIDAY came, and the People cover'd all the Streets; Expecting, Watching and Praying. But as the Day wore away, their Fears first began to abate, then lessen'd every hour, at Night they were almost extinct, till the total Darknes, that hitherto us'd to terrify, now comforted every Free-thinker and Atheist. Great numbers went together to the Taverns, bespoke Suppers, and broke up whole Hogs-heads for joy. The Subject of all Wit and Conversation was to ridicule the Prophecy, and railly each other. All the Quality and Gentry were perfectly asham'd, nay, some utterly disown'd that they had manifested any Signs of Religion.

But the next Day, even the Common People, as well as their Betters, appear'd in their usual state of Indifference. They Drank, they Whor'd, they Swore, they Ly'd, they Cheated, they Plunder'd, they Gam'd, they Quarrel'd, they Murder'd. In short, the World went on in the old Channel.

I need

I need not give any Instances of what will so easily be credited, but I cannot omit relating, that Mr. Woolston advertised, in that very Saturday's Evening-Post, a new Treatise against the Miracles of our Saviour; and that the few, who had given up their Pensions the Day before, solicited to have them continued; which, as they had not been thrown up upon any Ministerial Point, I am inform'd was readily granted.

THE JOURNAL
OF A Modern LADY.

IT was a most unfriendly Part
In you who ought to know my Heart,
So well acquainted with my Zeal
For all the Female Common-weal :
How cou'd it come into your Mind,
To pitch on me, of all Mankind,
Against the Sex to write a Satyr,
And brand me for a Woman-Hater ?
On me, who think them all so fair,
They rival Venus to a Hair ;
Their Virtues never ceas'd to sing,
Since first I learn'd to tune a String.
Methinks I hear the Ladies cry,
Will he his Character bely ?
Must never our Misfortunes end ?
And have we lost our only Friend ?

A

Ah,

Ah, lovely Nymphs remove your Fears,
 No more let fall those precious Tears.
 Sooner shall, &c.

[Here several Verses are omitted.]

The Hound be hunted by the Hare,
 Than I turn Rebel to the Fair.

'Twas you engag'd me first to write,
 Then gave the Subject out of Spite.
The Journal of a Modern Dame,
 Is by my promise what you claim ;
 My Word is past, I must submit,
 And yet perhaps you may be bit.
 I but transcribe, for not a Line
 Of all the Satyr shall be mine.
 Compell'd by you to tag in Rhimes
 The common Slanders of the Times,
 Of modern Times, the Guilt is yours,
 And me my Innocence secures :
 Unwilling Muse begin thy Lay,
 The Annals of a Female Day.

By Nature turn'd to play the Rake-well,
 (As we shall shew you in the Sequel)
 The modern Dame is wak'd by Noon,
 Some Authors say not quite so soon,
 Because, though fore against her Will,
 She sat all Night up at Quadrill.

She

She stretches, gapes, unglues her Eyes,
 And asks if it be time to rise ;
 Of Head-ach, and the Spleen complains ;
 And then to cool her heated Brains,
 Her Night-gown and her Slippers brought her,
 Takes a large Dram of Citron Water.
 Then to her Glas ; and “ Betty, pray “ Don’t I look frightfully to Day ?
 “ But, was it not confounded hard ?
 “ Well, if I ever touch a Card :
 “ Four Mottadores, and lose Codil ?
 “ Depend upon’t, I never will.
 “ But run to Tom, and bid him fix
 “ The Ladies here to Night by Six.”
 Madam, the Goldsmith waits below.
 He says, his Business is to know
 If you’ll redeem the Silver Cup,
 You pawn’d to him ? -- First shew him up.
 Your Dressing-Plate, he’ll be content
 To take, for Interest Cent. per Cent.
 And, Madam, there’s my Lady Spade
 Hath sent this Letter by her Maid.
 “ Well I remember what she won ;
 “ And hath she sent so soon to dun ?
 “ Here, carry down those ten Pistoles
 “ My Husband left to pay for Coals :
 “ I thank my Stars, they are all light ;
 “ And I may have Revenge to Night.”
 Now, loit’ring o’er her Tea and Cream,
 She enters on her usual Theme ;

Her last Night's ill Success repeats,
 Calls Lady Spade a hundred Cheats :
 She flipt Spadillo in her Breast,
 Then thought to turn it to a Jest.
 There's Mrs. Cut and she combine,
 And to each other give the Sign.
 Through ev'ry Game pursues her Tale,
 Like Hunters o'er their Evening Ale.

Now to another Scene give Place,
 Enter the Folks with Silks and Lace :
 Fresh Matter for a World of Chat,
 Right Indian this, right Macklin that ;
 Observe this Pattern ; there's a Stuff,
 I can have Customers enough.
 Dear Madam, you are grown so hard,
 This Lace is worth twelve Pounds a Yard :
 Madam, if there be Truth in Man,
 I never sold so cheap a Fan.

This Business of Importance o'er,
 And Madam almost drest by Four ;
 The Footman, in his usual Phrase,
 Comes up with, Madam, Dinner stays ;
 She answers in her usual Style,
 The Cook must keep it back a while ;
 I never can have Time to Dress,
 No Woman Breathing takes up less ;
 I'm hurried so, it makes me sick,
 I wish the Dinner at Old Nick.

At Table now she acts her Part,
Has all the Dinner-Cant by Heart :
' I thought we were to Dine alone,
' My Dear, for sure if I had known
' This Company would come to Day—
' But really 'tis my Spouse's Way ;
' He's so unkind, he never sends
' To tell, when he invites his Friends :
' I wish ye may but have enough.'
And while, with all this paultry Stuff,
She sits tormenting every Guest,
Nor gives her Tongue one Moment's Rest,
In Phrases batter'd, stale, and trite,
Which Modern Ladies call polite ;
You see the Booby Husband sit
In Admiration at her Wit !

But let me now a while survey
Our Madam o'er her Ev'ning Tea ;
Surrounded with her Noisy Clans
Of Prudes, Coquets, and Harridans ;
When frightened at the clam'rous Crew,
Away the God of Silence flew.
And fair Discretion left the Place,
And Modesty with blushing Face ;
Now enters over-weening Pride,
And Scandal ever gaping wide,
Hypocrisy with Frown severe,
Scurrility with gibing Air ;

Rude Laughter seeming like to burst,
 And Malice always judging worst ;
 And Vanity with Pocket-Glass,
 And Impudence with Front of Brass ;
 And studied Affectation came,
 Each Limb, and Feature out of Frame,
 While Ignorance, with Brain of Lead,
 Flew hov'ring o'er each Female Head.

Why should I ask of thee, my Muse,
 An Hundred Tongues, as Poets use,
 When, to give ev'ry Dame her due,
 An Hundred Thousand were too few !
 Or how should I, alas ! relate
 The Sum of all their Senseless Prate,
 Their Inuendo's, Hints, and Slanders,
 Their Meanings lewd, and double 'Entendres,
 Now comes the gen'ral Scandal-Charge,
 What some invent, the rest enlarge ;
 And, " Madam, if it be a Lye,
 " You have the Tale as cheap as I :
 " I must conceal my Author's Name,
 " But now 'tis known to common Fame.

Say, foolish Females, Old and Blind,
 Say, by what fatal Turn of Mind,
 Are you on Vices most severe,
 Wherein yourselves have greatest Share ?
 Thus every Fool her self deludes ;
 The Prudes condemn the absent Prudes ;

Mops. 2

Mopsa, who stinks her Spouse to Death,
Accuses Chloe's tainted Breath ;
Hircina rank with Sweat, presumes
To censure Phillis for Perfumes ;
While crooked Cynthia swearing says,
That Florimel wears Iron Stays ;
Chloe's of every Coxcomb jealous,
Admires how Girls can talk with Fellows,
And full of Indignation frets
That Women should be such Coquets :
Iris, for Scandal most notorious,
Cries, " Lord, the World is so censorious !
And Rufa with her Combs of Lead,
Whispers that Sappho's Hair is Red :
Aura, whose Tongue you hear a Mile hence,
Talks half a Day in Praise of Silence ;
And Silvia full of inward Guilt,
Calls Amoret an arrant Jilt.

Now Voices over Voices rise ;
While each to be the loudest vies,
They contradict, affirm, dispute,
No single Tongue one Moment mute ;
All mad to speak, and none to hearken,
They set the very Lap-Dog barking ;
Their Chattering makes a louder Din
Than Fish-Wives o'er a Cup of Gin :
Not School-boys at a Barring-out,
Rais'd ever such incessant Rout :

The Jumbling Particles of Matter
 In Chaos make not such a Clatter :
 Far less the Rabble roar and rail,
 When Drunk with four Election Ale.

Nor do they trust their Tongue alone,
 To speak a Language of their own ;
 But read a Nod, a Shrug, a Look,
 Far better than a printed Book ;
 Convey a Libel in a Frown,
 And wink a Reputation down ;
 Or by the tossing of the Fan,
 Describe the Lady and the Man.

But, see the Female Club disbands,
 Each, twenty Visits on her Hands :
 Now all alone poor Madam sits,
 In Vapours and Hyfterick Fits :
 “ And was not Tom this Morning sent ;
 “ I’d lay my Life he never went :
 “ Past Six, and not a living Soul !
 “ I might by this have won a Vole.”
 A dreadful Interval of Spleen !
 How shall we pass the Time between ?
 “ Here Betty, let me take my Drops,
 “ And feel my Pulse, I know it stops :
 “ This Head of mine, Lord, how it Swims !
 “ And such a Pain in all my Limbs !
 Dear Madam, try to take a Nap—
 But now they hear a Foot-Man’s Rap :

“ Go

“ Go run, and light the Ladies up :

“ It must be One before we Sup.

The Table, Cards, and Counters set,
And all the Gamester Ladies met,
Her Spleen and Fits recover'd quite,
Our Madam can sit up all Night ;
“ Whoever comes I'm not within—— Quadrill's the Word, and so begin.

How can the Muse her Aid impart,
Unskill'd in all the Terms of Art !
Or in harmonious Numbers put
The Deal, the Shuffle, and the Cut ?
All the superfluous Whims relate,
That fill a Female Gamester's Pate ?
What Agony of Soul she feels
To see a Knave's inverted Heels :
She draws up Card by Card, to find
Good Fortune peeping from behind ;
With panting Heart, and earnest Eyes,
In hope to see Spadillo rise ;
In vain, alas ! her Hope is fed ;
She draws an Ace, and sees it red.
In ready Counters never pays,
But pawns her Snuff-Box, Rings, and Keys.
Ever with some new Fancy struck,
Tries twenty Charms to mend her Luck.
“ This Morning when the Parson came,
“ I said I should not win the Game.

" This odious Chair how came I stuck in't,

" I think I never had good Luck in't.

" I'm so uneasy in my Stays ;

" Your Fan a Moment, if you please.

" Stand further Girl, or get you gone,

" I always loose when you look on.

Lord, Madam, you have lost Codill :

I never saw you play so ill.

" Nay, Madam, give me leave to say

" 'Twas you that threw the Game away ;

" When Lady Trickfy play'd a Four

" You took it with a Matadore ;

" I saw you touch your Wedding-Ring

" Before my Lady call'd a King.

" You spoke a Word began with H,

" And I know whom you meant to teach,

" Because you held the King of Hearts ;

" Fie, Madam, leave these little Arts.

That's not so bad as one that rubs
Her Chair to call the King of Clubs,
And makes her Part'ner understand
A Matadore is in her Hand.

" Madam, you have no Cause to flounce,

" I swear I saw you thrice renounce.

And truly, Madam, I know when Instead of Five you scor'd me Ten.

Spadillo here has got a Mark,

A Child may know it in the Dark :

I guess the Hand, it seldom fails,

I wish some Folks would pair their Nails.

Whilie

While thus they rail, and scold and storm,
It passes but for common Form ;
Most conscious that they all speak true,
And give each other but their Due ;
It never interrupts the Game,
Or makes 'em sensible of Shame.

The Time too precious now to waste,
And Supper gobbled up in haste,
Again a-fresh to Cards they run,
As if they had but just begun.
Yet shall I not again repeat
How oft they Squabble, Snarl and Cheat ;
At last they hear the Watchman knock,
A Frosty Morn-----Past Four a-Clock.
The Chair-Men are not to be found,
“ Come, let us play the t'other Round.

Now, all in haste they huddle on
Their Hoods, their Cloaks, and get them gone ;
But first the Winner must invite
The Company to-morrow Night.

Unlucky Madam left in Tears,
(Who now again Quadrill forswears)
With empty Purse, and aching Head,
Steels to her sleeping Spouse to Bed.

THE COUNTRY LIFE.

THALIA, tell in sober Lays,
How George, Nim, Dan, Dean pass their Days.

Begin, my Muse ; First from our Bow'rs
We issue forth at diff'rent Hours ;
At seven, the Dean in Night-gown drest,
Goes round the House to wake the rest ;
At nine, grave Nim and George facetious
Go to the Dean to read Lucretius ;
At ten, my Lady comes and hectors,
And kisses George, and ends our Lectures,
And when She has him by the Neck fast,
Hauls him, and scolds us down to Break fast,
We squander there an Hour or more,
And then all Hands, Boys, to the Oar,
All, Heteroëtil Dan except,
Who neither Time, nor Order kept,
But by peculiar Whimsies drawn,
Peeps in the Ponds to look for Spawn.

O'ersees

O'ersees the Work, or Dragon * rows,
Or spoils a Text, or mends his Hose ;
Or---- but proceed we in our Journal----
At two, or after, we return all.
From the four Elements assembling,
Warn'd by the Bell, all Folks come trembling ;
From airy Garrets some descend,
Some from the Lake's remotest End :
My Lord and Dean the Fire forsake,
Dan leaves the Earthly Spade and Rake :
The Loit'ers quake, no Corner hides them,
And Lady Betty soundly chides them.
Now Water's brought and Dinner's done :
With Church and King the Lady's gone :
(Not reck'ning half an Hour we pass
In talking o'er a moderate Glass.)
Dan, growing drowsy like a Thief,
Steals off to dose away his Beef,
And this must pass for reading Hammond---
While George and Dean go to Back-Gammon.
George, Nim, and Dean set out at four,
And then again, Boys, to the Oar.
But when the Sun goes to the Deep,
(Not to disturb him in his Sleep,
Or make a Rumbling o'er his Head,
His Candle out, and He a-bed)
We watch his Motions to a Minute,
And leave the Flood, when he goes in it.

* My Lord's Boat.

Now

Now stinted in the shortning Day,
 We go to Pray'rs, and then to play :
 Till Supper comes, and after that,
 We sit an Hour to drink and chat.
 'Tis late--- the old and younger Pairs,
 By Adam* lighted, walk up Stairs.
 The weary Dean goes to his Chamber,
 And Nim and Dan to Garret clamber.
 So when the Circle we have run,
 The Curtain falls, and we have done.

I might have mention'd sev'ral Facts,
 Like Episodes between the Acts ;
 And tell who loses, and who wins,
 Who gets a Cold, who breaks his Shins ;
 How Dan caught nothing in his Net,
 And how the Boat was overset ;
 For Brevity I have retrench'd
 How in the Lake the Dean was drench'd :
 It would be an Exploit to brag on,
 How valiant George rode o'er the Dragon,
 How steady in the Stern he sat,
 And sav'd his Oar, but lost his Hat :
 How Nim (no Hunter e'er could match him,)
 Still brings us Hares when he can catch 'em :
 How skilfully Dan mends his Nets ;
 How Fortune fails him when he sets.
 Or how the Dean delights to vex
 The Ladies, or lampoon the Sex :

* The Footman.

Or

Or how our Neighbour lifts his Nose
To tell what ev'ry School-boy knows,
Then with his Finger on his Thumb
Explaining, strikes Opposures dumb :
Or how his Wife, that Female Pedant,
(But now there need no more be said on't)
Shews all her Secrets of House-keeping ;
For Candles how she trucks her Dripping ;
Was forc'd to send three Miles for Yest
To brew her Ale, and raise her Paste ;
Tells ev'ry thing that you can think of,
How she cur'd Tommy of the Chin-cough ;
What gave her Brats and Pigs the Meazles,
And how her Doves were kill'd by Wheezles ;
How Jowler howl'd, and what a Fright
She had with Dreams the other Night.

But now, since I have gone so far on,
A Word or two of Lord Chief Baron ;
And tell how little Weight he sets
On all Whig Papers, and Gazetts ;
But for the Politicks of Pue *
Thinks every Syllable is true.
And since he owns the King of Sweden
Is dead at last, without evading,
Now all his Hopes are in the Czar ;
“ Why, Muscovy is not so far,
“ Down the Black Sea and up the Streights,
And in a Month he's at your Gates ;

* A News-Writer.

Perhaps

“ Perhaps from what the Packet brings,
“ By Christmas we shall see strange Things.”
Why should I tell of Ponds and Drains,
What Carps we met with for our Pains ;
Of Sparrows tam’d, and Nuts innumerable
To choak the Girls, and to consume-a-Rabble.
But you, who are a Scholar, know
How transient are all Things below,
How prone to change is human Life !
Last Night arriv’d Clem. and his Wife---
This grand Event half broke our Measures ;
Their Reign began with cruel Seizures ;
The Dean must with his Quilt supply
The Bed in which these Tyrants lie,
Nim lost his Whig Block, Dan his Jordan,
(My Lady says she can’t afford one)
George is half scar’d out of his Wits,
For Clem. gets all the dainty Bits.
Henceforth expect a diff’rent Survey,
This House will soon turn topsy-turvy.
They talk of further Alterations,
Which causes many Speculations.

O N

Cutting down the OLD THORNE

A T

MARKET HILL.

AT Market Hill, as well appears
By Chronicle of antient Date,
There stood for many a hundred Years
A spacious Thorn before the Gate.

Hither came every Village Maid,
And on the Boughs her Garland hung,
And here, beneath the spreading Shade,
Secure from Satyrs fat and fung.

* Sir Archibald that val'rous Knight,
The Lord of all the fruitful Plain,
Would come and listen with Delight,
For he was fond of rural Strain.

(Sir Archibald whose fav'rite Name
Shall stand for Ages on Record,
By Scotish Bards of highest Fame, † Wife Hawthorden and Sterlin's Lord.)

* Sir Archibald Acheson, Secretary of State for Scotland.
† Drummond of Hawthorden, and Sir William Alexander E. of Sterling, both famous for their Poetry, who were Friends to Sir Archibald.

But

But Time with Iron Teeth I ween
Has canker'd all its Branches round ;
No Fruit or Blossom to be seen,
Its Head reclining tow'rd's the Ground.

This aged, sickly sapless Thorn
Which must alas no longer stand ;
Behold ! the cruel Dean in Scorn
Cuts down with sacrilegious Hand.

Dame Nature, when she saw the Blow,
Astonish'd gave a dreadful Shriek ;
And Mother Tellus trembled so
She scarce recover'd in a Week.

The Silvan Pow'rs with Fear perplex'd
In Prudence and Compassion sent (For none could tell whose Turn was next)
Sad Omens of the dire Event.

The Magpye, lighting on the Stock,
Stood chatt'ring with incessant Din ;
And with her Beak gave many a Knock
To rouse and warn the Nymph within.

The Owl foresaw in pensive Mood
The Ruin of her antient Seat ;
And fled in haste with all her Brood
To seek a more secure Retreat.

Last trolled forth a gentle Swine
To ease her Itch against the Stump,
And dismally was heard to whine
All as she scrubb'd her meazly Rump.

The Nymph who dwells in every Tree,
(If all be true that Poets chant)
Condemn'd by Fate's supreme Decree
Must die with her expiring Plant.

Thus, when the gentle Spina found
The Thorn committed to her Care,
Receive its last and deadly Wound,
She fled and vanish'd into Air.

But from the Root a dismal Groan
First issuing, struck the Murd'ers Ears ;
And in a shrill revengeful Tone,
This Prophecy he trembling hears.

“ Thou chief Contriver of my Fall, “ Relentless Dean ! to Mischief born,
“ My Kindred oft' thine Hide shall gall ;
“ Thy Gown and Cassock oft' be torn :

“ And thy confed'rate Dame, who brags
“ That she condemn'd me to the Fire,
“ Shall rent her Petticoats to Rags,
“ And wound her Legs with ev'ry Bry'r.

“ Nor

- “ Nor thou, Lord Arthur*, shalt escape :
 “ To thee I often call’d in vain,
 “ Against that Assassin in Crape,
 “ Yet thou could’st tamely see me slain.

 “ Nor, when I felt the dreadful Blow,
 “ Or chid the Dean, or pinch’d thy Spouse,
 “ Since you could see me treated so,
 “ An old Retainer to your House.

 “ May that fell Dean, by whose Command
 “ Was formed this Machi’villian Plot,
 “ Not leave a Thistle on the Land ;
 “ Then who will own thee for a Scot ?

 “ Pigs and Fanaticks, Cows, and Teagues
 “ Thro’ all thy Empire I foresee,
 “ To tear thy Hedges join in Leagues,
 “ Sworn to revenge my Thorn and me.

 “ And thou, the Wretch ordain’d by Fate,
 “ Neal Gabagan, Hibernian Clown,
 “ With Hatchet blunter than thy Pate
 “ To hack my hallow’d Timber down ;

 “ When thou, suspended high in Air,
 “ Dy’st on a more ignoble Tree,
 “ (For thou shalt steal thy Landlord’s Mare)
 “ Then bloody Caitiff think on me.

* Sir Arthur Acheson.

A PASTORAL DIALOGUE.

DERMOT, SHEELAH.

A Nymph and Swain, Sheelah and Dermot
hight,

Who wont to weed the Court of Gosford Knight.
While each with stubbed Knife remov'd the Roots

That rais'd between the Stones their daily Shoots ;
As at their Work they sat in counterview,
With mutual Beauty smit, their Passion grew.
Sing heavenly Muse in sweetly flowing Strain,
The soft Endearments of the Nymph and Swain.

DERMOT.

My Love to Sheelah is more firmly fixt :
Than strongest Weeds that grow these Stones
betwixt :

My Spud these Nettles from the Stones can part,
No Knife so keen to weed thee from my Heart.

SHEELAH.

My Love for gentle Dermot faster grows
Than yon tall Dock that rises to thy Nose.

Cut

Cut down the Dock, 'twill sprout again, but O!
Love rooted out, again will never grow.

DERMOT.

No more that Bry'r thy tender Legs shall rake
(I spare the Thistle for Sir Arthur's sake.)
Sharp are the Stones, take thou this rushy Matt;
The hardest Bum will bruise with sitting squat.

SHEELAH.

Thy Breeches torn behind, stand gaping wide,
This Petticoat shall save thy dear Back-side;
Nor need I blush, although you feel it wet;
Dermot, I vow, 'tis nothing else but sweat.

DERMOT.

At an old stubborn Root I chanc'd to tug,
When the Dean threw me this Tobacco plug:
A longer half-p'orth never did I see;
This, dearest Sheelah, thou shalt share with me.

SHEELAH.

In at the Pantry door this Morn I slipt,
And from the Shelf a charming Crust I whipt;
Dennis was out, and I got hither safe;
And thou, my dear, shalt have the bigger half.

DERMOT

DERMOT.

When you saw Tady at long-bullets play,
You sat and lows'd him all the Sunshine Day.
How could you, Sheelah, listen to his Tales,
Or crack such Lice as his between your Nails?

SHEELAH.

When you with Oonah stood behind a Ditch,
I peept and saw you kiss the dirty Bitch.
Dermot, how could you touch those nasty Sluts!
I almost wish'd this Spud were in your Guts.

DERMOT,

If Oonah once I kiss'd, forbear to chide:
Her Aunt's my Gossip by my Father's Side:
But, if I ever touch her Lips again,
May I be doom'd for Life to weed in Rain.

SHEELAH.

Dermot, I swear, tho' Tady's Locks could hold
Ten Thousand Lice, and eve'ry Louse was gold,
Him on my Lap you never more should see;
Or may I lose my Weeding knife---and Thee.

DERMOT.

O, could I earn for thee, my lovely Lass,
A pair of Brogues to bear thee dry to Mass!
But see, where Norah with the Sowins comes---
Then let us rise, and rest our weary Bums.

Mary

Mary the Cook-Maid's

LETTER

T O

Dr. SHERIDAN.

WELL ; if ever I saw such another Man
since my Mother bound my Head,
You a Gentleman ! marry come up, I wonder where you were bred ?
I am sure such Words does not become a Man of your Cloth,
I would not give such Language to a Dog, faith and troth.
Yes ; you call'd my Master a Knave : Fie Mr.
Sheridan, 'tis a Shame
For a Parson, who shou'd know better Things to come out with such a Name.
Knave in your Teeth, Mr. Sheridan, 'tis both a Shame and a Sin,
And the Dean my Master is an honest Man than you and all your kin :
He has more goodness in his little Finger, than you have in your whole Body,
My Master is a parsonable Man, and not a spindle-shank'd hoddie-doddy.

And

And now whereby I find you would fain make an excuse,

Because my Master one Day in anger call'd you Goose.

Which, and I am sure I have been his Servant
four Years since October,

And he never call'd me worse than Sweetheart drunk or sober :

Not that I know his Reverence was ever con-
cern'd to my Knowledge,

Tho' you and your Come-rogues keep him out so late in your Colledge.

You say you will eat Grass on his Grave : a Christian eat Grass !

Whereby you now confels yourself to be a
Goose or an Ass :

But that's as much as to say, that my Master should die before ye,

Well, well, that's as God pleases, and I don't believe that's a true Story,

And so say I told you so, and you may go tell my Master ; what care I ?

And I don't care who knows it, 'tis all one to Mary.

Every body knows, that I love to tell Truth and shame the Devil,

I am but a poor Servant, but I think Gentle-folks should be civil.

26 The Cook-Maid's Letter, &c.

Besides, you found fault with our Vittles one
Day that you was here,

I remember it was on a Tuesday, of all Days in the Year.

And Saunders the Man says, you are always jesting and mocking,

Mary said he (one Day, as I was mending my Master's Stocking,)

My Master is so fond of that Minister that keeps the School,

I thought my Master a wise Man, but that Man makes him a Fool.

Saunders said I, I would rather than a Quart of Ale,

He would come into our Kitchen, and I would pin a Dish-clout to his Tail.

And now I must go, and get Saunders to direct
this Letter,

For I write but a sad Scrawl, but my Sister
Marget she writes better.

Well, but I must run and make the Bed before my Master comes from Pray'rs,

And see now, it strikes ten, and I hear him
coming up Stairs :

Whereof I cou'd say more to your Verses, if I
cou'd write written hand,

And so I remain in a civil way, your Servant
to comand

Mary.

A

A DIALOGUE

Between

Mad MULLINIX and TIMOTHY.

M. I Own 'tis not my Bread and Butter,
But prithee Tim, why all this Clutter?
Why ever in these raging Fits,
Damning to Hell the Jacobites?

When, if you search the Kingdom round,
There's hardly twenty to be found;

No, not among the Priests and Fryers.

T. 'Twixt you and me, G-- Damn the Lyars.

M. The Tories are gone ev'ry Man over
To our illustrious House of Hanover;
From all their Conduct this is plain;
And then-----

T. G-- Damn the Lyars again.
Did not an Earl but lately vote,
To bring in (I could cut his Throat)
Our whole Accounts of publick Debts?

M. Lord, how this frothy Coxcomb frets!

aside.)

T. Did not an able Statesman-B---
 This dang'rous horrid Motion dish-up
 As Popish Craft? Did he not rail on't?
 Shew Fire and Faggot in the Tail on't?
 Proving the Earl a grand Offender,
 And in a Plot for the Pretender?
 Whose Fleet, 'tis all our Friends Opinion,
 Was then embarking at Avignon.

These brangling Jars of Whig and Tory,
 Are stale, and worn as Troy-Town Story.
 The Wrong, 'tis certain, you were both in,
 And now you find you fought for nothing.
 Your Faction, when their Game was new,
 Might want such noisy Fools as you;
 But you, when all the Show is past,
 Resolve to stand it out the last;
 Like Martin Marral, gaping on,
 Not minding when the Song is done.
 When all the Bees are gone to settle,
 You clatter still your Brazen Kettle.
 The Leaders whom you lifted under,
 Have dropt their Arms, and seiz'd the Plunder,
 And when the War is past, you come
 To rattle in their Ears your Drum:
 And as that hateful hideous Grecian
Thersites (he was your Relation)
 Was more abhor'd and scorn'd by those
 With whom he serv'd, than by his Foes;
 So thou art grown the Detestation
 Of all thy Party through the Nation;

Thy peevish and perpetual Teazing,
With Plots, and Jacobites, and Treason ;
Thy busy, never-meaning Face,
Thy screw'd-up Front, thy State grimace.
Thy formal Nods, important Sneers,
Thy Whisp'rings foisted in all Ears,
(Which are, whatever you may think,
But Nonsense wrapt up in a flink)
Have made thy Presence, in a true Sense,
To thy own Side so damn'd a Nuisance,
That when they have you in their Eye,
As if the Devil drove, they fly.

T. My good Friend Mullinix forbear,
I vow to G-- you're too severe ;
If it could ever yet be known,
I took Advice, except my own,
It shou'd be yours : But D--- my Blood,
I must pursue the publick Good :
The Faction (is it not notorious ?)
Keck at the Memory of Glorious :
'Tis true, nor need I to be told,
My quondam Friends are grown so cold,
That scarce a Creature can be found,
To prance with me his Statue round.
The publick Safety, I foresee,
Henceforth depends alone on me ;
And while this vital Breath I blow,
Or from above, or from below,
I'll sputter, swagger, curse and rail,
The Tories Terror, Scourge, and Flail.

M. Tim, you mistake the Matter quite,
The Tories ! you are their Delight ;
And should you act a different Part,
Be grave and wise-- 'twou'd break their Heart.
Why, Tim, you have a Taste I know,
And often see a Puppet-show ;
Observe, the Audience is in Pain,
While Punch is hid behind the Scene ;
But when they hear his rusty Voice,
With what Impatience they rejoice !
And then they value not two Straws,
How Solomon decides the Cause,
Which the true Mother, which Pretender ;
Nor listen to the Witch of Endor ;
Shou'd Faustus with the Devil behind him,
Enter the Stage they never mind him ;
If Punch, to spur their Fancy, shows
In at the Door his monstrous Nose,
Then sudden draws it back again ;
O what a Pleasure mixt with Pain !
You ev'ry Moment think an Age,
'Till he appears upon the Stage :
And first his Bum you see him clap
Upon the Queen of Sheba's Lap :
The Duke of Lorrain drew his Sword,
Punch roaring run, and running roar'd,
Revil'd all People in his Jargon,
And sold the King of Spain a Bargain ;
St. George himself he plays the Wag on,
And mounts astride upon the Dragon ;

He

He gets a thousand Thumps and Kicks,
Yet cannot leave his Roguish Tricks;
In every Action thrusts his Nose,
The Reason why, no Mortal knows;
In doleful Scenes that break our Heart,
Punch comes, like you, and lets a F---t.
There's not a Puppet made of Wood,
But what wou'd hang him if they cou'd;
While teasing all, by all he's teaz'd,
How well are the Spectators pleas'd!
Who in the Motion have no Share,
But purely come to hear and stare;
Have no Concern for Sabra's Sake,
Which gets the better, Saint or Snake,
Provided Punch (for there's the Jest)
Be soundly mawl'd, and plague the rest.

Thus, Tim, Philosophers suppose,
The World consists of Puppet-shows;
Where petulant conceited Fellows
Perform the Part of Punchinelloes;
So at this Booth which we call Dublin,
Tim, thou'rt the Punch to stir up Trouble in;
You wriggle, fidge, and make a Rout,
Put all your Brother Puppets out,
Run on in a perpetual Round,
To teaze, perplex, disturb, confound,
Intrude with Monkey Grin and Clatter,
To interrupt all serious Matter,
Are grown the Nuisance of your Clan,
Who hate and scorn you to a Man;

But then, the Lookers-on, the Tories,
 You still divert with merry Stories ;
 They wou'd consent, that all the Crew
 Were hang'd, before they'd part with you.

But tell me, Tim, upon the Spot,
 By all this Coyl what hast thou got ?
 If Tories must have all the Sport,
 I fear you'll be disgrac'd at Court.

T. Got ? D----- my Blood, I frank my Letters,

Walk by my Place before my Betters,
 And simple as I now stand here,
 Expect in Time to be a P----- Got ? D----- me, why I got my Will !
 Ne'er hold my Peace, and ne'er stand still :
 I f---t with twenty Ladies by ;
 They call me Beast, and what care I ?
 I bravely call the Tories, Jacks,
 And Sons of Whores-- behind their Backs.
 But could you bring me once to think,
 That when I strut, and stare, and stink,
 Revile, and slander, fume and storm,
 Betray, make Oath, impeach, inform,
 With such a constant loyal Zeal,
 To serve my self and Common-weal,
 And fret the Tories Souls to Death,
 I did but lose my precious Breath,
 And when I damn my Soul to plague 'em,
 Am, as you tell me, but their May-game ;
 Consume

Consume my Vitals ! they shall know,
I am not to be treated so ;
I'd rather hang my self by half,
Than give those Rascals Cause to laugh.

But how, my Friend, can I endure,
Once so renown'd, to live obscure ?
No little Boys and Girls to cry
There's nimble Tim a passing by.
No more my dear delightful Way tread,
Of keeping up a Party-Hatred.
Will none the Tory Dogs pursue,
When thro' the Streets I cry Hallooe ?
Must all my D---mee's, Bloods, and Wounds,
Pass only now for empty Sounds ?
Shall Tory Rascals be elected,
Although I swear them disaffected ?
And when I roar, a Plot, a Plot,
Will our own Party mind me not ?
So qualified to swear and lye,
Will they not trust me for a Spy ?

Dear Mullinix, your good Advice
I beg, you see the Case is nice :
O, were I equal in Renown,
Like thee, to please this thankless Town !
Or bless'd with such engaging Parts,
To win the truant School-Boys Hearts !
Thy Virtues meet their just Reward, Attended by the Sable Guard.
Charm'd by thy Voice the 'Prentice drops
The Snow-ball destin'd at thy Chops.

Thy graceful Steps, and Col'nel's Air,
Allure the Cinder-picking Fair.

M. No more--- In Mark of true Affection,
I take thee under my Protection :
Thy Parts are good, 'tis not deny'd,
I wish they had been well apply'd.
But now observe my Counsel, (viz.)
Adapt your Habit to your Phyz ;
You must no longer thus equip ye,
As Horace says, optat Ephippia ;
(There's Latin too, that you may see How much improv'd by Dr. ———)
I have a Coat at home, that you-may-try,
'Tis just like this, which hangs by Geometry.
My Hat has much the nicer Air,
Your Block will fit it to a Hair ;
That Wig, I would not for the World
Have it so formal, and so curl'd,
'Twill be so oily and so sleek
When I have lain in it a Week !
You'll find it well prepar'd, to take
The Figure of Toupee or Snake.
Thus dress'd alike from Top to Toe,
That which is which 'tis hard to know,
When first in Publick we appear,
I'll lead the Van, keep you the Rear :
Be careful as you walk behind ;
Use all the Talents of your Mind,
Be studious well to imitate
My portly Motion, Mein and Gate ;

Mark

Mark my Address, and learn my Stile,
When to look scornful, when to smile,
Nor sputter out your Oaths so fast,
But keep your Swearing to the last.
Then at your Leisure we'll be witty,
And in the Streets divert the City :
The Ladies from the Windows gaping,
The Children all our Motions aping.
Your Conversation to refine,
I'll take you to some Friends of mine,
Choice Spirits, who employ their Parts,
To mend the World by useful Arts ;
Some cleansing hollow Tubes, to spy
Direct the Zenith of the Sky ;
Some have the City in their Care,
From noxious Steams to purge the Air ;
Some teach us in these dang'rous Days,
How to walk upright in our Ways ;
Some, whose reforming Hands engage,
To lash the Lewdness of the Age ;
Some for the publick Service go,
Perpetual Envoys to and fro ;
Whose able Heads support the Weight
Of twenty M-----rs of State :
We scorn, for Want of Talk, to jabber
Of Parties o'er our Bonny-Clabber :
Nor are we studious to enquire,
Who votes for Manours, who for Hire ;
Our Care is to improve the Mind,
With what concerns all human Kind ;

The various Scenes of mortal Life,
Who beats her Husband, who his Wife;
Or how the Bully at a Stroke
Knock'd down the Boy, the Lanthorn broke.
One tells the Rise of Cheese and Oatmeal,
Another when he got a hot Meal;
One gives Advice in Proverbs old,
Instructs us how to tame a Scold;
Or how by Almanacks 'tis clear,
That Herrings will be cheap this Year;

T. Dear Mullinix, I now lament,
My precious Time so long mispent,
By Nature meant for nobler Ends,
O, introduce me to your Friends!
For whom, by Birth, I was design'd,
'Till Politicks debas'd my Mind:
I give my self intire to you,
G-- d--- the Whigs and Tories too.

E P I T A P H

EPITAPH.

HERE continueth to rot
The Body of FRA---S CH---IS,
Who, with an INFLEXIBLE CONSTANCY and INIMITABLE UNIFORMITY of Life, PERSISTED,

In spite of AGE and INFIRMITIES
In the Practise of EVERY HUMANE VICE :
Excepting PRODIGALITY and HYPOCRISY.
His Insatiable AVARICE exempted him from the first,

His matchless IMPUDENCE from the second.
Nor was he more singular in the un-deviating Pravity of his Manners, than successful in Accumulating WEALTH.

For, without TRADE or PROFESSION,
Without TRUST of PUBLICK MONEY,
And without BRIBE-WORTHY SERVICE,
He acquired, or more properly Created,
A MINISTERIAL ESTATE.

He

He was the only Person of his Time,
 Who cou'd CHEAT without the Mask of HONESTY,
 Retain his Primæval MEANNESS when possefs'd of
 TEN THOUSAND a Year,
 And having daily deserv'd the GIBBET for what he did,
 Was at last condemn'd to it for what he could not do.

Oh indignant reader !
 Think not his Life Useless to Mankind !
 PROVIDENCE conniv'd at his execrable
 Designs,
 To give to After-AGES a conspicuous PROOF and EXAMPLE
 Of how small Estimation is EXORBITANT WEALTH in the Sight of GOD, by his bestowing it on the most UNWORTHY of ALL MORTALS.

Joannes jacet hic Mirandula----cætera norunt Et Tagus & Ganges---forsan & Antipodes.

Apply'd to F. C.
Here Francis Ch---s lies---Be civil !
 The rest God knows-- perhaps the Devil.

EPIGRAM.

EPIGRAM.

*P*eter complains, that God has given
 To his poor Babe a Life so short :
 Consider Peter, he's in Heaven ;
 'Tis good to have a Friend at Court.

Another.

*Y*OU beat your Pate, and fancy Wit will come :
 Knock as you please, there's no body at home.

EPI TAPH [of By Words.]

*H*ERE lies a round Woman, who thought mighty odd
 Every Word she e'er heard in this Church about God.
 To convince her of God the good Dean did endeavour,
 But still in her Heart she held Nature more clever.

Tho'

Tho' he talk'd much of Virtue, her Head always run

Upon something or other, she found better Fun,
For the Dame, by her Skill in Affairs Astronomical,

Imagin'd, to live in the Clouds but was comical.
In this World, she despis'd every Soul she met here,

And now she's in t'other, she thinks it but Queer.

EPIGRAM.

On seeing a worthy Prelate go out of Church in the Time of Divine Service, to wait on his Grace the D. of D----

LORD Pam in the Church (cou'd you think it) kneel'd down,

When told the Lieutenant was just come to Town,

His Station despising, unaw'd by the Place,
He flies from his God, to attend on his Grace:
To the Court it was fitter to pay his Devotion,
Since God had no Hand in his Lordship's Promotion

EPIGRAM

EPIGRAM from the FRENCH.

SIR, I admit your gen'ral Rule
That every Poet is a Fool:
But you yourself may serve to show it,
That every Fool is not a Poet.

EPI TAPH.

WELL then, poor G---- lies under ground!

So there's an end of honest Jack.
So little Justice^a here he found,
'Tis ten to one he'll ne'er come back.

EPIGRAM

EPIGRAM.

On the Toasts of the Kit-Cat Club,

Anno 1716.

WHence deathless Kit-Cat took its Name,
 Few Criticks can unriddle;
 Some say from Pastry Cook it came,
 And some from Cat and Fiddle;
 From no trim Beaus' its Name it boasts,
 Grey Statesman, or green Wits;
 But from this Pell-mell-Pack of Toasts,
 Of old Cats and young Kits.

To a LADY with the Temple of Fame.

WHAT's Fame with Men, by Custom of the Nation,
 Is call'd in Women only Reputation:
 About them both why keep we such a pother;
 Part you with one, and I'll renounce the other.

V E R S E S

VERSES

To be placed under the Picture of England's Arch-Poet: Containing a compleat Catalogue of his Works.

SEE who ne'er was or will be half read!
Who first sung 1 Arthur, then sung 2
Alfred,

Prais'd great 3 Eliza in God's anger,
'Till all true Englishmen cry'd, hang her!
Made William's Virtues wipe the bare A---
And hang'd up Malborough in 4 Arras :

Then hiss'd from Earth, grew Heav'nly quite ;

Made ev'ry Reader curse the 5 Light ;
Maul'd human Wit in one thick 6 Satyr,
Next in three Books, funk 7 human Nature,

1 Two Heroick Poems in Folio, twenty Books.

2 Heroick Poem in twelve Books.

3 Heroick Poem in Folio, ten Books.

4 Instructions to Vanderbank a Tapestry-Weaver.

5 Hymn to the Light.

6 Satyr against Wit.

7 Of the Nature of Man.

Un-did

44 Verses on England's Arch-Poet.

Un-did 8 Creation at a Jerk,
And of 9 Redemption made damn'd Work.

Then took his Muse at once, and dipt her Full in the Middle of the Scripture.
What Wonders there the Man grown old, did ?
Sternhold himself he out-Sternholded,
Made 10 David seem so mad and freakish,
All thought him just what thought King Achiz.
No Mortal read his 11 Salomon,
But judg'd Roboam his own Son.
Moses 12 he serv'd as Moses Pharaoh,
And Deborah, as She Sise-rah :
Made 13 Jeremy full fore to cry,
And 14 Job himself curse God and die.

What Punishment all this must follow ?
Shall Arthur use him like King Tollo ?
Shall David as Uriah slay him ?
Or dext'rous Deb'rah Sifera-him ?
Or shall Eliza lay a Plot,
To treat him like her Sister Scot ?

- 8 Creation, a Poem in seven Books.
- 9 The Redeemer, another Heroick Poem in six Books.
- 10 Translation of all the Psalms.
- 11 Canticles and Ecclesiast.
- 12 Paraphrase of the Canticles of Moses and Deborah,
 &c.
- 13 The Lamentations.
- 14 The whole Book of Job, a Poem in Folio.

Shall

Shall William dub his better End, *
Or Marlb'rough serve him like a Friend?
No, none of these----Heav'n spare his Life!
But fend him, honest Job, thy Wife.

* Kick him on the Breech, not Knight him on the Shoulder.

Dr.

Dr. Sw— to Mr. P—e,

While he was writing the Dunciad.

P*Ope* has the Talent well to speak,
But not to reach the Ear ;
His loudest Voice is low and weak,
The Dean too deaf to hear.

A while they on each other look,
Then diff'rent Studies chuse,
The Dean sits plodding on a Book,
Pope walks, and courts the Muse.

Now Backs of Letters, though design'd
For those who more will need 'em,
Are fill'd with Hints, and interlin'd,
Himself can hardly read 'em.

Each Atom by some other struck,
All Turns and Motion tries :
'Till in a Lump together stuck,
Behold a Poem rise !

Yet to the Dean his Share allot ;
He claims it by a Canon ;

That,

That, without which a Thing is not
Is, causa sine quâ non.

Thus, Pope, in vain you boast your Wit ;
For, had our deaf Divine
Been for your Conversation fit,
You had not writ a Line.

Of Prelate thus, for preaching fam'd,
The Sexton reason'd well,
And justly half the Merit claim'd
Because he rang the Bell.

BOUNCE

B O U N C E

T O

F O P.

An Epistle from a Dog at Twickenham to a Dog at Court.

TO thee sweet Fop, these Lines I send,
Who, tho' no Spaniel, am a Friend.
Tho', once my Tail in wanton Play,
Now frisking this and then that way,
Chanc'd, with a Touch of just the Tip,
To hurt your Lady-lap-dog-ship ;
Yet thence to think I'd bite your Head off !
Sure Bounce is one you never read of.

FOP ! you can dance, and make a Leg,
Can fetch and carry, cringe and beg,
And (what's the Top of all your Tricks)
Can stoop to pick up Strings and Sticks.
We Country Dogs love nobler Sport,
And scorn the Pranks of Dogs at Court.
Fye, naughty Fop ! where e'er you come
To f---t and p---fs about the Room,

To lay your Head in every Lap,
And, when they think not of you--- snap!
The worst that Envy, or that spite
E'er said of me, is, I can bite:
That idle Gypsies, Rogues in Rags,
Who poke at me, can make no Brags;
And that to towze such Things as flutter,
To honest Bounce is Bread and Butter.

While you, and every courtly Fop,
Fawn on the Devil for a Chop,
I've the Humanity to hate
A Butcher, tho' he brings me Meat;
And let me tell you, have a Nose,
(Whatever stinking Fops suppose)
That under Cloth of Gold or Tissue,
Can smell a Plaister, or an Issue.

Your pilf'ring Lord, with simple Pride,
May wear a Pick-lock at his Side;
My Master wants no Key of State,
For Bounce can keep his House and Gate.

When all such Dogs have had their Days,
As knavish Pams, and fawning Trays;
When pamper'd Cupids, beastly Veni's,
And motly, squinting Harlequini's, †

† Alii legunt Harlequini's.

Shall lick no more their Lady's Br---,
 But die of Looseness, Claps, or Itch :
 Fair Thames from either ecchoing Shore
 Shall hear and dread my manly Roar.

See Bounce, like Berecynthia, crown'd
 With thund'ring Offspring all around,
 Beneath, beside me, and a top,
 A hundred Sons ! and not one Fop.

Before my Children set your Beef,
 Not one true Bounce will be a Thief ;
 Not one without Permission feed,
 (Tho' some of J---n's hungry Breed)
 But whatsoe'er the Father's Race,
 From me they suck a little Grace.
 While your fine Whelps learn all to steal,
 Bred up by Hand on Chick and Veal.

My Eldest-born resides not far,
 Where shines great Strafford's glittering Star :
 My second (Child of Fortune !) waits
 At Burlington's Palladian Gates :
 A third majestically stalks
 (Happiest of Dogs !) in Cobham's Walks :
 One ushers Friends to Bathurst's Door ;
 One fawns, at Oxford's, on the Poor.

Nobles, whom Arms or Arts adorn,
 Wait for my Infants yet unborn.

None

None but a Peer of Wit and Grace,
Can hope a Puppy of my Race.

And O! wou'd Fate the Bliss decree
To mine (a Bliss too great for me)
That two, my tallest Sons, might grace
Attending each with stately Pace,
Iulus' Side, as erst Evander's, *
To keep off Flatt'ers Spies, and Panders,
To let no noble Slave come near,
And scare Lord Fannys from his Ear :
Then might a royal Youth, and true,
Enjoy at least a Friend--- or two :
A Treasure, which, of Royal Kind,
Few but himself deserve to find.

Then Bounce ('tis all that Bounce can crave)
Shall wag her Tail within the Grave.

* Virg. Æn. 8.

*On the Countess of B----- cutting
Paper.*

P*allas* grew vap'rish once and odd,
She would not do the least right thing,
Either for Goddess or for God,
Nor work, nor play, nor paint, nor sing.

Jove frown'd, and "Use (he cry'd) those Eyes
" So skilful, and those Hands so taper ;
" Do something exquisite, and wise ---
She bow'd, obey'd him and cut Paper.

This vexing him who gave her Birth,
Thought by all Heav'n a burning Shame,
What does she next, but bids on Earth
Her B---l---n do just the same.

Pallas you give yourself strange Airs ;
But sure you'll find it hard to spoil
The Sense and Taste of one that bears
The Name of Savil and of Boyle.

Alas! one bad Example shown,
How quickly all the Sex pursue!
See Madam! see, the Arts o'erthrown,
Between John Overton and You.

On a certain Lady at Court.

I Know the thing that's most uncommon;
(Envy be silent, and attend!)
I know a reasonable Woman,
Handsome and witty, yet a Friend.

Not warp'd by Passion, aw'd by Rumour,
Not grave thro' Pride, or gay thro' Folly,
An equal Mixture of good Humour,
And sensible soft Melancholy.

“Has she no Faults then (Envy says) Sir?”
Yes she has one, I must aver:
When all the World conspires to praise her,
The Woman's deaf, and does not hear.

*On the Countess of B----- cutting
Paper.*

P*allas* grew vap'rish once and odd,
She would not do the least right thing,
Either for Goddess or for God,
Nor work, nor play, nor paint, nor sing.

Jove frown'd, and "Use (he cry'd) those Eyes
" So skilful, and those Hands so taper ;
" Do something exquisite, and wise ---
She bow'd, obey'd him and cut Paper.

This vexing him who gave her Birth,
Thought by all Heav'n a burning Shame,
What does she next, but bids on Earth
Her B--l---n do just the same.

Pallas you give yourself strange Airs ;
But sure you'll find it hard to spoil
The Sense and Taste of one that bears
The Name of Savil and of Boyle.

Alas! one bad Example shown,
How quickly all the Sex pursue!
See Madam! see, the Arts o'erthrown,
Between John Overton and You.

On a certain Lady at Court.

I Know the thing that's most uncommon ;
(Envy be silent, and attend !)
I know a reasonable Woman,
Handsome and witty, yet a Friend.

Not warp'd by Passion, aw'd by Rumour,
Not grave thro' Pride, or gay thro' Folly,
An equal Mixture of good Humour,
And sensible soft Melancholy.

“ Has she no Faults then (Envy says) Sir ? ”
Yes she has one, I must aver :
When all the World conspires to praise her,
The Woman's deaf, and does not hear.

A
S O L D I E R
A N D A
S C H O L A R :
O R, A

LADY'S Judgment on those two Characters.

T H U S spoke to my Lady the Knight full of Care,

Let me have your Advice in a weighty Affair :
'This Hamilton's Bawn, while it sticks on my Hand,

I lose by the House what I get by the Land ;
But how to dispose of it to the best Bidder,
For a Barrack, or Malt-house, we now must consider :

First, let me suppose, I make it a Malt-house,
Here, I have computed the Profit will fall t'us ;
There's

There's nine hundred Pounds for Labour and Grain ;

I increase it to Twelve ; so Three Hundred remain ;

A handsome Addition for Wine and good Cheer,
Three Dishes a Day, and ten Hogheads a Year :
With a Dozen large Vessels my Vaults shall be stor'd :

No little scrub Joint shall e'er come on my Board ;

And you, and the Dean, no more shall combine,
To stint me at Night to one Bottle of Wine :

Nor shall I, for his Humours, permit you to purloin

A Stone and a half of good Beef from my Surloin.

If I make it a Barrack, the Crown is my Tenant :

My Dear, I have ponder'd again, and again on't.

In Poundage and Drawback, I lose half my Rent,

Whatever they give me, I must be content,

Or join with the Court in every Debate ;

And rather than that, I would lose my Estate.

Thus ended the Knight: Thus began the meek Wife ;

It must, and it shall be a Barrack, my Life :

I am grown a mere Mopus, no Company comes,

But a Rabble of Tenants, and rusty dull Rums ;

With Parsons, what Lady can keep her self clean ?

I am all over dawb'd, when I sit by the * Dean.

* Dean of St. Patrick's.

But if you will give us a Barrack, my Dear,
 The Captain, I'm sure, will always come here.
 I then shall not value his Deanship a Straw;
 For the Captain, I'll warrant, will keep him in Awe.

Or should he pretend to be brisk and alert,
 We'll tell him that Chaplains should not be so pert;

That Men of his Coat should be minding their Prayers,

And not among Ladies to give themselves Airs.

Thus argu'd my Lady, but argu'd in vain;
 The Knight his Opinion resolv'd to maintain.
 But Hannah, who listen'd to all that was past,
 And could not endure so vulgar a Taste,
 As soon as her Ladyship call'd to be dress'd,
 Cry'd, Madam, why surely my Master's possess'd:
 Sir Arthur the Master! how fine it would Sound?

I'd rather the Bawn were sunk under Ground:
 But, Madam, I guess'd there would never come Good,

When I saw him so often with * Darby and Wood.

And now my Dream's out; for I was a-dream'd,
 That I saw a huge Rat; O dear, how I scream'd!

* Sir A——— A———'s Receiver, and one of his Tenants.

And

And after, methought, I lost my new Shoes,
And Molly, she said, I should hear some ill
News.

Dear Madam, had you but the Spirit to teaze,
You might have a Barrack whenever you please,
And, Madam, I always believ'd you so stout,
That for twenty Denials, you would not give out.

If I had a Husband like him, I protest,
Till he gave me my Will, I would give him no Rest,

And rather than come in the same Pair of Sheets
With such a cross Man, I wou'd lie in the Streets.
But, Madam, I beg, you'll contrive, and invent,
And worry him out, till he gives his Consent.
Dear Madam, whene'er on a Barrack I think,
An I were to be hang'd, I can't sleep a Wink,
(For if a new Crotchet comes into my Brain,
I can't get it out tho' I'd never so fain.)

I fancy already, a Barrack contriv'd
At Hamilton's Bawn, and the Troop is arriv'd:
Of this, to be sure, Sir Arthur has warning,
And waits on the Captain betimes in the Morning.

Now see when they meet, how their Honours behave-----

Noble Captain, your Servant----- Sir Arthur your Slave.

You honour me much——The Honour is mine.
 'Twas a sad rainy Night——But the Morning is fine.

Pray how does my Lady? ——My Wife's at your Service,

I think I have seen her Picture at Jervais's.

Good-morrow, good Captain —— I'll wait on you down.

You shan't stir a Foot——You'll think me a Clown.

For all the World, Captain, not half an Inch farther——

You must be obey'd; your Servant, Sir Arthur.

My humble Respects to my Lady unknown---

I hope you will use my House as your own.

“ Go bring me my Smock, and leave off your “ Prate,

“ Thou hast certainly gotten a Cup in thy Pate;

Pray, Madam be quiet, what was it I said;

You had like to have put it quite out of my Head.

Next Day, to be sure, the Captain will come,
 At the Head of his Troop, with his Trumpet and Drum:

Now, Madam, observe how he marches in State,

The Man with the Kettle-Drum enters the Gate,

Dub,

Dub, dub, a dub, dub; the Trumpeters follow,
Tantara, Tantara; while all they Boys halloo.
See, now comes the Captain, all dawb'd with Gold Lace :

O law! the sweet Gentleman, look in his Face!
And see how he rides like a Lord of the Land,
And the fine Flaming-Sword he holds in his Hand !

And his Horse, the dear Creature, it prances and rears,

With Ribbands in Knots, at his Tail and his Ears.

At last comes the Troop at the Word of Command,

Drawn up in our Court, 'till the Captain cries, Stand,

Your Ladyship lifts up the Sash to be seen,
(For sure I had dizen'd you out like a Queen)
The Captain, to shew he is proud of the Favour, Looks up to the Window, and cocks up his Beaver.

His Beaver is cockt, pray, Madam, mind that ;
(For a Captain of Horse never takes off his Hat ;
Because he has never a Hand that is idle,
For the Right holds the Sword, and the Left holds the Bridle.

Then he flourishes thrice his Sword, in the Air,
As a Compliment due to a Lady so fair :

(How I tremble to think of the Blood it has spilt!)
 Then he lowers the Point ; then he kisses the Hilt.
 Your Ladyship smiles, and thus you begin :

“ Pray, Captain, be pleas'd to alight, and walk
 “ in.

The Captain salutes you, with Congee profound ;
 And your Ladyship curtsies half-way to the Ground.

“ Kit, run for your Master, and bid him come
 “ to us ;

“ I'm sure he'll be proud of the Honour you do “ us :

“ And, Captain, you'll do us the Favour to stay

“ And take a short Dinner here with us to day ;

“ You're heartily welcome ; but as for good “ Cheer,

“ You are come in the very worst Time of the “ Year.

“ Had I but expected so worthy a Guest---

Lord, Madam, your Ladyship sure is in Jest :

You banter me, Madam, the Kingdom must grant----

“ You Officers, Captain, are so complaisant.

“ Hilt, Hussy, I think I hear Somebody coming----

No, Madam, 'tis only Sir Arthur a humming.

To shorten my Tale, (for I hate a long Story)

The Captain at Dinner, appears in his Glory.

The

The * Dean and the † Doctor have humbled their Pride ;

For the Captain's intreated to sit by your Side.
And because he's their Betters, you carve for him first ;

The Parsons, for Envy, are ready to burst.

The Servants amaz'd are scarce ever able
To keep off their Eyes as he sits at the Table.

And Molly and I have thrust in our Nose,
To peep at the Captain in all his fine Cloaths.
Dear, Madam, 'be sure, he's a fine-spoken
Man ;

Do but hear, on the Clergy, how glib his Tongue ran.

“ And Madam, said he, if such Dinners you “ give,

“ You'll never want Parsons as long as you live ;

“ I ne'er knew a Parson without a good Nose ;

“ But the Devil's as welcome where-ever he “ goes.

“ G--- d---- me, they bid us reform and re“ pent ;

“ But, Z-----ds, by their Looks, they never “ keep Lent.

“ Mr. Curate, for all your grave Looks, I'm “ afraid,

“ You cast a Sheep's Eye on her Ladyship's “ Maid :

* Dr. Swift.

† Dr. Jenny.

“ I wish

- " I wish she would lend you her lilly-white
" Hand,
" In mending your Gown, and smoothing your " Band.
(" For the Dean was so shabby, and look'd like
" a Ninny,
" That the Captain suppos'd he was Curate to " Fenny.)
" Whenever you see a Cassock and Gown,
" An hundred to one but it covers a Clown.
" Observe how a Parson comes into a Room:
" G--- d---- me, he hobbles as bad as my
" Groom,
" A Scholar, when just from the College broke
" loose,
" Can hardly tell how to cry Bo to a Goose.
" Your Novids, and Bluturks, and Omers, and " Stuff;
" By G--, they don't signify this Pinch of Snuff.
" To give a young Gentleman right Education,
" The Army's the very best School in the Nation.
" My School-master call'd me a Dunce and a " Fool;
" But at Cuffs, I was always the Cock of the " School.
" I never could take to my Books for the Blood
" o'me.
" And the Puppy confess he expected no Good
" o'me.

" Now,

“ Now, Madam you’ll think it a strange thing
“ to say,
“ But the Sight of a Book makes me sick to “ this Day.

Never since I was born, did I hear so much Wit ;
And, Madam, I laugh’d, till I thought I should split.
So then you look’d scornful, and sniff’d at the Dean :
As who should say, “ Now am I skinny and lean ?
But he durst not so much as once open his Lips :
And the Doctor was plaguily down in the Hips.

Thus merciless Hannah run on in her Talk,
Till she heard the Dean call, “ Will your Lady-“ ship walk ?

Her Ladyship answers--I’m just coming down.
Then turning to Hannah, and forcing a Frown,
(Altho’ it was plain, in her Heart she was glad ;)
Cry’d, Hussy, why sure, the Wench is gone mad :
How could these Chimera’s get into your Brains ;
Come hither, and take this old Gown for your Pains,

But

But the Dean if this Secret should get to his Ears,

Will never have done with his Jibes and his Jeers.

For your Life, not a Word of this Matter I charge you ;

Give me but a Barrack, a Fig for the Clergy.

TO

Doctor D—L—Y

ON THE

LIBELS

Writ against him.

AS some raw Youth in Country bred,
To Arms by Thirst of Honour led,
When at a Skirmish first he hears
The Bullets whistling round his Ears,
Will duck his Head aside, will start,
And feel a trembling at his Heart :
Till, 'scaping oft' without a Wound
Lessens the Terror of the Sound :
Fly Bullets now as thick as Hops,
He runs into a Cannon's Chops.
An Author thus who pants for Fame
Begins the World with Fear and Shame,
When

When first in Print, you see him dread
 Each Pot-gun level'd at his Head :
 The Lead yon Critick's Quill contains,
 Is destin'd to beat out his Brains.
 As if he heard loud Thunders roll,
 Cries, Lord have Mercy on his Soul,
 Concluding, that another Shot
 Will strike him dead upon the Spot.
 But, when with squibbing, flashing, popping,
 He cannot see one Creature dropping :
 That, missing Fire, or missing Aim,
 His Life is safe, I mean his Fame,
 The Danger past, takes Heart of Grace,
 And looks a Critick in the Face.

Though Splendor gives the fairest Mark
 To poison'd Arrows from the Dark,
 Yet, * in your self when smooth and round,
 They glance aside without a Wound.

'Tis said the Gods try'd all their Art,
 How, Pain they might from Pleasure part ;
 But little could their Strength avail,
 Both still are fast'ned by the Tail.
 Thus, Fame and Censure with a Tether
 By Fate are always link'd together.

Why will you aim to be preferr'd,
 In Wit before the common Herd?

* In seipso totus teres atque rotundus.

And

And yet, grow mortify'd and vext,
To pay the Penalty annext.

'Tis Eminence makes Envy rise,
As fairest Fruits attract the Flyes.
Shou'd stupid Libels grieve your Mind,
You soon a Remedy may find:
Lie down obscure like other Folks
Below the Lash of Snarlers Jokes.
Their Faction is five hundred odds,
For, ev'ry Coxcomb lends them Rods;
And sneers as learnedly as they,
Like Females o'er their Morning Tea.

You say, the Muse will not contain,
And write you must, or break a Vein:
Then, if you find the Terms too hard,
No longer my Advice regard:
But raise your Fancy on the Wing;
The Irish Senate's Praises sing:
How jealous of the Nation's Freedom,
And, for Corruptions how they weed 'em;
How each the Publick Good pursues,
How far their Hearts from private Views;
Make all true Patriots up to Shoe-boys
Huzza their Brethren at the Blue-boys.
And dread no more the Rage of Grub;
You then may soon be of the Club.

How

How oft' am I for Rhime to seek ?
 To dress a Thought, I toyl a Week :
 And then, how thankful to the Town,
 If all my Pains will earn a Crown.
 Whilst, ev'ry Critick can devour
 My Work and me in half an Hour.
 Would Men of Genius cease to write,
 The Rogues must die for Want of Spight,
 Must die for want of Food and Rayment,
 If Scandal did not find them Payment.
 How chearfully the Hawkers cry
 A Satire, and the Gentry buy !
 While my hard-labour'd Poem pines
 Unfold upon the Printer's Lines.

A Genius in the Rev'rend Gown
 Must ever keep its Owner down :
 'Tis an unnatural Conjunction,
 And spoils the Credit of the Function.
 Round all your Brethren cast your Eyes ;
 Point out the surest Men to rise :
 That Club of Candidates in Black,
 The least deserving of the Pack,
 Aspiring, factious, fierce and loud,
 With Grace and Learning unendow'd,
 Will sooner coyn a Thousand Lyes
 Than suffer Men of Parts to rise :
 They croud about Preferment's Gate,
 And press you down with all their Weight.

For,

For, as of old, Mathematicians
Were by the Vulgar thought Magicians ;
So Academick dull Ale-drinkers
Pronounce all Men of Wit, Free-thinkers.

Wit, as the chief of Virtue's Friends,
Disdains to serve ignoble Ends.
Observe what Loads of stupid Rhimes
Oppress us in corrupted Times :
What Pamphlets in a Court's Defence
Shew Reason, Grammar, Truth, or Sense ?
For, though the Muse delights in Fiction,
She ne'er inspires against Conviction.
Then keep your Virtue still unmixt,
And let not Faction come betwixt.
By Party steps no Grandeur clime at,
Tho' it would make you England's Primate :
First learn the Science to be dull,
You then may soon your Conscience lull ;
If not, however seated high,
Your Genius in your Face will fly.

When Jove was, from his teeming Head,
Of Wits fair Goodness brought to Bed,
There follow'd at his Lying-in
For After-birth a Sooterkin ;
Which, as the Nurse pursu'd to kill,
Attain'd by Flight the Muses Hill ;
There in the Soil began to root,
And litter'd at Parnassus' Foot.

From

70 To Doctor D—L—V, on the

From hence the Critick Vermin sprung
With Harpy Claws and Pois'nous Tongue.
Who fatten on Poetick Scraps,
Too cunning to be caught in Traps.
Dame Nature, as the Learned show,
Provides each Animal its Foe :
Hounds hunts the Hare, the wily Fox
Devours your Geese, the Wolf your Flocks ;
Thus Envy pleads a nat'ral Claim
To persecute the Muses Fame ;
On Poets in all Times abusive,
From Homer down to Pope inclusive.

Yet, what avails it to complain ?
You try to take Revenge in vain.
A Rat your utmost Rage defies
That safe behind the Wainscot lies :
Say, did you ever know by Sight
In Cheese an individual Mite ?
Shew me the same numerick Flea,
That bit your Neck but yesterday.
You then may boldly go in Quest
To find the Grubstreet Poet's Nest.
What Spunging-House in dread of Jail
Receives them while they wait for Bayl :
What Ally they are nestled in,
To flourish o'er a Cup of Gin :
Find the last Garrat where they lay,
Or Cellar, where they starve to Day.

Suppose

Suppose you had them all trepann'd
With each a Libel in his Hand,
What Punishment would you inflict?
Or call 'em Rogues or get 'em kickt?
These they have often try'd before;
You but oblige 'em so much more:
Themselves would be the first to tell,
To make their Trash the better sell.

You have been Libel'd--- Let us know
What senseless Coxcomb told you so.
Will you regard the Hawker's Cryes
Who in his Titles always lyes?
Whate'er the noisy Scoundrel says
It might be something in your Praise:
And, Praise bestow'd in Grub-street Rhimes,
Would vex one more a thousand Times.
Till Blockheads blame, and Judges praise,
The Poet cannot claim his Bays.
On me, when Dunces are satyrick,
I take it for a Panegyrick.
Hated by Fools, and Fools to hate,
Be that my Motto, and my Fate.

F I N I S.

*BOOKS printed for BENJAMIN
MOTTE, at the Middle Temple-Gate, Fleetstreet.*

TR A V E L S into several Remote Nations of the World ; In four Parts. By Lemuel Gulliver, First a Surgeon, and then a Captain of several Ships, 2 Vols. 12mo.

A Tale of a Tub, written for the universal Improvement of Mankind. To which is added, an Account of a Battle between the Ancient and Modern Books in St. James's Library. The Eighth Edition. With the Author's Apology and Explanatory Notes, by W. W-t-t-n, B. D. and others.

Hudibras. In three Parts. Written in the Time of the late Wars. Corrected and Amended, with Additions. To which are added, An-notations, and an exact Index to the Whole.
Adorned with a new Sett of Cuts designed and engraved by Mr. Hogarth.

A Dissertation on Reading the Classics, and forming a just Style. Written in the Year 1709.
and addressed to the Right Honourable *John Lord
Roos*, the present Duke of Rutland. By Henry Felton, D. D. Principal of Edmund Hall, Oxon, and Chaplain to his Grace the Duke of Rutland.
The Fourth Edition, with some Alterations and Additions.

Essays upon several Moral Subjects. In four Vols. By Collier, M. A.

